RELATIONS STRAINED

Washington Gets Oregon's $3. Then Declines to Honor Extradition Papers.

G. P. ROSSMAN IS WANTED

Long-Range Diplomatic Negotiations Are Conducted by Cable. Local Constable Is Minus Prisoner and Fee.

"Says the Governor of Washington to the Governor of Oregon—"
Strained diplomatic relations between the two states may result, but so far as general mobilization of troops along the Columbia River has been ordered by the war department of either Oregon or Washington.

The affair reached a crisis yesterday when Governor Lister refused to recognize Governor Withycombe's extradition papers for the return of George P. Rossman from Vancouver.

Also, there's a little money matter involved. Washington has $3 that belongs to Oregon. They may return it, but then, again, they may forget to do so.

Says the Governor of Washington.

Says the Governor of Washington (or rather his private secretary) to the Governor of Oregon (or rather Jimmy McCallough, Deputy Constable, and, for the present, State Agent): Oregon has established the precedent of refusing to return prisoners to this state unless an indictment has been returned against them. So we can't do any better than follow suit.

Diplomatic Form Used.

This was clothed in diplomatic lan-guage, of course, but that was the effect of the ultimatum.

effect of the ultimatum.

Two days ago it looked as though the Rossman incident would be smoothed over. Mr. Rossman had been convicted of a felony and had promised to leave Oregon and never come back. But before he went he rented some furniture and then sold it, according to the officers. This constituted larceny by bailee, and a complaint was issued. But he had fled to the protecting wing of the Governor of Washington.

Two days ago the following cablegram (under the Columbia River it's a cable) was received from the Governor of Washington.

Requisition is Promised.

"Extradition papers received and OK'd by Attorney-General. Requisition will lasue upon receipt of $3$ made payable to my order. Kindly send by Western Union. Heating in this case is set for Saturday morning."

The three dollars was sent, the hearing was held, and then the gubernatorial bomb was flung across the placid waters of the Columbia. Rossman could not be extradited. There were several reasons but the chief one, according to State Agent McCullough, over the long distance cablephone, was as a retaliatory measure. Oregon had refused to return several Washington refugees because they hadn't been indicated.

The captain of the Vancouver ferry towned by Oregon capital) said last night that he had not been warned to look out for Washington submarines.

ROAD LAW IS CRITICISED

Roseburg Merchants Object to Inability to Aid Rural Districts.

BOSEBURG, Or., Sept. 11.—(Special.)
At a meeting of the Roseburg Merchants' Association held here last night its members went on record as criticising the so-called municipal road district law. This law makes it impossible for a municipality to aid in the construction or improvement of a road outside its boundaries. It was argued that this law would have a tendency to injure the rural districts and especially those contiguous to incorporated towns.

Governor's Trophy Match Is Sh in Pouring Rain-Executive Is Present and Sees Third Infantry Triumph.

Governor Withycombe was on the lackamas rifle range yesterday and ave the order to fire when the conestants for the Governor's trophy depped to the mark. The match was shot in a pouring rain, and the Governor shared the fate of the soldiers—ernor shared the fate of the soldiers—wet clothes.

The Governor's trophy was shot for by teams from the Coast Artillery and Third Infantry, composed of eight men from each. For the first time in a number of years the trophy was carried away by the picked men from the Third Infantry.

The state championship team match in Class A was won by the Fourth Company, Coast Artillery, of Roseburg. Twelve teams of four men each composed Class A.

The Roseburg team made a score of 1151 out of a possible 1300. Second to the winners of Class B. Company A. of McMinnville, stood first, and the company of artillery from Ashland was awarded second place. This was contested and the matter was referred to the executive officer for a decision. The protest has not yet been decided. At the conclusion of the state shoot, the members of the teams present received their pay. All left the range yesterday, with the exception of 30 the Orpheum circuit, telegraphed greetings yesterday to Carl Reiter, manager of the Portland Orpheum, which will open this afternoon under the exclusive management of the circuit of which Mr. Beck is the executive head. In his message Mr. Beck said:

"Every effort will be made to make the Portland Orpheum the banner house of the circuit. It is a beautiful theater—one of the finest in the West—and it is intended that nothing but the highest-class vaudeville will be presented. Every important act on the circuit will be engaged for the Portland house and if there is complaint from one of the quarter of a million people in Portland I shail be more than surprised. We want the people of Portland to compare the show at the Orpheum Theater with others they have seen. We are prepared to abide by their comparison. There will be no better show on the Orpheum circuit than right in the Portland Orpheum, and that means the most famous vaudeville artists in the world will be seen in Portland."

The advance booking sheets now on file at the Orpheum show that many stars of the vaudeville, dramatic and operatic realm are to visit Portland defore the end of this year. Principal among the notables on the list is Gertrude Hoffman, who, with her company of 60 artists, will present "Sumurun," a wordless play in eight scenes, the staging of which occupies one hour.

"Sumurun" is said to be the greatest production ever attempted for vaudeville. In some of the acenes the members of the company, in gorgeous Oriental costumes, walk upon the stage from the alsies of the theater. Miss Hoffman carries her own musical director, stage manager, electricians, wardrobe women and property men. "Sumurum" traversing the Orpheum circuit with the same attention to detail that marks the tour of a big road company. "Sumurum" is written from Thee Tales of Arabian Nightis" and the glamor of the Far East is dazzling in every scene.

Roshanara, celebrated exponent of the dances of the Hindustan, will play a return engagement over the Orpheum circuit soon. "Roshanara spent her childhood in India, where her father, an English army officer, was stationed. In several of her dances Roshanara imitates the movements of smakes with her arms and it was her artistry in that speciality that won the attention of the world.

Caroline White, former prima donna of the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company, also is on the way to Portiand via the Orpheum circuit. Miss White was the creator of the leading roles of "The Secrets of Suxanne" and "The Jewels of the Madonna" and is more of the Madonna" and is noted particularly for her great success is "The Girl of the Golden West.
