Art Amakroing Monifest.

Mrs. Alice Wutster, of Portland, spent much time among the art tressures, and orpoctally visiting these pieces that are to go to Oregon and the Buckaree, which is an Oregon production. Ferwhich is an Oregon production. Per-haps in Oregon there is no other per-son with quite the varied and thorough hnowledge of art possessed by Mrs. Weister. She paints well herself and has been much abroad and in Eastern eities visiting the galleries. Her judg-ment is based on wide experience and a broad understanding of the true-art tites. She is ambitious, above all else, that the awakening art love so multi-fast in Oregon aball be expended on fest in Oregon shall be expended on worthy objects and not on impulsive "first loves." A thing may be charming and pretty, but not have lasting art qualities that will make it a thing to passus. How expressed much pleasure over the Daljan fountain. It te encellent, she says, and it is well for Oregon to have a good replica of an Hallan work of art. But she is keenly

Many of his parishioners in the Epis-copal Church were at the mass. Father Edwards is 55 years old, and he was an Episcopal clergyman 30 years. The deacen of the mass was the Rev. John M. Kiely, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of the Blessed Sacra-ment, Brooklyn, who haptized Father Edwards when he embraced the Boman Catholic failt. BAD APPLES SPOIL

Edwards when he embraces the format Catholic faith. All the years that Father Edwards was rector of the Brentwood Episconal Church Father Kiely was pastor of the Brentwood Roman Catholic Church. A warm friendship sprang up between the two men, and the result of the long theological discussions they indulged in was that Father Edwards resigned from his parish and a month later was baptized by Father Kiely. Another priest to assist at the mass was the Rev. Thomas W. Connolly, present pastor of St. Ann's Church. The preacher will be the Rev. William F. McGinness, of Westbury, L. The bushel crates of unpacked culls The bushel crates of unpacked culls arrived in New Orleans running with rot, and were sold at auc-tion to the peddlers for from 30 to 50 cents a box. Car No. 3852 sold for the gross price of $357.70 and car No. 51355 brought $376.95. Sales at these figures mean that the shippets in Wenatchee will have to pay out of pocket to the railroad companies for freight. The first two cars of the crated apples

The first two cars of the crated apples arrived in fair condition and brought $1 a box as an average, but the third car of this grade of fruit to arrive was sold last Wednesday at an average price of 20 cents a box, which left the growers to pay more than $200 in restrict.
