

EARL R. GOODWIN PICKS ALL-STARS

Interscholastic League Produces Lot of Mighty Good Players.

FIVE TEAMS REPRESENTED

Lincoln Leads With Four on Mythical Eleven, Washington and Columbia Each Get Two and Jeff and Academy One.

BY EARL R. GOODWIN.

Another year must pass before the football championship of the Portland Interscholastic League will be decided in favor of one institution, but with all that time for an all-star aggregation again is with us. So here goes: Every team in the league, with the exception of Coach Dewey's Franklin High eleven is represented on this squad, Portland Academy and Jefferson High appearing once each, Lincoln High with a quartet, Washington High twice and Columbia University three.

All-Stars in Positions.

Every one of the positions is filled with a husky athlete that has shown himself to be in a regular by himself at his appointed position during a contest. True, one player that was picked is switched from his tackle position to center because he is invaluable to a squad and he has the head when it comes to a pinch.

First we start with the center and Oskan Dirsckell, the Lincoln High snapper-back, who scored the only touchdown that won the game for his team against Washington High, 6 to 0, is the honor. Oskan Dirsckell, last year's choice, did not show his real worth this year, but he is easily number two in the district.

As to guards, here is where the switch is made. Had Wiler, the Jefferson High man, played throughout the season as he did against Washington High last year, Wiler would be no possible chance to keep him off the mythical eleven. His team-mate, Robert "Rowdy" Hicks, while George Bush, of Lincoln High, stands head and shoulders above any other selection.

Curry Moved to Guard. "Rowdy" has been played at tackle all season, but he is aggressive, has that old light when it is needed most, and possesses real "leadwork" which is placed at guard. The only other possible chance to keep him off the mythical eleven is the fact, no opposition can be found with the nomination of George Bush. Last year his brother, Frank ("Hero") Bush, was played on the all-star aggregation at tackle and now he is starting at Whitman College.

As to the tackles, Oskan Walker, of Washington High, and Mike Hoch, of Columbia University, are the real class in their positions. This is the first time the contention has made the team, but Walker is playing on the all-star list. Both are big enough to stop any kind of opposition and are always going at it strong. The title of the Portland Interscholastic League's "Newswatch" is a mighty tackle proposition to pick the best duo. In doing so, however, Johnny Murphy, of Columbia, and Warren "Buck" Hicks, of Portland Academy, are selected. Both are quite adept at grabbing the sizzle out of the air on forward passes and several games have been picked out of the fire on their account.

Edwin Stronbridge has a well-known name now because of his educated right toe when it comes to place and goal kicking. Lynn Oliver is the best ground gainer when it comes to long end runs and starting the forward passes.

INTERCLASS GAMES FEATURED

Monmouth Normal Students Like New System of Athletics.

MONMOUTH, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Students of the Oregon Normal School are enthusiastic concerning the new system of athletics used this year. Most of these athletes are confined to the campus. Two large silver cups have been offered as prizes, one for the champion in a series of basketball games to be played between the boys of the senior and junior classes, and one for the girls of the same classes.

Doty Quitters Beats Dryad, 101-8.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The Doty High School basketball team Thursday night hooked up with Dryad Athletic Club in the first game of the Doty schedule. The final score was 101 to 8 in favor of Doty. Coach Hollingsworth has been letter-men trying for the Doty team this season and is confident of walking away with the Southwest Washington Interscholastic championship.

Rains Heavy Flowing at Monmouth.

MONMOUTH, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Since the heavy rains in this section the farmers are rushing their plowing a good deal. Indications are that there will be a greatly increased amount in what has been said. There has not been enough rainfall to wet the ground sufficiently for plowing until the past week.

ELEVEN BEST PLAYERS OF THE PORTLAND INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE WHO GO TO MAKE UP 1915 ALL-STAR FOOTBALL TEAM.

Robert "Rowdy" Hicks, Jefferson High; "Buck" Hicks, Portland Academy; Oskan Walker, Wash. High; Lynn Oliver, Lincoln High; Mike Hoch, Columbia U.; Ed Stronbridge, Wash. High; Eugene Murphy, Columbia; Oskan Dirsckell, Lincoln High; George Bush, Lincoln High; Warren Hicks, Port. Acad.; Ray Groce, Lincoln High.

ALL STARS CHOSEN

Coach Bailey Picks Non-Conference Eleven.

4 ARE WILLAMETTE MEN

Albany Gets Three on Paper Team and Mount Angel College and Pacific University Have Two Apiece.

COACH BAILEY'S ALL NON-CONFERENCE FOOTBALL TEAM.

Table listing players and their positions for Coach Bailey's All Non-Conference Football Team. Columns include Name, Position, and School.

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)

Coach Edward Bailey, of Albany College, has picked an all-star eleven from the teams of the four non-conference colleges of the state, Albany College, Willamette University, Mount Angel College and Pacific University.

Bailey is qualified to select such an eleven, as he is recognized as one of the strongest non-conference coaches in the Northwest. He has made six successful trips this season.

French's Kicking Factor. French was selected for right half because he is the best punter on any non-conference team. Besides being speedy and a sure ground gainer he is a terror on defense. He also passes accurately. His greatest asset is his place kicking ability. He has made six successful trips this season.

Lucas, of Pacific, is selected for left half because of ability to advance the ball and his clever headwork. He is considered the fastest backfield man on the all-stars.

Glor, of Albany, to whom is given the fullback position, is chosen just because of his speed and his kicking ability. He is a member of the Willamette, of Mount Angel and of Pacific. Abrams is too small for the position and Hendricks a head by Hendricks. Abrams is too small for the position and Hendricks a head by Hendricks.

Archibald Best Quarter. Clinton Archibald, of Willamette, and Irvin of the same school, are the best quarterbacks. They alternated between half and quarter on the Willamette team. Archibald always calling the signals. Irvin is faster than Archibald and therefore Archibald gets the position.

In the line Raymond Archibald, of Willamette, stands head and shoulders above all other men for the center position. He is a sturdy lineman and an accurate passer.

The two guard positions are given to Beckwith and Engertberger, of Mount Angel College. The center of Mount Angel's line was the solidest of any non-conference team, and their two backfield guards are not equalled by any other eleven.

WHITMAN HAS HOPE TO WIN

IDAHO AWAITS BASKETBALL

University Team Will Have Five Veterans of Last Year.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—After a rather disastrous football season, University of Idaho students are looking forward to the opening of the basketball season with considerable interest. The call for candidates was issued yesterday and more than 25 men put in an appearance before Assistant Coach C. L. Beighold.

Five of last year's veterans are in college and the season's outlook is unusually bright. The freshmen are said to have some bona fide stars hidden in their number and the big turnover in the squad insured real competition for all the first team places.

RUFGY LOSES FAVOR

Stanford Likely to Vote for Return to Old Game.

OPPOSITION FADING AWAY

Plan Afoot to Form "Big Six" of Coast Colleges, or Possibly "Big Eight," Including Los Angeles and Whitman.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Portland reports that the Stanford University will follow in the footsteps of University of Southern California and the University of California and return to American collegiate football are generally credited to the Cardinal campus. Although just how this change will come about is still doubtful, there is a feeling that the whole student body will vote on the question during the next few days.

The University, who have opposed a reversion to the old game, have decided to withdraw their objections and this will aid greatly in making the change.

It is believed that Faculty Manager Frank C. Angell, who was instrumental in having the English game adopted several years ago and who has been a strong advocate of Rugby at all times, will sanction the change if it meets with the approval of the majority of the students. No definite statement has yet been made by any of the faculty, but there is a growing tendency in favor of the American game.

The financial success that met the University of California's return to the old game, as well as the general public manifested in the recent game between the Olympic Club, of San Francisco, and the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, of Portland, have demonstrated that the non-partisan "around-the-Bay" public favors the old game. Since the gate receipts that are taken in at the big games are the checking in a game with the state University would be a definite financial gain for the school.

To the unprejudiced outsider it looks as though the University of California is considerably the gainer over Stanford by their little scrap. Manager Johnny Stroud, of California, issued a statement at Berkeley that shows that the income for this season is slightly below that of last year, despite the fact that the college faced heavy expense in having the English game adopted several years ago and who has been a strong advocate of Rugby at all times, will sanction the change if it meets with the approval of the majority of the students.

The "wise ones" about the campus assert that Stanford University will hold these December 2 and 3. This statement has not been officially put out, but it is believed that the income for this year and next year a representative will have to be present at this meeting.

BACK-TO-FARM SPIRIT REVEALED IN FOOTBALL

U-No-Me Points Out How Advent of Huskies in Colleges Has Brought Up Standard of Agricultural Elevens to That of Universities.

"BACK to the Farm" This slogan became a byword a few years ago and every newspaper in the country filled up its columns with remarks concerning the wisdom of such a course. There was no way of ascertaining the results of this slogan until the present football season. That's correct as can easily be shown by figures.

It is just this way. Years ago all the big, husky fellows—physically and mentally—went to the university to learn the art of teaching. The result was that lawyers, doctors and teachers were more numerous than Colonels in Kentucky.

Also the number of farmers who could toss hay and wheat bundles from one to another, diminished. The vacuum thus created had to be filled and nature was alert and on the job.

Football Dope is Used. The other ancient slogan, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," was changed to read "Moral suasion." So strong were the feelings that the school boys were not needed in the school-room. The teachers are more proficient in their "suasion," so the husky men entered the agricultural colleges along with those who formerly studied Blackstone and murdered butter, frogs and canines.

The trend of the times has upset all the football dope and caused the sporting writers to lose much sleep and accumulate many wrinkles and gray hairs. Just look at the returns of the football games and see what this influx of brawn and brain has done to the dope sheet. We will start here in the Northwest.

Washington State College has this year the classiest football machine that ever represented the Pullman institution. The team has scored points in every quarter in every game except last Saturday when the field was covered with ice and snow and running with the ball was next to impossible. Oregon Agricultural College thought back to Lansing, Mich., and walloped the Michigan Aggies, 20-0. The Michigan Aggies have demonstrated that they are the class of the Middle West by defeating all the teams she has played by large scores, including the University of Michigan, 24-0. Michigan under Yeast has been the "big brother" of the West for a decade.

The Colorado Aggies have decisively trounced all the teams in the Rocky Mountain conference, including a 44-9 score over the University of Colorado, which will furnish amusement for Seattle and "Bull Moose" Doble on Thanksgiving day.

The Iowa Aggies, known as the Ames Cyclones, ran up a 15-0 count on the University of Iowa last Saturday in spite of the fact that it was "Home Coming" day at the university and over 10,000 people were present on the majority of their rooting for Iowa.

Nebraska Clutches Its Title. Nebraska University which has its agricultural department in conjunction with the other departments at Lincoln, has won undisputed championship of the Missouri Valley conference. Penn State, Purdue, Massachusetts Aggies, Texas and Oklahoma Aggies all have played an improved brand of football this season.

Last, but not least, what is Cornell? Isn't she the "pious college" of the Yankee? Didn't she trim the "R" off the front of "Arvard"?

All these proofs lead us to the conclusion that the agricultural colleges are enrolling the husky sons who formerly entered the universities to study law, medicine and the art of teaching. Back to the farm is now a reality and the farmers are overstocked with "curia" in porkers' tails, the universities will have to travel in the "almond" column.

No more will Doble and Washington dictate to the Aggies because of her base won, undisputed championship of the Missouri Valley conference. George J. Kelly, secretary of the club, will speak on "Preparedness, or the Proper Armament for a Motor Boat in 1916."

DUCK HUNTING IS EXCELLENT

Sport Around Ridgefield Declared Best in Years.

RIDGEFIELD, Wash., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Last Sunday furnished one of the best days of duck hunting in the history of the sport, according to reports from sportsmen. A number of hunters from Vancouver went to various lakes along the lowlands near this place and returned with limit bags.

In the vicinity of Ridgefield, over on the bottom lands and marshes, where there are numbers of private preserves, the shooting was the best for years. The continued rains of the past few days will make the shooting all the better, as when the weather prevails the ducks come inland. There are a number of preserves, just across Lake River from Ridgefield, also some on Bancelor Island. Geese are beginning to come in.

O. A. C. Fund Work Started.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—A fund to complement the Oregon Agricultural College football team, which was started this week by Representative C. N. McArthur, graduate of the University of Oregon, John H. Gallagher and Harry Holgate, alumni of the Oregon Agricultural College, who sent the first check to President W. J. Kerr, will be used for an entertainment or trophy for the team in recognition of its brilliant victory over the Michigan Aggies (Mich.) three weeks ago, and the work of obtaining the additional funds necessary for the project will begin next week.

MOTOR CLUB WILL DINE

BANQUET PROGRAMME ARRANGED FOR TOMORROW NIGHT.

Boat Activities on River Will Be Discussed in Humorous Talks by Prominent Speakers.

The annual banquet of the members of the Portland Motor Boat Club will be held at the Commercial Club tomorrow night. "Genial Joe" Carter, chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged an elaborate programme for the "jolly tars." Chief Surgeon Charles E. Hill will be master of ceremonies and he has promised to prescribe free of charge to any member needing his professional services immediately after the dinner.

Commodore Kenneth Beebe is down on the programme for the speech of the evening, entitled "I Will Not Raise My Son to Be a Commodore." Vice-Commodore Boost has been allowed 10 minutes to explain "The Cruising Possibilities from the Houseboat Artisan."

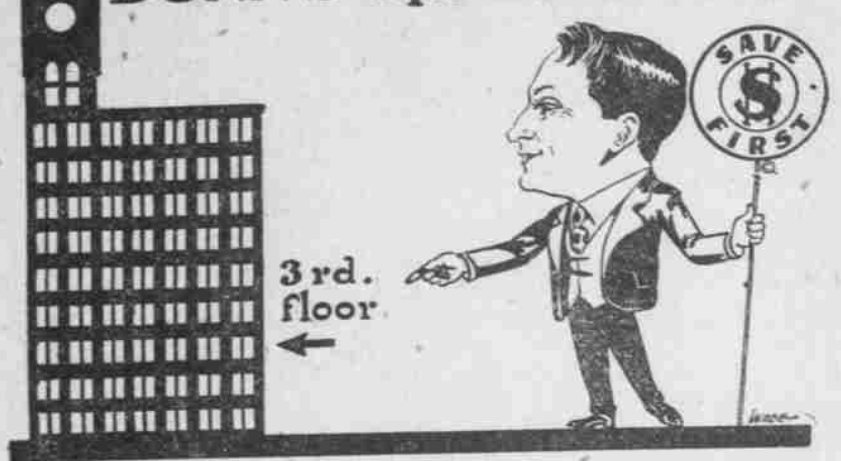

Gus Fleming, the gifted singer and clerk of the club, will render a pleasing melody, accompanied by the dues. Every Little Due is Due." Mr. Hoover, the original doughnut king, will discourse on "Do Not Buy Motor Boats." George Kendall, captain of the good ship Syph, has selected his own subject. "Personally Conducted Cruises for Queens."

Len Meyers will give a brief talk. George J. Kelly, secretary of the club, will speak on "Preparedness, or the Proper Armament for a Motor Boat in 1916."

Many other speakers will be provided with proper subjects and the evening's entertainment promises to be replete with fun, amusement, education, refreshments and smokes.

A method has been invented by a Russian artist for painting several theatrical scenes on the same canvas, the pictures changing as the light thrown on them is changed.

JACKRABBITS WIN 18-6

YELLOWJACKET ELEVEN OF COUCH SCHOOL IS DEFEATED.

Rival Teams of Pupils Meet in Lively Contest on Gridiron on Overton Street.

A close game was played at Twenty-first and Overton streets yesterday between the Jackrabbits of Couch School and the Yellowjackets.

It is no easy matter for an 83-pound team to cheer the line plunger of a team 11 pounds heavier. But the brilliant tackling of Kenney, W. Collins and Piper was sufficient to hold their opponents.

The Jackrabbits' heavy half made large gains by line plunges, while the Yellowjackets made up losses by excellent forward passes; two of them for touchdowns. W. Collins' passing and Geary's fine work at end were features.

The Jackrabbits also made some fine plays. Page's and Dodge's line plunging and Bilberry's fast end runs were difficult for the opposing side to stop. The Jackrabbits' only checkmate was made by an excellent line plunger.

When the Jackrabbits were near the opponents' goal, Page attempted a pass which was not meant for Geary, who intercepted it and, with a good interference, made for the other goal. This was the Yellowjackets' first touch-down. The passes were made by excellent forward passes by W. Collins. All attempts to kick were a failure.

Score—Yellowjackets, 18; Jackrabbits, 6. The lineup: Yellowjackets: C. Shearer, R. Page, T. R. Ingram, M. Bilberry, R. G. L. Brody, F. L. Markers, R. E. Markers, W. Collins, L. H. Brown, W. Collins, F. Dodge.
