

MUNITIONS OF WAR EMBARGO UNLIKELY

Congressmen Not in Favor of Senator Hitchcock's Bill Imposing Levy.

POLL FORECASTS NO ACTION

No Question of Greater Moment to Country at Present—Senator Chamberlain One of Two Who Favor Nebraska's Move.

BY JOHN CALLAN CLAYTON. WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Congress will not pass a bill establishing an embargo upon munitions of war.

There is not much difficulty in forecasting non-action after considering the replies in connection with a poll of the Senate and House of Representatives on this important matter.

There is no question of greater moment to the country at the present time than that which was put to Senators and Congressmen. It was direct and unequivocal, as follows:

Question is to Point. Do you favor an embargo on munitions of war?

Every member of Congress knew that President Wilson, in response to German intimations, had advised the German Ambassador that in change the policy of war with the United States would be an unneutral act.

Every member of Congress knew that the allies are purchasing immense quantities of supplies in the United States, and that the purchases made were an important feature of the movement which is bringing back prosperity to the country.

It was likewise known that tremendous pressure was being made and would be applied to Congress to pass a bill imposing an embargo.

The replies received were from every state in the Union—are overwhelmingly against a proposal to impose an embargo. There is only one condition, apparent upon which it would receive real consideration. That is if Great Britain and her allies change the policy of selling ships and their cargoes, which is being done in violation of strong remonstrance by President Wilson.

Only Two Senators Favor Plan. In the Senate, for example, only two Senators replied that they favored an embargo, those being Senators Chamberlain of Nebraska, and Senator Martin of New Jersey.

The following Senators declared they were opposed to any such action: Foster of California, Thomas of Colorado, Fletcher of Florida, Williams of Mississippi, and Meyers of Montana, Owen of Oklahoma, Shepard of Texas, all Democrats, and Brandegee of Connecticut, Lodge of Massachusetts, Townsend of Michigan, Cates and Hall of New York, and Warren of Wyoming.

In the House only five Democrats and nine Republicans expressed themselves in favor of an embargo. These men were: Democrats—Hendall of California, Hines of Kansas, Halliday of Kansas, Witherspoon of Mississippi, and Burke of Wisconsin.

Republicans—Kahn of California, Robinson of Illinois, Anthony of Kansas, Bryan of Missouri, Russell and Kearns of Ohio, and Cary and Keck of Wisconsin.

Many Lined Up Against It. The Democrats against include such men as Flood of Virginia, chairman of the House foreign relations committee; Tillman of Arkansas, Wilson of Florida, Lee of Georgia, W. R. Williams of Illinois, Estess of Iowa, Williams of Louisiana, Humphreys of Mississippi, Alexander, Russell and Hamblett of Missouri, Stephens of Nebraska, Gordon of Ohio, Hadley of Pennsylvania, Sims of Tennessee, Hardy of Texas and Reilly and Keop of Wisconsin.

The Republicans against include Curry and Hayes of California, Tison of Connecticut, Miller of Delaware, Wilson, McKenna, Chipperfield and Copley (Prog.) of Virginia, Hays of Indiana, Roberts, Greene and Gardner of Massachusetts, Hamilton, Smith, Lord, James and Cramton of Michigan, Miller of Minnesota, Gray of New Jersey, Magee, Wadsworth, Holt, Snyder, Gordon and Matthews of Ohio, Hepwood, Graham, Vane, Miller and Crapo of Pennsylvania, Gordon of Vermont, Sims of Virginia, Sutherland of West Virginia and Mondell of Wyoming.

The Administration expects that Senator Hitchcock's bill, which imposes an embargo on munitions, if it is not believed that he will get much support, especially from the South, says a Washington correspondent who last winter were stirred up over the cotton situation now take a complacent view of the situation.

Moreover, according to the regulars received, they realize that if an embargo should be imposed upon munitions of war, necessarily the prohibition must be extended to everything that enters into the manufacture of munitions. Cotton is the base of all high explosives.

"We cannot cut off our nose to spite our own face," observed one Southern Congressman, "entirely."

So it looks as though the Administration and the allies need have no concern about the proposal to lay an embargo on munitions.

SPOKANE JITNEYS EXPAND

$35,000 to Be Expended for Ten New Limousines.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Plans for expansion and improvement of the auto-hire business, including taxis and jitneys, are now under way.

One of the biggest projects announced today is that of the Seven-Seven Company, which plans to expend $35,000 for ten new equipment this winter.

Manager D. H. Niseg announced that the company is figuring with several automobile manufacturers for 15 new limousines which will cost in the neighborhood of $2500 each.

"The new cars will look just like private automobiles," says Mr. Niseg. "They will be made with the detachable bodies so that open cars can be made of them for summer."

Jitney men also are awaiting the outcome of a test case in Seattle involving the validity of the state bonding law. Should this favor them it would tend to stimulate the jitney business.

VANCOUVER ELKS TO PLAY

"The Castaways," Original Comedy, to Be Presented in January.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Vanouver Lodge of Elks will stage a comic opera about the middle of January next. The comedy is en-

STORY OF MCKINLEY MEMORIAL IS LAID

Ceremonies Reminiscent of ex-President's Life Commemorate Event at Niles, O.

MANY NOTABLES PRESENT

Great Achievements and Homely Incidents Alternate in Review of Life by Speaker—Patriotic Parade Opens Programme.

NILES, O., Nov. 20.—The cornerstone of the National McKinley Birthplace Memorial was laid here at noon today with ceremonies reminiscent of the ex-President's life.

"Lead Kindly Light," the hymn which clung to the President in his dying moments and the Strauss waltz, "On the Beautiful Blue Danube," a favorite of Mrs. McKinley's, were played by the United States Marine Band and James H. Hoyt, an intimate friend of the ex-President, recited personal reminiscences.

At the conclusion of the programme Major Charles B. Harford, head of the marine band, declaimed "The Star-Spangled Banner," a bit of elocution which McKinley was wont to request in his White House days.

Mr. Harford was forced to decline an invitation to lay the cornerstone, but he sent a representative and promised to be present at the dedication of the building.

Other guests of the day included Senators Pomeroy and Harding, of Ohio; Representative Ashbrook, of Johnston, O.; J. O. Schindler, of Cincinnati, one of the trustees of the memorial fund; Governor Willis, of Ohio; Myron T. Herrick, of Cleveland, ex-Ambassador to France, and C. C. Wilson, of St. Louis, a member of Congress and commander of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Governor Willis, Mr. Herrick and Mr. Dyer were the principal speakers.

The day's programme began with a parade, in which state troops, veteran organizations, Masons and other organizations in which McKinley was interested took part.

Camps of Spanish War Veterans and posts of the Grand Army of the Republic from Cleveland, Alliance, Canton and Akron, O., and Pittsburg, Sharon and Newcastles, Pa., were in the parade.

Mr. Herrick in his speech said, in part: "Few men in all the ages have so laid hold on the hearts of a people as McKinley did. When Prince William of Orange died, women and children cried in the streets; men, women and children all over the world wept when Lincoln was shot. McKinley's death was a personal, poignant grief to millions of his countrymen."

"McKinley perceived the importance of maintaining right relations with other nations, and his conduct of the Spanish War and of our part in the Boxer rebellion, and his views on international relations reflected a broad and generous comprehension of the changing position of the United States toward the rest of the world."

Achievements Are Reviewed. Mr. Hoyt reviewed the great achievements of the McKinley Administration, and then illustrated the intensely human side of the President by the following stories of McKinley's career:

"At the time of the Boxer rebellion, when the diplomatic representatives of other nations were in danger, military forces were being sent to suppress the rebellion. Our troops were in transit under command of General Chaffee. McKinley was taking a morning rest at his home in Canton, O. The long-distance telephone was situated between two windows. Under one of them was a faucet. One morning the President was called to the long-distance telephone by his two great secretaries, Hay and Root. A message had been received from the War Department that the Emperor of Germany, requesting that the President of the United States should place the American soldiers under the command of Count Waldener, in the Philippines, in order to insure harmony of action on the part of the allied armies. It was a momentous dispatch, and serious results might depend upon its proper and intelligent answer.

"Some workmen in the street became thirsty, so one of their number was sent for water. So while the President was consulting with his secretaries concerning this important matter over the telephone, John walked up, hung his pail on the faucet and turned on the water. The running water disturbed the President. He asked his secretaries to wait a moment, and, looking out of the window, said: "John, that water running in the pail makes a very disturbing noise, and I am busy talking over the long-distance telephone. Please turn it off for a few moments."

Laberer Hears Conversation. "All right, Major," replied the man, and turning off the water, he filled his pipe and lit it, and then, sitting down with his back to the house, listened to the conversation.

"McKinley was not impatient, nor did he resent, as almost any other man would, this interference. He dictated to his secretaries over the telephone that famous and 'McKinley' reply, concerning that the American troops should be placed under the command of the German Consul. The President hung up the receiver, but he did not forget John.

"John," he said, "I am through now, and you can turn on the water again." John did so, and then, leaning on the window sill, said: "Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

AUTO VICTIM IS DEAD

J. O. Wing, of Washougal, Succumbs to Injuries.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—J. O. Wing, 53 years old, prominent state stranger, member of the Washington Council, ex-president of the Clark County Fair Association, and "potato king," died at his home today at 6 A. M. from injuries received in an automobile accident Friday night.

Mr. Wing was driving home from Mount Pleasant to Washougal when a piece of the bottom of his car got in the way of the steering gear. He attempted to replace it, guiding the car with one hand.

The car veered on the grade and went over an embankment about 25 feet high, killing him under it.

Mr. Wing leaves a widow in Washougal and an adopted daughter.

M'MINNVILLE MEETING BIG

Interesting Addresses Mark Sunday School Convention.

M'MINNVILLE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Interesting addresses marked the opening day of the annual Yamhill County Sunday School convention and the attendance was large. The programme follows:

Rev. C. P. Gater, opening prayer; Rev. C. A. Phillips, address, "Modern Sunday School Problems"; Mrs. Olive Clark, state worker, "The Work of the Home"; Mrs. C. Burleson, "How to Treat Beginners"; Rev. I. Berg, "Fifty Years With the Sunday School"; Judge J. B. Dodson, "Sunday School a Country Asset." The Methodist Episcopal Church tendered a reception to the delegates late in the afternoon.

1667 DRESSINGS ARE MADE

Committee Reports 15,247 Have Been Sent to Soldiers.

The work of making bandages and other surgical dressings for the soldiers of Europe goes on unabated in Portland. The surgical dressing committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Scadding, yesterday gave out a report for the week.

Prior to last week 16,552 pieces of bandage and other articles had been made. The committee reported yesterday that during the past week it had made 295 flannel binders, 10 plain binders, 237 fracture pads, 15 slings, 41 War Veterans and posts of the Grand Army of the Republic from Cleveland, Alliance, Canton and Akron, O., and Pittsburg, Sharon and Newcastles, Pa., were in the parade.

Mr. Herrick in his speech said, in part: "Few men in all the ages have so laid hold on the hearts of a people as McKinley did. When Prince William of Orange died, women and children cried in the streets; men, women and children all over the world wept when Lincoln was shot. McKinley's death was a personal, poignant grief to millions of his countrymen."

"McKinley perceived the importance of maintaining right relations with other nations, and his conduct of the Spanish War and of our part in the Boxer rebellion, and his views on international relations reflected a broad and generous comprehension of the changing position of the United States toward the rest of the world."

Achievements Are Reviewed. Mr. Hoyt reviewed the great achievements of the McKinley Administration, and then illustrated the intensely human side of the President by the following stories of McKinley's career:

"At the time of the Boxer rebellion, when the diplomatic representatives of other nations were in danger, military forces were being sent to suppress the rebellion. Our troops were in transit under command of General Chaffee. McKinley was taking a morning rest at his home in Canton, O. The long-distance telephone was situated between two windows. Under one of them was a faucet. One morning the President was called to the long-distance telephone by his two great secretaries, Hay and Root. A message had been received from the War Department that the Emperor of Germany, requesting that the President of the United States should place the American soldiers under the command of Count Waldener, in the Philippines, in order to insure harmony of action on the part of the allied armies. It was a momentous dispatch, and serious results might depend upon its proper and intelligent answer.

"Some workmen in the street became thirsty, so one of their number was sent for water. So while the President was consulting with his secretaries concerning this important matter over the telephone, John walked up, hung his pail on the faucet and turned on the water. The running water disturbed the President. He asked his secretaries to wait a moment, and, looking out of the window, said: "John, that water running in the pail makes a very disturbing noise, and I am busy talking over the long-distance telephone. Please turn it off for a few moments."

Laberer Hears Conversation. "All right, Major," replied the man, and turning off the water, he filled his pipe and lit it, and then, sitting down with his back to the house, listened to the conversation.

"McKinley was not impatient, nor did he resent, as almost any other man would, this interference. He dictated to his secretaries over the telephone that famous and 'McKinley' reply, concerning that the American troops should be placed under the command of the German Consul. The President hung up the receiver, but he did not forget John.

"John," he said, "I am through now, and you can turn on the water again." John did so, and then, leaning on the window sill, said: "Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

STREET ENGINEER RESIGNS

H. C. Kendall to Follow F. W. Hild to Denver Street Railway.

H. C. Kendall has resigned as traffic engineer with the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company to accept a position of larger responsibility under his former chief, F. W. Hild, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Scadding, yesterday gave out a report for the week.

Prior to last week 16,552 pieces of bandage and other articles had been made. The committee reported yesterday that during the past week it had made 295 flannel binders, 10 plain binders, 237 fracture pads, 15 slings, 41 War Veterans and posts of the Grand Army of the Republic from Cleveland, Alliance, Canton and Akron, O., and Pittsburg, Sharon and Newcastles, Pa., were in the parade.

Mr. Herrick in his speech said, in part: "Few men in all the ages have so laid hold on the hearts of a people as McKinley did. When Prince William of Orange died, women and children cried in the streets; men, women and children all over the world wept when Lincoln was shot. McKinley's death was a personal, poignant grief to millions of his countrymen."

"McKinley perceived the importance of maintaining right relations with other nations, and his conduct of the Spanish War and of our part in the Boxer rebellion, and his views on international relations reflected a broad and generous comprehension of the changing position of the United States toward the rest of the world."

Achievements Are Reviewed. Mr. Hoyt reviewed the great achievements of the McKinley Administration, and then illustrated the intensely human side of the President by the following stories of McKinley's career:

"At the time of the Boxer rebellion, when the diplomatic representatives of other nations were in danger, military forces were being sent to suppress the rebellion. Our troops were in transit under command of General Chaffee. McKinley was taking a morning rest at his home in Canton, O. The long-distance telephone was situated between two windows. Under one of them was a faucet. One morning the President was called to the long-distance telephone by his two great secretaries, Hay and Root. A message had been received from the War Department that the Emperor of Germany, requesting that the President of the United States should place the American soldiers under the command of Count Waldener, in the Philippines, in order to insure harmony of action on the part of the allied armies. It was a momentous dispatch, and serious results might depend upon its proper and intelligent answer.

"Some workmen in the street became thirsty, so one of their number was sent for water. So while the President was consulting with his secretaries concerning this important matter over the telephone, John walked up, hung his pail on the faucet and turned on the water. The running water disturbed the President. He asked his secretaries to wait a moment, and, looking out of the window, said: "John, that water running in the pail makes a very disturbing noise, and I am busy talking over the long-distance telephone. Please turn it off for a few moments."

Laberer Hears Conversation. "All right, Major," replied the man, and turning off the water, he filled his pipe and lit it, and then, sitting down with his back to the house, listened to the conversation.

"McKinley was not impatient, nor did he resent, as almost any other man would, this interference. He dictated to his secretaries over the telephone that famous and 'McKinley' reply, concerning that the American troops should be placed under the command of the German Consul. The President hung up the receiver, but he did not forget John.

"John," he said, "I am through now, and you can turn on the water again." John did so, and then, leaning on the window sill, said: "Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

"I hope so, John," said the great executive.

"What Major?" replied John "you don't need to be too darn yielding, for all of us boys are behind you."

"Thank you, John," said the great President, and the incident was closed.

Major, because all the laboring men in Canton called him by that familiar title 'Major,' I hope you are going to settle that Chinese question all right, ain't you?"

APPLIANCES WHICH MAKE FOR HEALTH AND EFFICIENCY. Woven to the Wearer's Measure on Our Own Looms by Experts. Elastic Stockings - Every length or size required of the finest material pure silk and rubber. These garments relieve VARICOSE (enlarged) VEINS, WEAK JOINTS, STRAINS, SPRAINS, SORE TENDONS OR MUSCLES. OUR BELTS relieve over-fatness in men or women; give security and comfort following operations and during pregnancy. Our Lumbago Belts cure and prevent this painful affliction. Light, warm, comfortable. Any size, $1.00. Genuine Homeopathic Medicines, Pellets, Tinctures, Etc. Homeo Prescriptions, Specifics and Family Recipes a Specialty. Registered Homeopathic Pharmacist in Charge. Catalogue and Price List Free.

WILSON MOTORS FAR President and Mrs. Galt Take Ride Into Maryland. FARMER BAND TURNS OUT Bass Drum and Two Horns Play "America" as Party Passes—Citizen Whom Piece Patted on Head Gives Greeting.

YAMHILL PIONEER IS DEAD Mrs. Susan Morris Passes at Age of 93 Years. M'MINNVILLE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Mrs. Susan Morris, Oregon pioneer and first white girl born in Bates County, Missouri, died Wednesday at her home near here, where she had resided since settling in 1831, after crossing the plains by ox team. She would have been 93 years old December 6.

COMMUNITY SING IS HELD Lebanon Has First Entertainment in Social Center Programme. LEBANON, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The first entertainment under the auspices of the newly-organized community social center committee was given last night in the assembly hall of the Lebanon High School. After a program of the audience joined in singing several old favorites.

PARKER GETS PERMIT "Painless" May Do Business in Oregon; Capitalization $5000. SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Permit to do business in Oregon was granted today by Corporation Commissioner Schuiderman to Painless Park, Dentist, a California corporation. The company is capitalized at $5000. A permit also was granted to the Brooks Lumber Company, incorporated in Minnesota. The company, which is capitalized at $1,750,000, will have headquarters at Beaverton, Ore., where a mill was recently established.

POULTRY RAISING SUSPENDED. WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Rules of Western carriers proposing withdrawal of a first-class rating on live poultry in coops, less than carloads, between points in Western territory, were approved March 30 by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

HADLEY TO RUN FOR SENATOR. KANSAS CITY, Nov. 20.—Herbert S. Hadley, ex-Republican Governor and Attorney-General of Missouri, today announced his candidacy for the United States Senate in 1916.

Dandruff Soon Ruins the Hair. Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips; in the morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel better and grows better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Truth Will Endure. Right will win. The Feldenheimer plan of selling jewelry is right. The Feldenheimer Plan means the most for your money. The Feldenheimer Plan means one price to all. The Feldenheimer Plan means truthful statements. The Feldenheimer Plan assures you of fresh, new, late style goods of highest quality—always. We get a great deal of satisfaction in looking at jewelry and silver sold by us ten, twenty, thirty and forty years ago and seeing how well it has worn—this is the real test of Feldenheimer quality. In selecting Thanksgiving or gift silver you should look into the years and select enduring quality. We offer a complete stock of the latest patterns of solid silver, silver plate, silverware, carving sets, Sheffield plate, the beautiful Tiffany Favril glass, etc., etc. Before you buy you owe it to yourself to compare Feldenheimer quality and prices.

Audrey Stafford Lalippe, the charming little daughter of Mrs. C. Cranston Sharp, formerly Mrs. Lenley Stafford-Lalippe, of San Francisco, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. James Thompson, in Laurelhurst, celebrated her fifth birthday Thursday afternoon by a party, which was attended by a number of the small folk of Laurelhurst.

FESTIVAL HEAD NAMED

E. J. JAEGER IS CHOSEN TEMPORARY PRESIDENT.

Dr. A. K. BIRGE Will Act as Secretary Until New Board is Permanently Organized.

E. J. Jaeger was chosen temporary president, and Dr. A. K. Birge temporary secretary of the 1916 Rose Festival Association at a meeting of the new and old directors of the board held in the Chamber of Commerce last night.

Members of the retiring board are: Emergency Committee, F. C. Carroll, F. W. Hild, G. F. Berg, George L. Baker, H. L. Corbett, Jacob Kautzer, J. Fred Larson, S. C. Pier, O. M. Plummer, Ira F. Powers and Dean Vincent. Fred S. Bates was superintendent of amusements of the 1915 Rose Festival.

GUS ZAHN MAY GO FREE

JURY NINE FOR ACQUITTAL ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE.

Man Who Sent Car Through Railing of Broadway Bridge Liable to Win Case on Appeal.

After trying for eight hours to decide whether Gus Zahn was intoxicated last week when he swerved his automobile and crashed through the railing of the Broadway bridge, a jury of nine acquitted him yesterday.

Nine of them did agree, though. Nine men thought Zahn was innocent. Three insisted that he was guilty of violating city ordinance prohibiting a drunk man from driving an automobile.

"Maybe this will set Zahn free," said Judge Gale. The verdict of a city jury has been held by the Supreme Court to be not a crime. Judge Morrow recently said that a case appealed from Municipal Court did not require a unanimous verdict, but nine men could decide it.

And there the case stands. The jury was discharged with the understanding that, if the nine-jury rule was found to be correct, Zahn can go free. If a unanimous verdict is required, he must be tried again.

Zahn was arrested by County Roadmaster Yess, who was driving his automobile a short distance behind him. The front part of Zahn's machine went through the railing and crashed over the bridge, just over the Southern Pacific railroad yards.

Municipal Judge Stevenson had sentenced Zahn to 10 days in jail, and the trial in Judge Gale's court was an appeal from that conviction.

POOL HALL MAN FINED

Morris Silverman Fined $25 for Allowing Minors.

Morris Silverman, proprietor of a pool hall at 147 1/2 Sixth street, who was arrested Friday night by Police Sergeant Oelander and Patrolman H. W. Wright, charged with allowing minors to play pool in his place, was fined $25 by Municipal Judge Stevenson yesterday. Silverman is said by officers to be an old offender.

RUNNING TEAM HITS AUTOS

Elderly Man Is Knocked Down by Runaways on Busy Street.

Becoming frightened while at First and Yamhill streets yesterday afternoon at 1:45, a team belonging to Joe Weber, a farmer, of Milwaukie, ran up Yamhill, colliding with an automobile belonging to H. Kersten at Fifth street, and knocking down C. Dunn, an elderly man. The team also jammed into an auto belonging to the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company.

No damage was done, and, with the help of Patrolman C. G. Crampton, Mr. Weber succeeded in extricating his team and wagon. Mr. Dunn was bruised but was not seriously hurt.