ENGLISH LAUDED FOR-WAR ATTITUDE

Edward Russell Accused of Warping American View by Misrepresentation.

Ruth Wright Kauffman Describes Conditions From Personal Observation and Feels British Are Done Grave Injustice.

BY RUTH WRIGHT KAUFFMAN. NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Is there a def-inite intent on the part of certain persons maliciquely to misrepresent Eng-

As an American woman, not of the first, second or third generations, who has just returned from residence in London and who has had exceptional opportunities to see into the heart of England, from persons of great importance to persons of great poverty, I feel I must try to put right a few unwarranted misunderstandings.

I have kept meeting nearly every day since my return, in newspaper print, statements of one sort and another against England, and though I do not wish to think these inspired, at least I believe that the fair-minded of the American process. the American press will grant a hear-ing to the other side.

Russel's Attacks Answered.

"France says England is not doing her share." says a correspondent of the New York Evening Mail. "England saved France! That's fine faking." declares Edward Russell in an article in Pearson's Magazine. As one without military knowledge, I cannot speak of England from a military point of view; but I know a good deal about her from a human point of view, and what statements of Mr. Russell's I shall attempt to answer, I answer, knowing what I am talking about.

"All the theaters are open and well attended; money was never more plentiful nor spent more freely.

Children neglected and unfed while their mothers lay drunk on the floor, clutching the last shilling of a separation-allowance.

The British press, under the compulsion of the wooden-headed censor, has been chiefly engaged in misrepresenting to the British people the actual condition of their affairs."

Assertions Declared False. Russell's Attacks Answered.

Assertions Declared False. There is just enough of the odor of fruth about this to give it the full smell of truth. Yet it is false.

I admire Charles Edward Russell's work. All I can pit against the clever writing of a good craftsman and an efficient politician are the unvarnished statements of fact.

of censor referred to. I spent, within a few weeks, the better part of a day in the country-house of the originator of the British censorship. Sir Frederick E. Smith. I had no reason to doubt his word when he told me of the feverish origins of a censorship in a country whose press and private uterances have always been as unhampered as our own, when he gave me instances of the 70 ruinous cablegrams fortunately stopped — among others doubtless that were legitimate—in the first week of the war, and hinted at the prevention, through the efforts of this careful supervision, of more than one disaster similar to that of the Lustiania.

I believe that he spoke truthfully me, but it was not apathetic poverty. Where the children were ragged, their faces were clean, their was tightly plaited, a ribbon was around their waist or a necktie at their collar; there was something to indicate a spirit of attention. As Mr. Crooks put it:

them with extra comforts, and the cost of living is of necessity increased by war conditions. There is the spirit of work everywhere. Far from drunkenness and lixury, work, which is not sister to case, predominates. There is no lixury in England how, not even among those poor who have been spoken of as relling in the wenith of $3 and $4 a week of government maintenance. Let any fair-minded American who wishes to talk authoritatively of the present condition of London's poor, do as I did, go from door to door and really learn of these women no obstacle was set in my way, none will be set in his.

Riga, Russia's most important port on the Baltic, must be taken at all costs, and the German general staff has assigned General von Beseler, the conqueror of Antwerp and Novo-Gtorgievsk, and known popularly in the fatherland as the "Battering Ram," to smnsh his way through the Russian lines and capture the city. The latest announcement from Berlin says that he is battling for the possession of Friedrichstadt, about 20 miles south of Riga, General von Beseler was last mentioned as Governor of all Russian territory occupied by the Germans and due to his former triumphs he was placed in command of the campaign against the Russian port.

The actors are working at greatly cut salaries, and generally several times a week play to charity houses. GREEK PROTEST WINS OUT Germany Forced to Realize if Relations With United States Were Cut Off It Might Have Great Moral Effect in Balkans.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN, WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A great dipomatic game, involving the Balkan states, which undoubtedly will have a otent influence upon the result of the European war, is being played by the belligerent powers.
That game involved the United States.

though the American people have been only slightly aware of it, as a result of developments growing out of the submarine controversy, now so happily settled by Germany's surrender. Germany was forced to realize that if this Government broke off diplomatic relations a moral effect would be produced in the Balkans which might cause those nations to join the allies. She had comparatively little to fear from this country, but she appreciated the powerful assistance her enemies would receive from a union with the Balkan peoples. So one of her reasons for abandoning the methods of submarine warfare to which the United States objected was the Balkan situation.

Developments of Great Interest. The developments in the negotia-tions with the Balkan states are there-ore of direct interest to the American eople. They are necessarily of greater aportance to the belligerents. The Oregonian correspondent has learned the facts in connection with these negotiations.

Shortly after the German and Austro-Hungarian forces began their tremendous drive into Russia the allied powers approached Buigaria and asked what compensation she would desire in order to took them. to Join them.

Hulgaria's Course Doubtful.

Bulgarla's Course Doubtful.

Up to that time Bulgaria had been pursuing a polley inclining to the central powers. Unaware of what she would do and apprehensive that she might throw in her lot with Germany and Austro-Hungary, she paralyzed Greece and Roumania. Neither of these countries cared to enter into hostilities with their flanks exposed.

The allies understood there was basis for this fear. So, during the month of July, they sought to dissipate it by securing the support of Bulgaria.

W. H. Eccles Lays Plans After $100,000 Fire Loss.

EMPLOYES ALL FIND WORK

Early Morning Blaze at Baker City by Heroic Work of Firemen Is Kept From Spreading to MII-Hon-Dollar Lumber Yards.

BAKER. Or., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Before the fire that destroyed the plant of the W. H. Eccles Lumber Company, with a loss of nearly $100,000, was completely extinguished early this morning, W. H. Eccles, president of the company, announced that because of the great rush of orders the plant would be hurried to reconstruction so that it would be running again within three weeks.

By heroic work firemen and citizens prevented the blaze, which started at 12:20 o'clock this morning when a spark-from the boiler-room ignited the sawdust pile, from spreading to the entire South Baker district with its more than $1,000,000 in plants and lumber. The Eccles plant burned like tinder and the planing-mil, box factory and lumber sheds were wiped out in an hour and a half. Six O.-W. R. & N. boxcars, two loaded with lumber, were also lost.
