AGGIES OUTCLASS MICHIGAN, WIN 20-0

Wolverine State Aggies Clearly Played Off Their Feet in Fast Game.

8000 WITNESS WALKAWAY

Abraham Brightest Star in Contest, Scoring Two Touchdowns Himself and Being Classified as One of Country's Greatest Line Men.

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 30.—(Special.) The Oregon Agricultural College football team this afternoon put the Michigan Agricultural team out of business so quickly that the 8000 spectators did not know what happened. Few of them realize it yet, and possibly never will. Outclassing, outblocking, outrunning and outgaming their Eastern adversaries, the Coast men garnered three touchdowns while the Lansingites could not cross the goal line. Cole missed one goal from touchdown making the score 20 to 0. Fresh from their overwhelming defeat of Yost's Michigan stars last week, the Michigan Aggies almost looked like high school boys before the onslaught of the Corvallis men. Only once was the Oregon goal in danger. Then the ball was inside Oregon's five-yard line on first down, but the plunging backs of M. A. C. with all their prowess and ability, could gain but two yards in the tries allotted them and Oregon took the ball away. No Alibi Possible. There is not a single alibi, not the scintilla of an excuse on which Macklin's men can hinge any attempt at sympathy. They were beaten from the start, beaten by a team which used the old, old combination of straight football, plus fight. Fight seemed to stick out of the Westerners from their cleats to their head guards, it was the middle name of each one of them. To this spirit instilled into them by their coach, should go much of the credit. In addition they had Abraham, Billie, Allen and Alsworth behind and an interference which made M. A. C.'s line look like paper and bent back its ends until they were jokes. Oregon's interference, the first of the four-men-back-of-the-line kind seen here, was so strong that M. A. C. never headed it until it really scattered itself. Captain Blake Miller, Star End Henning and Gideon Smith, the great color tackle, all had to quit the game for fooling with that interference. It was quick, compact at the start and usually carried a good punch in either hand when it landed. As a matter of fact, the Oregon men did not need to extend themselves. Two of the plays were tried, one forward pass and one triple pass, but beyond this, none of the open plays carried over the line. Out of the box. Abraham Brightest Star. Abraham was the bright particular star of Oregon's game, although he had worthy support from every member of the team. If there was any hole in the Oregon team today, it was not visible to the naked eye. As he appeared this afternoon, Abraham is the best line plunger this section of the country has seen since the days of Willie Weston. Maulbetoch, Michigan's star, does not compare with the exhibition of the Westerner gave and even Syracuse scouts who watched the game threw up their hands in horror, when contemplating Abraham and his interference. In the first quarter, Oregon started to fight right off the reel. From the kickoff, they worked the ball back to the middle of the field, before being forced to kick. There was an interchange of fumbles and recoveries and M. A. C. got the ball on their own 30-yard line. From this point it was evident that M. A. C. was up against something new. Plunges failed to gain and it was Oregon's ball on M. A. C.'s 33-yard line on a fumble. Then Abraham and his other backs started. They worked up the 15-yard line, were penalized, lost the ball on a fumble, recovered it and finally came back with a rush to M. A. C.'s five-yard line. Abraham went over and Cole kicked goal. Abraham took the kickoff on his own 15-yard line, and with Looney, Alitt and Alsworth helping, plunged back to the 30-yard line. Smyth kicked to the middle of the field. M. A. C. woke up here and by successive rushes and punts, but finally got the ball on their own 16-yard line. They worked it back to M. A. C.'s 25-yard line and were forced to kick, more punts put the ball in Oregon's possession on M. A. C.'s 47-yard line. By successive line bucks and end runs on the part of Abraham, Allen, Alsworth and Billie, the ball was carried right down the field and over the line. Allen carrying it in the last stage, Cole kicked goal, score Oregon 14, M. A. C. 0. Springer, for M. A. C., who took Captain Blake Miller's place at half, injected some new life for the remainder of this quarter, but his team could not profit thereby and the quarter ended with the ball M. A. C.'s on Oregon's 46-yard line. Oregon Tears Through Line. Abraham took Deprato's punt on his own 38-yard line and then began another series of line plunges and end runs by the Oregon backs which took the ball right down the field without a mishap. Oregon tore through the line at will, taking M. A. C.'s secondary defense to stop them every time. Abraham and Billie did most of the

ABERDEEN PLAYS WEDNESDAY

Stores May Close During Football Game With The Dalles.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Aberdeen high school students will make an effort to have all Aberdeen retail stores close for two hours next Wednesday afternoon during which The Dalles and Aberdeen High School teams play here. Interest in the game is keen and several merchants already have promised to close. The Dalles plays its first game on Gray's Harbor Saturday with Hoquiam and on Monday night will be entertained by Company G, National Guard of Washington, at an informal dance and next Wednesday night will be entertained by the Fourth Division Naval Militia at a similar affair.

BIG GAMES MAY BE HERE

UNIVERSITY-AGGIE BATTLES TO BE FOUGHT IN PORTLAND. Multnomah Club Agrees to Use of Field Thanksgiving—Big Attendances Are Expected. Although this year's state championship football battle between the University of Oregon and the Oregon Aggies will be played at Eugene, it is practically certain now that the game will be a Portland attraction next year and for many seasons thereafter. The Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club has been dealing with representatives of the colleges and has agreed to let them stage this big game as an annual Thanksgiving day attraction. This will mean switch in the dates for the annual Multnomah-Oregon game, which has been a Thanksgiving day morsel for six or seven years. "Yes, we have been approached by representatives of the schools and have agreed to let them have the Thanksgiving date," said Dewey Walker, superintendent at the Multnomah Club, yesterday. "The game should be played here, and I think everything will go through according to schedule. The Oregon Aggies have been particularly anxious to appear before Portland crowds for two or three years, but the Eugene officials have been backward for some reason or other. "I believe that these two teams here would draw 8000 or 10,000 spectators next Fall, and more each succeeding Fall thereafter. This game, which is the real big thing on the football calendar in Oregon just as the California-Stanford game was in San Francisco. Oregon won the last game with the Aggies played in Portland six or seven years ago.

REED ELEVENS TO PLAY

PICKED TEAMS TO GO TO BATTLE WEDNESDAY. Some of Players Are Laid Up With Injuries: Old System of Inter-Class Sounds Abandoned. Instead of the old inter-class system of football, which Reed College has played in lieu of intercollegiate football, the students have adopted a system of challenge games. The first game will be played next Wednesday. Archibald Clark, '16, star tackle of last year's all-star interclass team, has picked 11 men from the student ranks with whom he challenges Neil Malarky, '15, last year's injured fullback, and whosoever else he has found. The teams have been training hard for the last month and appear to be fairly well matched. The challenging team has been considerably weakened by the loss of Quarterback Tomlinson, whose knee-cap was severely injured in scrimmage. He will be unable to play Wednesday. Captain Clark, of the challengers, is laid up with a damaged leg, and W. Grondahl, the opposing tackle, may be kept out of the game on account of an injured side. The lineup of the two teams is as follows: Challengers: ... Defenders: ...
