

Society

BY GERTRUDE P. CONDETT

Mrs. Henry W. Metzger, who will sing at Cathedral Bazaar this week.

Mrs. Coe A. McKenna, who will help actively in the Cathedral Bazaar.

Mrs. Harry L. Sherwood, a recent acquisition to Society, wife of the British Consul.

CRISP November weather is a reminder to society that the holiday days are rapidly approaching, and the early morning hours find the energetic matrons and maids in the shops getting their long lists of Christmas articles disposed of. They are, in practical, every instance this year, making their Christmas gifts, and the little ones and soldiers at the front are also to be remembered with comfortable and much-needed gifts.

The schoolgirls and boys soon will be home for their holiday season, always the sign for much merriment, but perhaps the season will be tempered with deeds of philanthropy.

Society always makes its propitiatory offerings to charity, like the Greeks of old, who sacrificed to the gods before their grand fetes. So before becoming seated with good times, dances, dinners, general reunions of playmates and the refurnishing of bedrashed wardrobes, the clever women will see to it that their duty to the unfortunate is performed, then let gaiety have its full swing for the merry days to come.

Several prominent society leaders, upon being asked in regard to a charity ball, replied, "We cannot afford to give one this year." Charity will have to be done by individuals in a small way, and the big kindness that had been whispered about, which was to have been given in Portland this Fall for some philanthropic purpose, has been abandoned. This and similar at-back of the coiffure. In lieu of the conventional bridal bouquet the bride carried a white prayer book.

Her maid of honor was attired in a chic gown of pink taffeta made on simple lines, with bouffant skirt and plain bodice. Tiny clusters of French rosebuds held the drapery of the full skirt, and she also wore a black hat of tulle. She carried the bridal bouquet, later the bride tossing it into a group of her debutante friends attending the ceremony.

Brooke was charming in a beautiful gown of Copenhagen blue, built on princess lines, and a plume-trimmed black velvet hat.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt—Mr. and Mrs. C. Hunt Lewis, at Riverwood. A stringed orchestra played during the afternoon, and a number of prominent matrons and maids assisted about the rooms, including Mrs. J. S. Napier, Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Elliott H. Corbett, Mrs. George Kirkham Smith, Mrs. Arthur Murray Sherwood, Mrs. Kenneth Brooke, Mrs. Lewis H. Harkins, Mrs. Kurt H. Koehler, Miss Maisie and Miss Alisa MacMaster, Miss Elvow Mills, Miss Dorothy Jocelyn, Burlington, Vt.; Miss Barbara Barrett, Miss Evelyn Carey, Miss Margaret Mears and Miss Pauline Parks. The Lewis residence was decorated with beautiful blossoms, crimson roses being used in the drawing-room, copied with ferns and palms, and in the other rooms, a profusion of white and yellow feathery chrysanthemums was arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Look left for a wedding trip to California, and are planned to remain in the West until after Christmas, when they will go to their new home in Toronto, Canada, to which city Mr. Look has recently moved. He is of a fine old Southern family, his former home being Louisville, Ky.

Two of the bride's attendants, Mrs. Barlow, of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. G. N. Downey, of New York, and Miss Dorothy Jocelyn, of Burlington, Vt., a former student of the University of Oregon, where her distinguished father, General Jocelyn, was in command, came West to attend the wedding, and are house guests of Mrs. Brooke. They have shared in the numerous pre-nuptial festivities given to honor the young couple.

Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur Murray Sherwood have moved into an attractive residence on the University drive, Portland Heights, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Baldwin, who have been domiciled at the Stelwyn Apartments, are passing a month in Colorado Springs, and are planning to go to New York later.

Much interest centers in the annual sale and tea of the Woman's Exchange, which will be held all day Tuesday, November 23. A special feature of this year's sale is the housekeeper's table, which will display every need of the careful and excellent housekeeper. Mrs. Holt C. Wilson is chairman of the sale committee. In the afternoon prominent society matrons and maids will preside at the tea, and it promises to be a function of note.

Mrs. Roger Sinnott, Mrs. W. H. Nunn, Mrs. David A. Shindler, Mrs. S. R. Johnston, Mrs. K. G. Gamble, Mrs. Charles Scadding and Mrs. W. L. Brewster have charge of the housekeeper's table. Mrs. W. O. Van Schuyver, assisted by Mrs. Henry C. Cabell, Mrs. Frank E. Hart and Mrs. O. H. Lyman, has charge of the needlework.

Only for the brief period of 20 minutes was Portland honored with a visit from the distinguished travelers, Lord and Lady Aberdeen, who were returning from San Francisco, where they have been lavishly feted by the social circle. Mrs. Eleanor Martin, who gave a large tea Wednesday afternoon for the benefit of the Aberdeen fund. The occasion was a memorable one, everyone flocking to the handsome residence of Mrs. Martin not only to do their duty and contribute handsomely to the fund, but also to meet Lord and Lady Aberdeen. For the occasion Lady Aberdeen chose a handsome gown of black brocade crepe de chine, elaborated with exquisite lace and touches of rose-colored velvet. Her hostess was wearing a black crepe chiffon embroidered in black jet.

Friday afternoon, when Lord and Lady Aberdeen alighted from the train en route to their ranch in British Columbia, they were greeted by the John M. Scotts, who presented Lady Aberdeen with a huge basket of Oregon roses. They will return here later in the month, and will then be extensively entertained by society matrons.

Honoring Mrs. John King Stack, of Escanaba, Mich., who, with her two children, is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. R. Wiley, Mrs. Coe A. McKenna entertained with a delightful matinee party at the Orpheum, followed by tea at Hotel Portland. An artistic arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums decked the table around which were seated Mrs. Stack, Mrs. John F. Daly, Mrs. J. P. O'Brien, Miss Clarissa Wiley, Mrs. Irving Stearns, Mrs. Joseph E. Wiley, Mrs. Walter M. Daly, Mrs. William Lyons, Mrs. John Davis, Miss Cornelia Stanley, Mrs. J. A. Cranston, Miss Lucille Dunne, Mrs. Chester G. Murphy and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Morey and Miss Helen Eastham left Thursday for a visit to the San Francisco Exposition.

Mrs. L. P. Ankony, of Walla Walla, is in Portland for a few weeks, and is accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Fopp, who is visiting Mrs. Harriet McArthur.

Miss Crystal Hyland, fiancée of Luis Abell, will be considerably feted this week, two of the affairs in her honor being the tea planned by Miss Madeline Groh on Wednesday and the tea which Mrs. Wilbur Pelton held on Saturday to honor her sister, Miss Zola Hitchcock, a bride-elect, and Miss Hyland.

A number of other matrons and maids will entertain for her in the next few weeks.

On Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, a wedding of unusual beauty and elaborateness was solemnized in Seattle at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, uniting Miss Helen Ursula Grogan and Joseph P. Cronin. A nuptial mass was read by Father Carroll, with Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Dea presiding. Father William Cronin, brother of the bride-

Black and Blue Velvet Coatees

The worn waist that is too good to discard, but hardly nice enough for dressy wear, will do double service with one of these charming little vestees; or your simple dress will be converted into a velvet combination. There are all sorts of ways of using these popular garments. We have a full assortment of sizes and styles—some are belted in with soft gray leather, others are scalloped over the hips, and still others have high collars and flaring peplins, edged with plush edging that greatly resembles fur. All are moderately priced.

Trinity chimes loudly and joyously proclaimed the wedding of Miss Margaretta Brooke and Richard W. Look Wednesday afternoon at a few minutes past 4 o'clock. The wedding was unusually attractive and was permeated with charming simplicity. Only close friends and relatives attended the ceremony, which was read by the rector of Trinity, Rev. A. A. Morrison, Rt. Rev. Walter T. Sumner, pronouncing the blessing at the conclusion of the service. Archibald Wright gave a delightful musical programme preceding the marriage, and also played the wedding march.

Trinity Church was screened across the center of the edifice with smilax, ferns and palms, an arch over the aisle admitting the guests into the front of the church, where an artistic arrangement of white roses and greenery made an effective foil for the bride. The altars were lighted with myriads of candles and clusters of the bridal roses also decked the chancel.

The guests were ushered by Harry Reed, Lewis H. Mills, Kurt H. Koehler and Andrew Kerr.

Miss Genevieve Brooke attended her sister as maid of honor, and C. Hunt Lewis acted as best man. Mrs. Brooke gave her daughter into the keeping of the bridegroom.

The bride, a dignified and attractive girl, was attired in a lovely gown of simple design, made of silver lace flouncings, ankle length, with a short train. The metal thread lace was built over a gown of diaphanous tulle, her veil hanging in billowy folds over the entire gown. It was wreathed with orange blossoms and draped from the
