Sale of Ardent Spirits Restricted to Greater Degree Than Ever Before.

DISTILLERS IN DESPAIR

Profits of Restaurants Employing Women Are Curtailed and Growing "Bottle Trade" Is Destroyed Altogether.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The restrictions regarding the sale of distilled liquors in Greater Berlin, which were proposed in August by Police President von Jagow to the government authorities, have gone into effect. They are so drastic that landladies and distillers are in despair, and the general public feels that its indulgence in "schnapps" and similar drinks is to be largely curtailed.

The rules now laid down forbid the sale of distilled liquor except between 9 A. M. and 9 P. M., the sale in restaurants having women waitresses and barmaids, the sale in "automatic" restaurants and the sale to drunken persons. The hotels may sell only for cash, and must be drunk on the premises.

New Rules Are Draconic.

Casualty and other new rules are relatively few persons, because of the late working and eating hours in hotels, have either desired or wanted to indulge in spirituous liquors until after the new closing hour.

Secondly, scores of reputable restaurants and cafes have been drawn into the army, and, therefore, these cafes are barred from making their former profitable "bottle trade" which has assumed considerable proportions especially in the less pretentious cafes and saloons. Practically the only provision to which there is no objection is that governing sales to drunken persons.

Hopes of Dealers Vanish.

President von Jagow's suggestion as to the restriction of distilled liquors included the provision that none should be sold after 7 P. M., and that only liquor of unusually high grade and cost be dispensed.

The distillers and liquor dealers breathed easier when they heard that the authorities had decided to make public their new regulations. It is asserted on every side that many cafes that do not specialize in beer—the so-called "wine rooms"—will now have to close at 9 o'clock instead of 11 o'clock, and that many of them will have to go out of business.

Orders Not Understood.

These cafe proprietors allege that they cannot understand the new order and the reasons for it. For months now it has been forbidden to serve soldiers or sailors with distilled liquors, and they say that there is no military need for the rules. They maintain that there is a great sufficiency of liquor for the ordinary needs, and that there is no necessity for extra measures to conserve the supply in this drastic way.

YOUNG DU PONT TO WED

Marriage to Take Place When Young Man Completes Education.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 11.—General T. Coleman du Pont, of Wilmington, president of the Equitable Office Building Corporation, New York, and Mrs. du Pont, has announced the engagement of their son, Francis Victor du Pont, and Miss Katherine Clarke, of Northampton, Mass.

Francis Victor du Pont, an enthusiastic yachtsman and automobilist, drove the hydroplane Tech, Jr., III, in recent races in Mahaness Bay, when the craft established a world's record of 54.54 miles an hour. The hydroplane is named after his alma mater, as is also General du Pont's steam yacht. The general attended the same institution and it is generally believed is the unknown man who some months ago made a donation of $250,000.

TEACHERS ON TAX STRIKE

Payment of Levy Is Refused Until Ballot Is Granted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 12.—Woman teachers in the schools of Independence, Mo., have announced they would refuse to pay taxes until they obtain the right to vote. The teachers said they had been notified they were assessed $50 each and must pay taxes on that amount.

Answered at what she called taxation without representation, Miss Anna Baskin, teacher in the Columbia School, together with several other teachers, took the warpath to let men know they could not dominate women in any such manner.

HORSE IS BEER DRINKER

Stablemate Also Breaks Loose Because Topper Also Eats Onions.

SIoux CITY, Oct. 11.—Paddy Fargo, an express horse, who drinks beer and eats onions, has been taken to San Francisco to participate in an express company parade in connection with the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Paddy has drawn an express wagon in Sioux City for many years. Bartenders used to give him beer and it was not long before Paddy refused to pull his wagon until he had an "expresser."

Paddy's fondness for onions is declared to have lost him his stablemate, who pulled from his tether one night and refused to re-enter the barn where Paddy was kept.

SOME SCENES IN "OUR OWN LITTLE WAR" IN HAYTI

TOP—NEGROES KILLED IN BATTLE WITH AMERICAN MARINES. BELOW—COLONEL L. T. WALLER, SIGNING PEACE COMPACT WITH REBELS.

Haiti, the little negro republic in the West Indies imbued itself with the spirit of the times and a war on its own account. Rebels overthrew the government and captured the capital city and riot and bloodshed reigned supreme until the United States interfered and ordered Admiral Caperton to restore order.

Colonel L. T. Waller was in charge of the expedition of marines sent against the Haitian "Caels" or brigands who opposed America's plan for restoring order in the turbulent negro republic. The United States forces made short work of the rebels and a peace compact was soon signed.

MESSAGES, PURPORTED TO BE FROM DEAD, GIVE RESEARCHERS NEW THEORY

Psychical Scientists See in World-Old Animism Religion Based on Word From Spirit World—Several So-Called Communications Describe Sensation of Death.

BY GEORGE A. THATCHER, Member American Society for Psychical Research.

IT is about 35 years since a body of scientific men began investigation of phenomena purporting to originate among the spirits of men and women who had passed the gates of death, and now there are several societies in the world that are well organized to pursue the quest. The American Society in its published proceedings and journals has outlined comprehensively the scope of the investigation and has given reports of a great many interesting cases of psychic phenomena, including messages from the departed.

These communications have been criticized pretty severely because of their trivial nature. This is doubtless due to the Christian Eschatology which places the future life so far outside of the ordinary experience of human beings that no one can imagine human beings taking any part in it. However, the scientific investigation has been made to determine the question of the survival of the human intelligence after physical death, and for that purpose the question of the identity of discarnate intelligences which are accepted by credulous spiritualists as genuine have confused the whole problem for the scientific researcher. There are not spiritualists in the ordinary sense.

The psychic researcher knows that it is necessary to establish first of all that there are discarnate intelligences who communicate to men and women and in the second place to prove to a reasonable certainty that these intelligences can be identified as having lived in the flesh. Further, and this is most important, it is necessary that the authority of certain learned men nor because such investigators are recognized as being honest, for that lowers the question of proof to a matter of emotional likes and dislikes. Matters of proof of survival of death must be in the form of records which will convince any highly intelligent jury of the facts and so will stand on their own merits. That is the problem of psychic research and until it has been solved to the satisfaction of a respectable number of people, anything about the nature of the life after death is undesirable from the scientific standpoint as well as useless.

Interest in Life After Death Keen.

At the same time everyone who is at all interested wants to know something about the life that we may expect after death—if there is such a thing. The American Society, in its last published volume of proceedings, offers some communications from discarnate intelligences on the nature of the hereafter, but with the distinct understanding that as these matters are impossible of verification, there can be no assertion made as to their truth. They are simply interesting and to those who are inclined to believe in the proof of survival they offer material for consideration, and because we are emotional creatures they may give comfort to the survivors of dearly loved relatives and friends who have departed from this earthly scene. I won't attempt to quote from the proceedings anything about the character of the psychic, but will merely give some fragments of statements purporting to come from persons who have lived on this earth and who now live in a spiritual world.

There is no claim that the messages are exact or that they correctly represent the spiritual life. The reason given for publishing them is their interest in psychology and for future investigations of the subject. They are colored, of course, by the subconscious faculties of the psychic and so far as proof goes may be entirely the product of the individual. No final proof can be given either way.

Question—Do you see the grosser physical body when you see the living, or is it something else that you see?

Answer—Both; we see the flesh and the appearance, but we also see the spiritual—the halo of light that expresses the personality.

Question—What is the envelope that can be seen about the body?

Answer—The mist of light that surrounds the personality, the ether of the atmosphere.

Question—According to the spiritualists, the human body is made of matter, but we also see the spiritual—the halo of light that expresses the personality.
