OREGON HAS PLAN TO MODIFY ATHLETICS

First Step to Control All Intercollegiate Contests Is Believed Under Way.

BAR IS UP FOR FRESHMEN

Faculty Committee Hard at Work Behind Closed Doors, Drawing Up Modifications to Regulate Athletic Activity.

BY LEO J. MALARKEY. UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene. Oct. 9.—(Special.)—What is thought to the first definite step in the modification of intercollegiate athletics is under way on the varsity campus.

The Oregon faculty has sanctioned the development of a regular freshman football team and the organization of such is now a reality. Games scheduled for the "frosh" have as yet not assumed any firm dates, but there is every rea-any firm dates, but there is every reason to believe that the Oregon Aggles, Albany College and The Dalles High School will appear on the playing roster of the Oregon '12 class.

According to faculty ruling there is to be only one game played away from Eugene by the freshmen, and that one will be confined to Coach Peavy's 'rooks' at Corvallis. Plans now are to compete in two contests, one in Eugene and the other in Corvallis.

Freshmen Barred, With Exceptions.

Freshmen trying out for the Oregon eleven are barred from participating with the men of the varsity squad unless they are deemed physically fit by Athletic Director Hayward or Head Coach Bezdek. To date, regular members of the "green" aspirants have numbered as high as 18, and the big feature of the whole affair is that scarcely a one of them has had previous football experience or has been a star in their respective high schools.

Coach Bezdek said: "The whipping together of a freshmen team is a big factor in football. It has its good points, inasmuch as it will teach men the game who haven't had previous experience and it will enable them to compete against teams of their own weight and class.

"This lessens the chances of injury and opens the athletic field to a score of yourseters who would never becare. Freshmen Barred, With Exceptions.

and opens the athletic field to a scor of youngsters who would never be per-mitted to don a football uniform if they were intending to turn out for varsity

Statistics have proved that the average freshman entering the university or college is not physically fit to undergo the rigors of a varsity football season. Most boys at that age are in the process of physical development, to which big-league ball on the gridlron would be a detriment rather than a help; consequently a year on a class and the second of the second o iron would be a detriment rather than a help; consequently a year on a class eleven is considered the right thing for the growing youth rather than the bruises of a varsity campaign.

Of course the argument protesting against a freshman rule, in which the smallness of the Western colleges' student bodies is always advanced as a trump card is usually made.

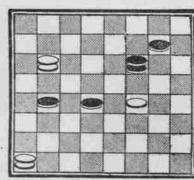

It seems that a freshman rule observed by all conference colleges would be favorable, even if the student regise favorable, even if the student regis

Plan Is to Instill Class Pride.

Rumored plans are to instill a spirit of class pride into the various scholastic organizations and at the same time appoint managers for the varied classes who will call meetings and demand an election of captains of the class teams. A committee of seven faculty members has been at work behind closed doors such afternoon of the next week doors each afternoon of the past week drawing up modifications and plans for the regulation of intercollegiate athletics at the State University. Data has been collected from every source and the problem has received a thor-ough investigation to date. Unlookedfor calls to other cities where members of the committee are performing ex-tension-school duties caused a post-ponement in the presentation of col-lected facts until Monday.

HINT TO GOLFERS.

Harry Vardon has a few words to say to the middle-aged or elderly individual who is about to take up the game of golf that smack of wisdom. He says:

"He should abstain altogether from contesting matches for two or three months. Instead of engaging his rounds he should devote his spare hours entirely to learning the true golf swing. If he adopts this measure there is no reason why he should not lay the foundation for a scratch form. the foundation for a scratch form, By no other means can he hope to become a really good player."

INTEREST DIES IN BATTLING NELSON

Public Cares Not When He Offers Free Show and Dane Is Petulant.

DAYS OF OLD FORGOTTEN

Jim Coffroth's Luck Seems to Be Gone-He Fails as Politician and at Fair-Willie Ritchle Expects Busy Winter.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 9.—(Special.)

The ups and downs of the boxing game—the story of "The King Is Dead, Long Live the King"—are nowhere better exemplified than in the case of Battiling Nelson. The Durable Dane once had a name to conjure with. He was admittedly the best drawing card in the ranks of pugillists, and his presence in San Francisco meant columns of newspaper space. Indeed, the Battler was pursued by the sporting writers, and I can remember, once upon a time, when Billy Nolan wanted to favor a news-paper man, that Nelson was brought secretly to the city to permit of a scoop, as it is called in the technique of the business.

That was when Nelson was at the op of the ladder, or mighty close to top of the ladder, or mighty close to the top.

Now it is different, and Nelson, sim-ple soul that he is, can't understand the whys and the wherefores.

Nelson Misses Publicity. When he came to San Francisco, a few weeks ago, he secured a theatrical engagement, but it was on the outskirts of the village, so to speak. Instead of being at one of the downtown houses Neison found himself lodged way out on Fillmore street. Just after the fire Fillmore street was some street. Now it's not so much, and the sporting fraternity rarely gets out that sporting fraternity rarely gets out that

This week, his theatrical stunt over. Nelson moved out to Joe Millett's old training camp in Colma with the avowed intention of doing some light training for a match that he has coming in Kansas City. He declared his intention of boxing every afternoon and invited the public to see him work.

Crowds Show No Interest.

But the crowds have not been thick and the Battler is pained.

First of all, the death of the boxing game in this section has killed interest in the fistic events in other sections of the country. You don't hear people gossiping about this fighter or that one. That in itself hurts the Dane.

Coffreth's Luck Fades.

It used to be "Lucky" Jim Coffreth—

In other channels, however, the good luck god seems to have deserted him. Coffroth, as San Francisco people know, has for some months past turned his attention to politics. Unquestionably Lavigne was a great fighter and a man who was always out to win. He didn't quibble over a few pounds when it came to signing up for a match, and his remarkable fight with Joe Walcott, in which he was beaten down in the early rounds, only to win on pluck and endurance, will always be remembered not alone by those who saw the fight but others who have read about it. New York would do well to give Lavigne the favor that he asks. There are a number of points that the Tucson man must explain before we will place an order for a gross of the jumping Mexican golf balls.

Here's a life-saving shot that ought Here's a life-saving shot that ought to be rewarded with a Carnegie meda. From psychological and shot-makina viewpoints it is the best of the year. Playing in a 72-hole best ball match, Harold Fisher and Fred Bell, the Denver professional, were being given a hard finish by Carroll Brown and Professional Walter Clark. Then he has been so long considered out of the running that people do not turn to him any longer. In the parlance of the ring, Nelson is a "dead one," and even the opportunity of a free show—to see him box in public—doesn't attract. He is a has-been.

Just when Nelson is going to realize the baild fact that he is no longer elligible to the ring is hard to say. I have an idea that it is coming to him gradually. The other day he said something about wanting a quiet room during training for a match, as any little noise is apt to disturb his alumbers. Also, after a forenoon's walk on the road, he admitted that he didn't have the same zip to his work as was once the case. Sooner or later all these things are going to pile up and he will determine once for all to quit.

There was never a boxer with a bigger heart than this Nelson, and, while he has his faults, of course, he has a pity that he should insist upon staying by a game that has no further use for him.

Weather Brings Hunters Hope.

become wary of hunters and even in the best districts little success was re-ported during the latter part of the week where the hunters had no dog.

Phensant Shooting Reported Good.

Reports from the Tuaiatin Valley indicate that pheasant shooting is good in that part of the state. A party came in yesterday from Wilsonville with the limit and another from Sherwood brought a goodly number. Both of these towns are only a short ride on the Southern Pacific from the station at the foot of Jefferson street, and are the mecca of a large surrounding district.

There are also some pheasants to be had in the district beyond Milwaukie.

the most of them, however, are all within the city limits of the town. Clackamas Station also sends reports that there are birds in that neighbor-hood. Both of these towns are on the Oregon City line.

M'Minnville Reports Good. A trip to McMinnville on the Oregon Electric line should reward the sportsmen, as many favorable reports have been received from hunters who bag-ged the limit in the surrounding coun-try. Cars leave for McMinnville over the Fourth-street road. A stop for passengers is made at Fourth and Yambill streets however, to obtain permission from the owner of the land upon which one intends to hunt. This will not cause any trouble to arise should the farmer prove hostile and want to have the trespass law enforced.

E. H. Lindsey, a farmer residing on the Nehalem road a short distance out of Nehalem, shot a big black bear in his orchard one day last week. Early in the morning two bears were seen bothering a pile of apples that had been stacked under a tree. The farmer brought down the largest of the two but the other made its getaway.
