

ALLIES TO CONTINUE BALKAN CAMPAIGN

British and French Decide to Insure Security of Expedition at Saloniki.

STRONG ARMY PROMISED

Paris Says Invasion of Bulgarians Will Be Ended by Force and Way Opened for Advance of Waiting Russians.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—France and Great Britain decided to continue the campaign in the Balkans, and agreed on military measures designed to insure the security of the expeditionary forces which landed at Saloniki.

A semi-official announcement issued today indicates that the French and British troops are being withdrawn from Serbia.

The allies have made the decision to remain at Saloniki and to insure the security of the expeditionary forces under favorable conditions, says the Temps, "without further loss of time."

"A strong Franco-British army will be sent to the Balkans in a more effective manner than has hitherto, and will open the way to the Russian army which is waiting of the Danube unit."

The agreement, which has reference to concerted military action in other zones, as well as in the Balkans, was reached by Premier Briand and War Minister Gallieni, the French representative, and Foreign Secretary Grey and War Secretary Kitchener, acting for Great Britain, who have been in conference in Paris during the last two days.

The semi-official announcement, issued after today's conference, says the principle of maintenance of French and British troops at Saloniki was approved by all the participants, and that military measures have been taken to assure the security of the expeditionary corps, which is retreating methodically toward its base.

GREECE WILL DEMOBILIZE

Response Reported to Demand of Allies for Decisive Action.

ATHENS, Dec. 10, via Paris Dec. 11.—The Greek government has made all arrangements for demobilization of the army. It is expected a decree to this effect will be issued shortly.

The French minister had his conference of this week with King Constantine this morning. Subsequently, the ministers of the entente powers called on Premier Eleftheriou, and he, in turn, on good authority that energetic representations were made for the purpose of inducing Greece to hasten action in regard to the facilities demanded for the allied troops at Saloniki. A decisive move on the part of the Greek government is expected momentarily.

BULGARIANS ARE REINFORCED

British Preparing New Defenses Near Frontier of Greece.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Athens states that reports from Saloniki are to the effect that the Bulgarians, reinforced by the army of General Boyadjev, occupied a part of the passes of Demir Kapo. A battle yesterday on the Strumitsa front between the Bulgarians and British continued all day without significant results. In the meantime the British are preparing a new line of defense in proximity to the Greek frontier.

Before leaving Demir Kapo the French destroyed a tunnel and a bridge over the Vardar River. French reinforcements continue to arrive at Saloniki.

MRS. AMANDA H. REES DIES

Funeral for Pioneer of 1845 Will Be Held Tomorrow.

Mrs. Amanda Hall Rees, aged 87, widow of Willard H. Rees, one of the founders of the Oregon Pioneers' Association, died Friday night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Henderson, at 235 Laramie street. She was a pioneer of 1845. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at the chapel of J. P. Finley & Son.

Mrs. Rees was born in Liberty, Mo., in 1828 and crossed the plains in 1845 with 11 brothers and sisters. The family settled at Butteville, Or., where Mrs. Rees was married in 1847. Mr. Rees died in 1903, three years after they had moved to Portland. Mrs. Rees was the mother of 12 children.

She is survived by four daughters: Mrs. J. W. Welch, Mrs. H. H. Henderson, Mrs. C. H. Day, of Dayton, Wash., and five sons: Dr. F. A. Rees, E. H. Rees and W. H. Rees, of Portland; D. C. Rees, of La Grande, and H. L. Rees, of Trinidad, Wash.

Funerals at the funeral will be at W. H. Hall, C. C. Hall, Curtis Hall, Sherman Rees, H. M. Henderson and

GREAT HEADQUARTERS OF GERMAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 8.—There is no other war literature half so interesting as the documents found on prisoners and dead, nor any that in numerous instances is one-tenth as valuable to the victors.

Much trash, of course, is in the mass of material—sometimes big baskets of it—that is rapidly and carefully examined immediately a battlefield has been policed and prisoners have been rounded up, but in the pile of diaries, copies of orders and sitting right under a rain of mortar in northern France and galloping eastward into Russia, and fighting its way across the Serbian mountains, is principally composed of neuroathetics yearning for the comforts of home.

I am equally confident that many a Briton would have of its long columns to what was alleged to be the diary of a German soldier who groaned and moaned to the extent of 2000 words while he was evidently in an acute stage of nervous prostration. The man had a university affiliation and he wrote effectively. That he was a neurotic, imaginative, pusillanimous being to whom a toe ache was a tragedy also was evident. There was not one English reader, nor were there, I suppose, many American readers of the London Times who did not finish the reading of the Bonn gynaecium man's pitiful diary with the conviction that the German army—which happens to be holding Belgium and sitting right under a rain of mortar in northern France and galloping eastward into Russia, and fighting its way across the Serbian mountains—is principally composed of neuroathetics yearning for the comforts of home.

Steps Taken Against Stragglers. This sheet contained orders issued on September 15, 1915, from the Twenty-seventh brigade headquarters to the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders, and the second paragraph read: "Each battalion will detail four regimental police, including two N. C. O., to report to brigade A, two at 3 A. M. 23d inst."

The third paragraph read: "These police will come under the orders of the sergeant-major, M. P., and will be employed in forming a barrier on rear of brigade to prevent stragglers."

TRUTH OF ARTICLE NOT DEFENSE OF CONTEMPT.

Federal Judge Assesses Punishment at Amount It Cost Government to Abandon Trial of Prisoner.

Butte, Mont., Dec. 11.—Judge Bourquin in the Federal Court today found the Independent Publishing Company, of Helena, and Will A. Campbell, editor of the Independent, guilty of contempt and fined them $517.95 and costs.

The court in his decision said that the amount of the fine is the actual cost to the government of discontinuing the trial in Helena on account of an article which appeared in the Independent. A jury had been selected and witnesses summoned when Judge Bourquin summarily dismissed the proceedings after an article in the Independent appeared which the court feared would prejudice the jurors.

The court also held that the truth of the publication did not prevent it from being a contempt. The Independent published a statement purporting to give the past history of a man who was on trial before the Federal Court sitting in that city which the court by his decision today held to be contemptuous.
