Frank Carney, age 17 years, a student in Jefferson High School, won first prize of $100 Friday night at the Manufacturers' and Land Products Show, at the close of the loganberry song contest, which has been held under the auspices of the Portland Ad Club to stir up interest in the exploitation of the loganberry in a commercial way. Jefferson High School also furnished the second prize winner, H. Russell Demmon, age 18 years. This prize is $50.

Eva Charlotte Raab, of the Holman School, age 14, won the third prize of $50. While the judges were working on the final awards the Ad Club quartet gave a concert in the ballroom of the Armory, singing various songs that were in the running for prizes in the contest. The room was packed with people, and the songs were received with enthusiastic applause.

The awards were made on the basis of the value of the song as an advertising medium, its adaptability to the tune suggested, originality, etc. Ten other prizes of merchandise, offered by local concerns, were awarded, as follows: Ruth Young, of Portland; Alta E. Matten, of Salem; Mary Hackett, of McMinnville; Ruth McGarry, of Portland; E. Electric Light Co. of Gresham; Grace Matthews, of Portland; Ruby H. Hunt, of North Bend; Maud Allen, of Eugene Eddy and Iver S. Ross, of Eugene.

The distribution of the prizes will be made by the Ad Club committee, consisting of George E. Wagoner, D. N. Mossosohn and W. H. P. Hill. In addition to the Ad Club quartet last night Mrs. Delphine Marx and Mrs. Herman Politz sang several songs. Prizes in the contest were: President P. L. Campbell, of the University of Oregon; J. A. Chittell, State Superintendent of Schools; Mrs. Clara H. Waldo, of Oregon Agricultural College; Clark Leiter, A. C. Reese, Dean Collins and J. C. Keating.

The prize-winning song was a clever parody of "This is the Life," with a catchy chorus expanding on the virtues of loganberry juice as compared to all the old-style drinks.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Edward Lauterbach, who was counsel for David Lamar at the time of Lamar's alleged impersonation of Representative Palmer and Speaker Clark in telephone calls to friends of the late J. P. Morgan, was severely censured today by the appellate division of the Supreme Court for the part he played in Lamar's practices. Lamar was found guilty and sentenced to two years imprisonment.

WRESTLERS HOWEVER, TAKE BOTH EVENTS WITH SEATTLE.

Mopler and Byers Are Defeated by Madden and Baird in Flat Mills in Northern Ring.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—At a smoker, which everybody who attended believed was one of the best shows ever staged here, Seattle boxers defeated both Multnomah representatives last night in the inter-club tournament. Madden, who substituted for Henry Gladwin, and Baird both took their bouts from Mopler and Byers, the two best men in the Southern club, who were picked to represent Multnomah in the California tournament this month.

The Madden-Mopler go was one which will be long remembered for its fierceness. From whistles to whistles, both boys were at it hammer and tongs, slugging and swinging. Mopler put up a great scrap, but Madden beat him and won the decision. Baird had an easier time beating his opponent, although Byers looked like an even bet for the first two rounds. The Seattle boys won in the final decision when he speared up. Both of these contests were as good as any bouts ever staged here.

In the wrestling events, the local club did not come out on the same end of the stick. George Clark, the 135-pounder, his bond with the Multnomah Club sent up to tackle Harry Bradshaw, downed the Seattle man. The heavyweights, threw James Wiley, the local representative, twice, also giving the visiting wrestlers a clean sweep. The summary:

Boxing. Earl Baird, Seattle, beat Albert Byers, Multnomah, decision, three rounds. George Clark, Seattle, beat Mopler, Multnomah, decision, three rounds.

Wrestling. George McCarthy, Multnomah, beat James Wiley, Seattle, straight falls. George Clark, Multnomah, beat Harry Bradshaw, Seattle, straight falls.
