2 TRUNK SEWERS NEARLY FINISHED

$180,000 Engineering Project Is to Be Completed by End of November.

PIPE FAR UNDER SURFACE

Feat Is Probably Greatest Undertaken by City This Year and Is to Benefit Large Tract of East Side Property.

Two large trunk sewers, one costing $160,000 and the other $20,000, will be completed this month by the city, according to reports made yesterday to City Commissioner Dieck. The two projects have been under way for several months and will be probably the largest city engineering projects of the present year.

The larger of the projects is the fourth section of the East Stark-street trunk sewer, extending from East Sixty-third and Willow streets to East Eighty-seventh and East Stark streets in Montavilla. This section will connect with three others built prior to this year and extending to the river. The fourth section is five feet in diameter and involved a number of heavy cuts.

Pipe Is 30 Feet Below Surface.
Between Barr road and East Gilean street, about one-half mile, the sewer is 30 feet under ground. The construction necessitated the use of heavy timbers and modern machinery for the handling of the dirt. This work has been done by William Lind, contractor.

The first section of the East Stark-street sewer extends from the river to East Twenty-first and East Stark streets; the second from there to East Forty-third and East Burnside and the third from there to East Sixty-third and Willow streets. Branches have been constructed on East Gilean street and on East Stark street at a point where the main trunk drains Stark street. The four sections drain a large district, between Montavilla and the river, including all of Montavilla.

The second big project was the reconstruction of the East Alder-street trunk sewer from the river to a point midway between East First and East Second streets. The old sewer in this street collapsed because of the settling of a fill over which it was constructed.

Large Tunnel Is Cut.
The new pipe is being constructed of reinforced concrete and is 28 feet under the ground. Difficult engineering was necessary because of the existence of the old sewer near where the new one was being built. A large tunnel first was run in under the old sewer and then the reinforced concrete pipe was constructed. Heavy timbering was necessary in this project also. This sewer is seven feet in diameter.

In the East Stark-street sewer the pipe was made before being set in place and was lowered by machinery. In the East Alder-street project the pipe had to be constructed under ground. The work for this will cost $20,000 and was done by K. G. Lundstrom, contractor. The cost of the work will be assessed against an assessment district comprising 600 acres. The Montavilla sewer also will be paid for by assessment against the property benefited.

AMATEUR ACTORS IN CLUB

Hood River Young People Prepare for Play in January.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Hood River's most recent organization is a dramatic club, its membership made up of the young people of the city and valley. Officers of the new club are: Phil Carroll, president; Mrs. A. W. Peters, vice-president; C. E. Coffin, secretary; J. R. Phillips, treasurer; Ralph Root, Miss Mary Knight and Wado Arens, additional directors.

The club plans its first play early in January. The following committee is making preparations for rehearsals: J. H. Heilbroner, Mrs. L. A. Henderson, Mrs. E. E. Moller, Mrs. C. E. Coffin, Ralph Root and Fordham E. Kimball.

NEW CORN MILL STARTS

Converted Sawmill at Hood River Is Near Historic Structure.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—The first cornmill to be ground in the Hood River valley in many years was started yesterday by J. R. Phillips, of the Frankton district, who has just installed a set of stones in his water-driven sawmill. The first turn of corn was brought to the mill by D. W. Vinson.

An old building in which was operated the first gristmill of the valley is still standing. It is within 100 rods of the present Phillips mill. The pioneer miller of the valley was Daniel D. Rodgers, grandfather of W. D. Rodgers, a merchant of the city.

AURORA PIONEER PASSES

Frederick J. Dolson, Cousin of Joseph Larned, Leaves Family.

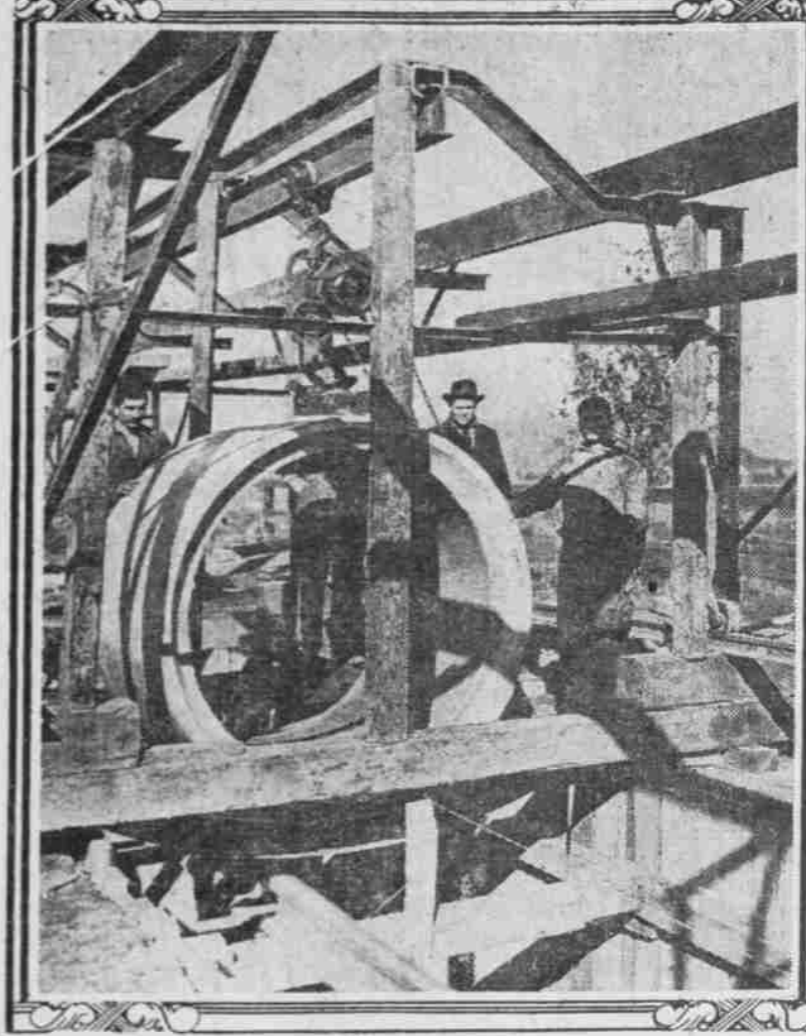

AURORA, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Frederick J. Dolson, who died Wednesday at Portland, had been a resident of Aurora since 1907. He was a member of a pioneer family, his cousin, Joseph Larned, the historian, being well known all over the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Dolson was born in Michigan. For 22 years he was in the employment of the Union Pacific Railroad in the purchasing department. In 1895 he married Margaret Wilcox, daughter of Rev. Alexander Wilcox, a Presbyterian clergyman of Aberdeen, Scotland. Mr. Dolson is survived by his widow and two children, all of this place.

Dramatic Criticism Studied.

Students of Adeline M. Alvord gave a fine program of dramatic criticism in Gile's building, last Thursday. Mrs. G. J. Frankel spoke interestingly to the class regarding the work of the National Speech Arts Association, of which she is a member.

TWO TRUNK SEWER PROJECTS WHICH WILL BE FINISHED THIS MONTH BY CITY AT COST OF $180,000.

Completing New 7 Foot Trunk Sewer 50 ft Under East Alder Street At E. 1st Street.

TRIBUTE PAID PORTLAND

RABBI HARRISON, OF ST. LOUIS, LAUDS WONDERS AND PROGRESS.

Sermon, in Published Form, Reviews Objects Noted During Tour of Country This Summer.

Portland and the Western progressive spirit are mentioned in the published form of a recent sermon given by Rabbi Leon Harrison, of St. Louis, reputed to be "one of the most noted rabbis in America." The subject of Rabbi Harrison's sermon was "A Great America That Should Make Great Americans," and was delivered to the Temple Israel congregation recently.

Rabbi Harrison reviews the things that came under his observation during his tour of the country during the summer, tells of the wondrous scenery of the Pacific Coast and in his appeal for park beautification propounds to his congregation this: "I wonder if the City of Portland would have rejected the project of a central parkway, in a campaign against a necessary and splendid improvement, led by representative men of wealth and prominence in its community. To my mind, such a pitiful and miserably attitude on the part of a great and enthusiastic city of the Far West is utterly inconceivable. For their spirit is not one of reaction and betriafaction, the spirit of the Rip Van Winkle who never wakes up. Their is the spirit of progress, of enthusiastic civic pride, the spirit of men of vision, who foresee the needs of a great future, provide for the same, wisely and abundantly."

The Columbia Highway, world famous, also has evoked praise and admiration from Rabbi Harrison and he has given the scenic road and Portland more publicity by the following comment: "There is another wonder city of the Great West, visited by ships crowded by mountains and looking down upon a river that is as picturesque as the Rhine and as majestic as the Hudson. And along the Columbia River, that comes down to the continent, the far-sighted State of Oregon is building the Columbia Highway over the bluffs and hills, opening up all the splendors of these far-dung vistas: a road, solid and superb, recalling the palmy days when Rome linked together its principalities and so introduced civilization. And even so the Columbia River, in all its hundreds of miles of picturesque beauty, will be brought nearer this highway of monumental beauty."

Linn County Farmer Dies.

LERANDON, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—A. A. Landley, a well-known farmer of Linn County, died at his home two

DAIRYING SHOWS GROWTH

Polk County Total for 1914 of $250,000 Is Exceeded Now.

RICKREALL, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—Combined reports of the creameries at Mouthout, Dallas and Independence show that the cream production of Polk County has experienced a remarkable gain this fall. The results of the summer's storing of feed of all kinds have been evident in the extra milk of cows on the smaller farms and the farmers have demonstrated this fall that not many acres are needed for dairying. The hay and milk feed was stored this summer, while the green feed has been held out of doors as long as possible.

Polk County's cream production in 1914 totaled $250,000. Rough estimates show that amount already has been exceeded for the present year.

REALTY MAN JOKE VICTIM

Silverware Taken From His Pockets Chagrins W. H. Mall.

In full view of 150 members of the Realty Board, last Friday's luncheon meeting dispersed, George D. Schalk stepped up to W. H. Mall and pulled enough silverware and table glassware out of the latter's pockets to start an independent lunch counter.

With such conclusive evidence of guilt Mr. Mall could do nothing but smile in chagrin while his fellow "real estate" howled with laughter. The joke had been framed by Mr. Schalk, George P. Henry and several other leading comedians of the Realty Board, who chanced to sit alongside Mr. Mall at the luncheon.

M'MINNVILLE PIONEER DIES

Mrs. Maria Hodson Is Survived by Two Sons, One in Portland.

M'MINNVILLE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—In the death of Mrs. Maria Hodson McMinville loses one of its best-known pioneer citizens.

Mrs. Hodson had lived in McMinville for 35 years, coming from Clinton County, Ohio. Mrs. Hodson was 80 years old and is survived by two sons, O. O. Hodson, furniture man of McMinville, and C. W. Hodson, of Portland.

3600 STUDENTS ARE IN NIGHT SCHOOLS

Thirty-Eight Nations Are Represented and Average Age Is 30 Years.

GIRLS LEARN HOME CARE

Several Hundred Business Men, Day Teachers and Office Women Are Among Those Enrolled—Trade Languages Are Taught.

Approximately 3600 persons are attending the night schools of Portland. Every nationality, every creed, and persons of every degree of material prosperity are represented in the composite student body.

Contrary to the popular belief the night schools are not conducted for the benefit of the alien alone, nor for the benefit of children who work during the day and take advantage of the educational opportunities at night. The night schools also offer courses that have proved attractive to the college graduate, the business man, the day teacher and the professional man.

In the Lincoln High School building, where the languages, commercial courses, salesmanship, stenography, typewriting, business arithmetic, English literature and kindred subjects are taught, there are enrolled 1700 students and there is an average attendance of more than 1900.

Business Men Are in Classes.

The majority of those attending the classes are not only past the academic age but they are representative of the prosperous class of Portland citizens. Some of the best known of Portland's business and professional men are enrolled in the night courses.

In the Spanish class alone there are enrolled between 350 and 400 men and women, many of whom are teachers from the Portland day schools. The French courses have also proved attractive, and there are courses for both elementary and advanced students in all the romance languages.

One of the features that has been added to the courses this year at Lincoln High is a class in business methods pursued in South American republics. It is conducted entirely in Spanish, Spanish newspapers are read and the instructor in charge of the course comes direct from one of the South American republics.

Teachers Are Also Students.

Besides the large number of business and professional men who are attending the night classes, there are between 250 and 300 day teachers in Portland schools, enrolled. John T. Veatch, the principal of the night school at Lincoln, has said that the average age of the students in his school is 30.

In the school of trades for the girls, located in the old Lincoln High building, Fourteenth and Morrison streets, there are taught courses that were unheard of in educational circles five years ago. Beside the courses in domestic arts and sciences, that have been introduced in Portland schools during the past few years, millinery and arts and crafts work are now popular courses. In these classrooms business girls learn to sew, make their own dress patterns, cook, learn how to buy the proper things to eat, make their own hats and become capable and economic housewives.

Girls Learn Core of Home.

One of the instructors in domestic science in the night schools has said that her classes were made up entirely of office girls.

"It takes a big incentive for girls to attend my classes night after night when they work all day and might be at home resting," said this teacher, "but it shows the interest that they have in preparing themselves to become efficient housewives."

Mr. Alderman has said that to eliminate from the night schools any of the courses which tend to rob the community of an inestimable amount of good that is returned to that community through many channels.

Perhaps the most spectacular of the night institutions is Spattuck, where the hyphen is eliminated from every nationality. A census of the men and women registered there, most of them attending to learn the fundamentals of the English language and the American institutions and customs, disclose the fact that there are 58 nationalities represented, distributed among the following peoples:

American	1917	Swedish	145
African	6	Lithuanian	2
Armenian	1	Luxembourg	1
Belgian	1	Mexican	1
Bohemian	1	Norway	86
Bulgarian	1	Philippine Islander	3
Canadian	21	Porto Rican	15
Danish	1	Russian	1
English	9	Serbian	27
Finland	28	Slovak	4
French	47	Slovenian	3
German	22	Swedish	150
Greek	1	Swiss	1
Holland	1	Turk	1
Hungary	1	Ukrainian	1
Italian	1	Yugoslavian	1
Japanese	24	Total	2613

FOREST GROVE INITIATES

Office of Knights and Ladies of Security Returns to Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Thomas, district manager of the Knights and Ladies of Security, have returned from Forest Grove, where they instituted a new council Thursday night, November 11. Forty-one applicants, consisting of business and professional men and their wives, signed the petition for a new charter. Roy Haseltine, president of the First National Bank, was elected president of the council; Mrs. Margaret Malory, secretary, and Mrs. Minnie Roswurm, financier.

St. Johns Council gave a masquerade ball in Eagles' Hall Thursday night. Many members from the downtown councils attended. New councils are being organized throughout the state and two new councils are being reported each month. One of the most recent was instituted at McMinnville, under the deputyship of Mr. and Mrs. Salmarsch, who will make headquarters at McMinnville.

Kirkpatrick Council initiated a large class of candidates last Friday night. Oregon City Council attending in a body and bringing 10 candidates for initiation. Twenty-one candidates in all were initiated.
