SUNDAY LID CONDEMNED

H. W. COTTRELL DECLARES LAW IS INVASION OF LIBERTY.

Measure Called Class and Religious Legislation That Deprives Non-conformists of Rights.

H. W. Cottrell, president of the Religious Liberty Association of Oregon, takes issue with Rev. E. L. Tuft, who is leading a movement for the enactment of a stricter Sunday observance law.

"All religio-civil laws," says Mr. Cottrell in a recent discussion of this problem, "even should they be declared constitutional, are nevertheless an invasion of the God-bestowed personal right of choice in matters of conscience."

RECEPTION FOR TEACHERS.—University Park Community Club hosted to St. Johns Faculty.

Under the auspices of the University Park Community Club a public reception was given to the teachers of the James Johns High and the Portsmouth grade Friday night at the Portsmouth schoolhouse, attended by about 500 persons from the Peninsula.

City Superintendent Alderman delivered an illustrated address in which he showed the scope of the Portland schools. Views were thrown on the screen illustrating the work undertaken in the high schools, the polytechnic, manual training, domestic science and grade schools of the city.

"We are concerned only with the authority and not with the wisdom of the lawmakers," said Justice Burnett.

"Let ministers and other Sunday law advocates take notice that a Supreme Court Justice, in rendering his decision, questioned the wisdom of the men who made the Sunday law, and if so, necessarily the righteousness of the law itself."

"This decision leaves the citizens face to face with class legislation, one favored to the detriment of another whose religion may differ relative to the law, and to still others who hold to no religion, but regard all days alike. If religion is to be enforced by civil law, the religion of what sect shall it be?"

"If it be contended that the majority of Christians are agreed that Sunday is the Sabbath and that it should be enforced upon all men by civil law, would not such an act be an invasion of the realm of conscience of the minority of Christians? In any event, it would still enlarge the body of well-disposed men and women—honorable citizens who make no profession of religion, but who have equal inherent rights with those of us who are Christians?"

"It is not the 'one-day-of-rest-in-seven' agitation is not in the interest of religion, but only a selfish desire, should not the promoters proceed to make use of the initiative in the interest of a weekly state holiday and suggest either Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday—days for which there is no claim of Sabbath sanctity? Every citizen would then retain his liberty of conscience to serve God in harmony therewith or not to worship him, as he might elect; for upon state or National holidays men labor or rest at will."

"Civil government was ordained of God to direct and control in civil matters, assuring equal protection to every citizen or subject in the enjoyment of his inherent rights to worship Almighty God or not to worship at all, may severally elect, provided their conduct in worship or non-worship does not invade the equal rights of their fellow men."

"Religious legislation is contrary to the teachings of our divine Lord and to the first amendment of the Federal Constitution. Every citizen should therefore enter his protest against all proposed legislation in the interest of Sunday, Saturday or any other day of the week and of every other phase of religious legislation; for God, through the Constitution, has given to every citizen the right of equal protection under the law."
