

SUFFRAGE HOSTS MARCH IN PARADE

Thousands of Men Join in Demonstration to Win Ballot in New York.

BABY CARRIAGES IN LINE

Fifth Avenue Crowds Cheer Greatest Turnout in Favor of Cause Ever Held in East—Aim Is Symbolized by Floats.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—What was said by the suffrage leaders to be the greatest demonstration in favor of the cause ever held in New York was held here today, when more than 30,000 men and women marched up Fifth avenue to give voice to their demand that the right to vote be conferred on women in the coming election on the adoption of a new state constitution.

Several thousand men were a feature of the parade, from the grandstand viewpoint. They included men of all walks of life. Laborers and merchants marched side by side. The crowds that lined the sidewalks applauded the marchers and the floats freely. There was no disorder at any point along the line.

A feature that had been planned long in advance and that "made a hit" with the spectators, aside from the numerical strength, was the mother and child division. Scores of children in baby carriages, decorated with yellow and white or purple, white and green ribbons, were included in this division.

Miss Alberta Hill, as grand marshal is to lead the parade. Miss Hill and her staff rode on horseback and wore black riding habits, black berets and broad sashes of purple, white and green.

Ten women, representing "Victory," "Liberty," "Equality," "Justice" and the six continents, rode on a "Victory" float in the main body of the parade. Other divisions represented the states, where women now have the franchise, countries having equal suffrage, professional women, business women, college teachers, nurses, actresses, artists and various nationalities.

CLOSING LAW SCOPE ISSUE

Evasion by Cigar Store and Pool Hall at La Grande Cause Case.

LA GRANDE, Or., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Can a pool, billiard and bowling emporium dodge the Sunday-closing law by making itself a private concern exclusively to its members? Can a cigar store, by maintaining the business end of a hotel in it, evade the closing law?

These are two questions that are in the courts here for speedy decision. O. C. McCormick, president of the La Grande Business Men's Club, formerly a public pool hall, has been arrested under the first condition, and J. P. O'Connell under the latter.

An escort of 36 corps members and veterans came over from Union with the Portland women and were dined and feted by La Grande corps. Mrs. Horstman is on her way home from Washington, where she attended the National encampment, pronouncing that the event was one of the greatest patriotic gatherings Washington has ever witnessed.

ELMA BRIDGES ARE DONE

Spans Over Chehalis and Clioquallum Rivers Are Completed.

ELMA, Wash., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—Two new bridges tributary to Elma stand completed and are in use. The Elbow bridge across the Chehalis River to South Elma was found to be in bad condition this summer by the County Engineer and it was necessary to reconstruct it. The contract was let for $11,000 and final work was completed this week. The new bridge is steel and will stand a number of years before any repairs have to be done on it.

The other new bridge is the concrete structure across the Clioquallum on the McCleary road. This is the first concrete bridge constructed in this county, though there are many concrete culverts. It has a span of 50 feet. The contract price on the bridge was $3400.

Tono Arranges Halloween Ball.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—The annual Halloween masquerade ball of the Tono Athletic Club will be held October 30, according to an announcement made by a committee of the club arranging the details of the event. The ball will be held at the Centralia merchants for prizes. Preparations are being made by the coal miners for handling a big crowd. The men of the town will serve supper.

panies of coast artillery may be authorized. This division of the Army programme is not popular with Army men, for they fear the increase of the Army may end with the work of the coming session.

Senator Chamberlain last winter conducted a correspondence row with the Secretary of War because, he said, the Secretary proposed a "piecemeal" policy of strengthening the Army. The present Administration Army programme is nothing more or less than "piecemeal" work and if Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, is consistent, he must advocate the programme of the War College and the general staff, and oppose the Administration's programme.

judgment of the general staff, in that it is based primarily upon an increase of artillery—field guns especially—and an increase in the stock of ammunition carried, and makes only a slight increase in the personnel of the land forces. The military experts placed first importance on trained men.

Under the Administration's policy, comments the Army and Navy Journal, "the country will be without trained troops to use the immense supply of guns and ammunition that will be purchased with the appropriations."

Mobile Force Little Increased.

This criticism, it is known, is approved by the War College. Furthermore, it is pointed out by military experts that the Administration programme contemplates increasing the appropriation for the Army by $75,000,000, nearly doubling the cost, but thereby adding to the mobile forces only seven regiments of troops, and these regiments recruited to their peace strength only. The plan would add five regiments of infantry and two regiments of field artillery, and 29 companies of coast artillery. There is no recommendation for expansion of the cavalry.

It has been known for some time that the Army men who compiled reports for Secretary Garrison favored a standing army of 220,000 men. It is also known that the Secretary of War some weeks ago, was directed to reduce this figure materially, and the President, further revising, has cut the proposed size of the Army to 120,000 or thereabouts.

Army Men Oppose Delay.

Another criticism of the Administration's programme for army expansion is that it contemplates making further additions to the Army at some future time, possibly next year, when another five regiments of infantry, four or five regiments of field artillery and some 30 or 40 additional company of coast artillery may be authorized. This division of the Army programme is not popular with Army men, for they fear the increase of the Army may end with the work of the coming session.
