

EASTERN OREGON'S KING OF EXHIBITORS

Huge Entries Occupy Nearly Two-Thirds of All Space at Land Show.

CROP PRODUCTIVITY SHOWN

Western Displays Also Make Mark at Exhibition of Resources of State-Baker County Features Variety.

Eastern Oregon has furnished just half of the county entries in the land products section of the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show according to a count by number of booths.

If the measurements be taken on the basis of space in each booth, Eastern Oregon constitutes probably two-thirds of the Land Products Show.

The huge entries from east of the Cascade Mountains were due to persistent and energetic "boosting" on the part of the county officials, individuals and commercial organizations, and now that the exhibits are installed in the Land Show, the energy does not expend itself, but continues in the tireless activity of the men who are in charge of the booths.

Baker, Wallowa and Union counties, the trinity of big booths in the southeast part of the pavilion have become the center of the liveliest part of the Land Products Show, and the other Eastern Oregon counties scattered in other parts of the hall are nobly following the example of these three.

Show Atmosphere Is Tinged. There is no discounting the excellence of the Southern Oregon, and the Western Oregon exhibits, and the "business" of their representatives. It is simply a case of Eastern Oregon having come to Portland to set up an exhibition to plant itself on the map more unmistakably than ever before, and the result is that the atmosphere of the whole show is predominantly tinged with Eastern Oregon.

It is probable that, besides the tourists that throng the show, the residents of Portland and the Willamette Valley who have learned more in the past two weeks about the magnitude and resources of Eastern Oregon than they ever knew in their lives before.

W. E. Currey and C. C. Cate, of La Grande, with the Union County exhibit; W. E. Meacham, of Baker, with the Baker exhibit; and W. W. Smead, of Heppner, with the Morrow County exhibit, are among the most active exhibitors in the show.

Baker County is capturing the great variety of her resources, as "The Land of Diversified Resources," and the exhibit runs the whole range from dry farming products to mining and production of fire clay.

Baker Displays Only Hay. The 24-foot background of the booth is covered with alfalfa, timothy grass and other similar products. The only bale of hay in the show is in the Baker booth, and it came from the farm of Mrs. Sturgill, of Baker. On the inclined shelves in the back of the booth are featured the corn, wheat, and other products from the farms of M. H. Mulvihill and C. J. Bowen, of Eagle Valley.

Honey and canned fruits from the ranch of H. A. Nichols, of Heppner, are the center of the exhibit. In front are threshed seeds and grains, cabbages, fine potatoes and onions, and an exhibit of the fine fire clay that is one of the big deposits in Baker County.

Union, Wallowa and Morrow counties each present a fine exhibit of alfalfa and mill products, and with lists of photographs, featuring the great exports of fine stock, draught horses, and other products from the farms of the single group of cultivated land in the state and every inch of this land is represented as to resources in the display that they have installed at the Land Products Show.

Wallowa County, while featuring prominently its alfalfa, timothy grass and other products, also has a fine exhibit of fine stock, draught horses, and other products from the farms of the single group of cultivated land in the state and every inch of this land is represented as to resources in the display that they have installed at the Land Products Show.

WAR CAUSE IS OFFERED

EXPORTATION AND EXPLOITATION OF CAPITAL BLAMED.

Professor Ogburn Says Peace Might Be Brought About by Letting Down Artificial Bars of Tariffs.

Declaring the exportation and exploitation of capital the great fundamental cause of war, Professor W. F. Ogburn, of Reed College, in his lecture Friday night on "Sociological Aspects of War and Peace" advised as a means of bringing about peace the making of the exportation of wealth international rather than national.

He explained that he meant the letting down of the artificial barriers raised by tariffs so that all nations might be free alike to invest capital wherever they wished, and no one nation keeping to itself the right to develop any particular province by a tariff prohibitive to others.

Professor Ogburn predicted, however, that there would be more wars after the one now raging in Europe, and he said he thought it likely that real peace was a long way off. This, he said, was owing to the fact that it would undoubtedly be a long time before the nations would reach the stage where they would be willing to make the exportation and exploitation of wealth international.

A program of disarmament would not bring about peace, he declared, "neither would radical changes in the diplomatic corps, nor a great rise of democracy, the assuming of control of the industries by the workers or the rise of the middle class."

This, he said, because they were not fundamental causes of war.

BABY SHOW EPOCHAL

Interest in Recent Contest Highest Ever in Portland.

OLD-TIME IDEAS RULE

Expectations of 100 Entries Doubled Within Two Days and Number at Close Tips Nearly 400 Mark.

All of the modern influences were set aside and things swung back to the past in the old-fashioned baby show at the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show last Thursday, held under the joint auspices of the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Lavender clubs of Portland.

Not only was it quite different from the popular eugenic show of the modern day, but it was the biggest baby show that has ever been held in Portland.

When the show was planned the committee looked forward to perhaps 100 entries. Within two days the entries were 75, and when the show was closed, two days before the show, because the numbers of children had become too great for the committee to deal with, there were nearly 400 babies entered in the contest.

Interest in the other features of the Land Products Show waxed that afternoon, and the ballroom of the Army was packed with men and women watching the judging of the babies. Every class was well represented, and the corps of judges was increased to handle the great task of judging.

The full list of judges was Mrs. F. C. Riggs, R. M. Burley, D. J. Todd, C. J. Sims, of Boise; Mrs. C. R. Thompson, Mrs. O. L. Kennedy, Mrs. George Shultz, Mrs. C. C. Chapman, A. C. Black and J. C. Zancker.

The committees that handled the grandchild show, Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. P. Jolin, Mrs. K. C. McGuire, Mrs. P. L. Thompson and Mrs. V. M. C. Silva; Peninsula Lavender Club, Mrs. Cornelia Haynes; Day were E. H. Hays, Mrs. Marlon Dryden; Branch No. 1 of the Lavender Club, Mrs. Maude Blaggett and Mrs. Charles Olson.

W. C. T. U. FOUNDER DIES

MRS. SHERMAN P. LESTER EARLY WORKER FOR TEMPERANCE.

Pioneer in Prohibition Cause Was Often Attacked When She Spoke Against Liquor Interests.

Mrs. Sherman P. Lester (Agnes V. Blodgett Lester), who died October 16, was one of the crusaders of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. She was one of the early number of determined women who preached the doctrine of temperance and prohibition in the saloons and on street corners, and was frequently attacked by friends of the liquor interests.

Mrs. Lester was born in Gallipolis, O., January 16, 1845. She was married June 16, 1868. She came to Portland six years ago. She left three children—Miss Marian V. Lester, Mrs. Violet Mayberry, of Nebraska, and J. Emery Lester, of Tacoma.

Mrs. Lester's activities in the Women's Christian Temperance Union dated back to 1874. She was also interested in the Woman's Relief Corps and was active in church work.

The verse she had taken for her life motto, found inscribed in her Bible, written when she was a little girl, was as follows:

I live for those who love me. For the heaven that smiles above me. For the cause that needs assistance. For the wrong that needs resistance. And the good that I can do.

BUS RUNS DOWN WAGON

HORSE INJURED AND HAS TO BE SHOT; DRIVER ESCAPES.

Deliver of Tyrrell Trips Cars Arrested and Cited to Appear in Court on Monday.

A Tyrrell Trips sight-seeing bus occupied by 26 persons on a tour of the city upset a delivery wagon, throwing the driver to the ground and crushing the horse beneath the wheels of the big car, yesterday noon in a collision on Oregon street, between Grand avenue and East Sixth street.

The horse was fatally injured, and Humane Officer Lewis Pitts shot the animal. P. Garbarino of 60 East Eighth street North, the driver, was unhurt.

L. A. Jones, of 125 Sixth street, chauffeur of the large car, was placed under arrest and cited to appear in court Monday, but only as an indirect result of the accident, charged with wearing a chauffeur's badge not his own. Jones said he owned a badge, but inadvertently had pinned on the badge of Ray H. Groves, of 1325 East Morrison street, another chauffeur employed by the Tyrrell company.

Motorcycle Patrolman Bales, who with Sergeant Robson, investigated the accident, reported that the brakes of the large car did not hold at the critical moment. Chauffeur Jones admitted, and further maintained that the delivery wagon drove in front of him and struck the large car.

It was reported that the horse was dragged between 40 and 70 feet. Both car and horse were going west on Oregon street.

POLK COUNTY SHOW PLANS MADE.

RECREATIONAL POLITYMEN ARE MAKING EXTENSIVE PREPARATIONS FOR THE ANNUAL POLK COUNTY EXHIBITION OF FOWLS TO BE HELD IN DALLAS IN JANUARY.

The key-note of the poultrymen's meetings has been the encouragement of exhibitors throughout the Willamette Valley for the purpose of comparison and to develop strains that will lay heavily. Consideration has been given to the Oregon Agricultural College in securing new methods for obtaining egg records.
