BRIDE'S TROUSSEAU CAREFULLY CHOSEN

Best Shops in United States Called On to Furnish Elaborate Wardrobe.

VELVET CHIEF FEATURE

Gowns and Accessories in Ample Number for Every Occasion in White House Social Season Are Included.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Mrs. Wilson's trousseau is said by close friends to be magnificent in its extent and to have cost several thousand dollars. Most of it is American made and the best shops in the United States were called on to supply what the bride's friends say is one of the largest and most carefully selected wardrobes ever gathered by any mistress of the White House.

There are plain gowns and elaborate gowns, hats, shoes, parasols, umbrellas, gloves, veils and other items in ample number for each and every occasion. Mrs. Wilson always has been fond of white and black, but in the selection of her trousseau she has given consideration to the richness of material, rather than to considerations of color.

Velvet Said to Predominate. Friends who have seen dinner and reception gowns, tailored suits, demitasse, fascinating tea gowns and negligee ensembles with slippers in harmony, in the trousseau, say velvet is largely featured as a material.

One of the handsomest gowns in the trousseau is of black velvet, with plain flowing skirt and a highly embellished bodice. Another velvet gown, French in its material and treatment, is of sapphire blue. Like the other, it has a train, as have all the evening gowns.

Mrs. Wilson will be hostess at four state receptions and at as many dinners of the social character during the winter. One gown in her trousseau, worthy of such occasions, is the opinion of her friends, is a white satin, with a trimming of white fox fur and made with a train. A second white satin is also made with a train, but is not so rich in material. It is a gown with a tulle overdress, opening on the front, with the edges bound in narrow platings.

"Made-in-France" Shade Is Noted.

Another gown in the trousseau is of blue satin, in one of the new made-in-France shades, as they are called, the colors of which, it is said, are impossible of imitation elsewhere. The skirt is hung in golden tulle, and that is veiled in black tulle.

Among several tailored suits in the trousseau is a green gown. It is of a dark cloth, with a short skirt and a flaring half-length coat. The collar and cuffs are of tulle. A small velvet hat is intended for wear with it. Of the other tailored suits, some of the more interesting are a dark blue cloth, based in black silk braid, with a military air about the jacket and a grain suede-like cloth, also veiled in military fashion.

There are also several and another velvet costume, with a small velvet hat, adorned with ostrich tips. It has a skirt that swings clear of the ground and a blouse of black tulle, with a bouffant effect to the skirt, and the bodice is largely lace and net, with girdle of gold and amethyst, giving the effect of a black and white. The net and silk lace. The coat is more than half length, all of velvet, with a lining of self-colored satin, with a border of self-colored satin, with a border of gold.

Less Elaborate Gowns Included.

A demi-taillette of black net, with low neck, long sleeves and a short train, is one of the least elaborate gowns of the trousseau, with a tulle waist. In the same class also is a delicate mauve satin, with a trimming of blue and silver.

A white broadcloth tailored suit with white bowtie is included in the trousseau, and blouses for tailored suits are present in every known variety, from fancy Georgette crepe to plain tub silk. Some match the skirt in color, as for example, a green crepe with white collar and cuffs. Most of the blouses are white or just off the pink flesh tints.

herself, since the death of her first husband, has been actively engaged as the head of the jewelry firm in Pennsylvania avenue which bears the famous name and which was established in 1892. The jewelry store has been situated at the same stand since the days of Andrew Jackson. Mrs. Galt's two brothers conduct the business, but she has been the actual proprietor.

Naturally many folks in society, who previously have observed the un-American in a weak or more aggressive what the attitude of the new White House mistress will be toward them and Washington's social customs of long standing.

Gifts Numerous and Varied.

There have been many weddings here in private life where more costly collections of gifts have been seen than at the marriage of the President to Mrs. Galt, but few where the gifts have been so many and have covered such a wide range.

This is just as today's bride and bridegroom wanted it. Their preference was openly expressed in favor of a wedding at which there were gifts of all official character, and diplomats and most other officials, except the President's close friends, took the hint.

The bride received several beautiful pieces of jewelry. Among them was a diamond bar pin, given to her by the President, a watch, one more ring, and which she has worn. It is four inches and a half in length and an eighth of an inch wide, with fine white stones set in platinum.

In addition to the brooch which the bride wore with her wedding costume, the brooch contains larger stones, and was given by the President as the wedding gift. It never had been worn until Mrs. Galt dressed for the ceremony.

Another bar pin was said to have come from Colonel and Mrs. House. A feasible gold bracelet, set with sapphires, was another piece of jewelry. The giver of this was not disclosed.

Many pictures, one of which was an oil painting, from Postmaster-General and Mrs. Burleson, and books of all kinds and sizes.

Included among the gifts are many of a trifling character, from strangers. These range all the way from pieces of needlework and things for the kitchen and the table, such as a barrel of flour, to pieces of cut glass and silver.

Japanese Government Wins.

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—A vote of lack of confidence in the government was defeated in an exciting session of the House of Deputies by 232 to 122.

WEDDING IS SIMPLE

Ceremony Is Without Music and Few Guests Attend.

orchids across a background of ferns and the corners of the canopy were caught with orchids. American Beauty roses were on both sides of the canopy, beneath which was a prayer rug, on which President Wilson and Mrs. Galt knelt during the ceremony.

Just at the hour for the ceremony the President and his bride appeared at the head of the staircase, which was decorated with ferns, asparagus vines and American Beauty roses. They descended to the lower floor, where the guests were grouped about informally.

Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the bride is a communicant, was waiting beneath the canopy to perform the ceremony, and with him, to assist, was the President's pastor, Rev. James H. Taylor, of the Central Presbyterian Church.

Bride's Mother Gives Her Away. Mrs. William H. Bolling, the bride's mother, gave her away. The President stood to the right of the clergyman and the bride stood on her left. At once Dr. Smith began the words of the Episcopal marriage service, the President making his responses first, and the bride making hers. After the bride promised to "love, cherish and obey," the President placed the wedding ring on a plain band of gold, on her finger and then, after a prayer and while the couple clasped their right hands together, Dr. Smith declared them husband and wife. The brief and simple ceremony was over.

The entire party then turned to the dining-room, where a buffet supper was served. The decorations there were in pink and on the buffets were banked growing ferns and pink roses. The tables were decorated with Lady Stanley rose blossoms. On a table in the center was the wedding cake—a fruit cake of several layers high, ornamented with sprays of pink orchids in the center.

Cake Cut Without Formality. Mrs. Wilson cut the cake without formality and no arrangement was made for bestowing bits of it on others than those in the wedding party.

During the ceremony and at the luncheon afterward, during which a string orchestra played, the bride wore her traveling dress, a black silk velvet gown with a picture hat of black beaver, with no trimmings whatever except one feather slightly upturned on the left side. At her throat she wore the President's wedding gift, a magnificent diamond brooch. The skirt of her gown was of walking length and cut on full lines. The waist had silken embroidery of blue, shading from the deep tones of royal blue to delicate shades of pastel, and was threaded with silver.

The lower part of the waist was embroidered in black net over a band of silver in the design of lilies, below which was a girdle of black velvet. The sleeves of the gown were of black net fashioned in tiny tufts with long bell-shaped cuffs of embroidered velvet which came well down over the hand. Her collar, which was high and up-standing, was of black lace.

When she left on her honeymoon journey, Mrs. Wilson wore over her gown a fur coat and muff to match.

Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, wore a sapphire blue velvet gown with sapphire and velvet trimmings. Mrs. William G. McAdoo, his youngest daughter, wore blue silk brocade, with fur and silver trimmings. Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, his third daughter, wore rose chamois with cream lace, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's cousin, wore yellow silk and gold.

Mrs. Bolling, the bride's mother, wore a costume of richly-jetted net over an underskirt of satin applied king's blue. A short train was caught at the left side of the girdle with a cluster of pink crushed roses. She wore old cameo, set in pearls, which she wore as a bride.

Mrs. W. H. Maury, of Anneton, Va., a sister of the bride, wore white crepe and silver net with a court train of cream crepe embroidered in leaf sprays of gold. A single moon flower caught her corsage at the waist. Mrs. Alexander H. Galt, of this city, another sister wore robin-egg blue chiffon velvet with silver bands and a black tulle mesh with crushed roses. Miss Bertha Bolling, the bride's third sister, wore a gown of turquoise blue. Above a full skirt of blue chiffon over white lace flounces, fell a panier-draped overskirt of blue tulle, embroidered in gold and silver. The bodice of chiffon was over heavy bands of gold lace and a high girdle was of flower-embroidered silk.

Room Set Aside for Gifts.

Upstairs—in the bride's house one room was set aside for the wedding gifts, which ran into the hundreds, despite intimations from the White House that nothing should be sent by any others than relatives and close friends.

In deference to the President's wishes the houses of Congress sent no gifts officially, but many members sent personal remembrances. The Virginia delegation, representing the native state of the couple, sent a loving cup. Wytville, the bride's home town, sent a miniature of Mr. and Mrs. Bolling, her parents. The Pocahontas Memorial Association, in recognition of Mrs. Wilson's descent from the Indian princess of that name, sent a bronze statue of Pocahontas. The Menominee Indians of Wisconsin sent a handsome bead belt. The former queen of Hawaii sent a seal, and the Hawaiian cabinet sent a gift.

Fans Sent in Abundance.

In addition to the President's diamond brooch, there were other gifts of jewelry, among them a diamond brooch set in sapphires and a gold and sapphire bracelet. There were so many fans that it is said that Mrs. Wilson will have a different one for each evening during the social season. There were candlesticks and comports in quantity, among the most distinctive of the latter being a silver and gold set, a large mahogany dining table. A bracelet of Brazilian tourmalines and an ornament of tropical bird-feathers came from South America. From Belgian children came pillows, pieces of lace, engraved parchments and other articles, including embroidered ones, all inscribed with the President's gratitude for "the President's sympathy, often expressed, for the sufferers of the war. Gifts came also from the pupils of the Benedictine nuns at a large school for the blind children of St. Veronica. The children of Spa, a Belgian watering-place, sent a jewel case inscribed, "Homage and Gratitude of Spa."

In view of the desire of the President and Mrs. Wilson that as little publicity as possible attend their wedding, names of those sending gifts were withheld from publication. The great number received, however, completely upset the plans for cataloguing and classifying them at the White House, and the work will be turned over to the White House attaches.

When the gifts are assorted it is understood all those having intrinsic value which came from persons known to the President or Mrs. Wilson will much to their regret, be returned. The President and Mrs. Wilson are expected to return to the capital on or before January 4, when Congress reconvenes. The Pan-American reception in the White House on the night of January 7 will be a social function of the season which is expected to be unusually brilliant.

List of Wedding Guests.

The guests at the wedding included: Mrs. William H. Bolling, of this city, the bride's mother; Mrs. Matthew H. Maury, Anneton, Va.; Mrs. Alexander H. Galt, of this city, and Miss Bertha Bolling, sisters of the bride; the bride's five brothers—John, Randolph B. Bolling, of this city; Dr. William F. Bolling, Louisville, Ky., and Rolfe E. Bolling, of Panama; the bride's brother-in-law, Alexander H. Galt, of this city; three sisters-in-law, Mrs. Julian B. Bolling, Mrs. Rolfe E. Bolling and Mrs. Richard W. Bolling; Secretary and Mrs. William G. McAdoo, Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, of Williamstown, Mass.; Miss Margaret Wilson; Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's cousin; Mrs. Josephine Cothran, the President's niece; Mrs. Anne Howe, of Philadelphia, the President's sister; Mrs. Anne Cothran, the President's niece; Josephine Cothran, the President's grand-niece; Secretary Tumulty; Dr. Grayson, Miss Gertrude Gordon, Mrs. Galt's close friend.

Formal Statement Issued.

After President Wilson and his bride had departed, Secretary Tumulty made this formal statement on the ceremony: "The wedding of the President and Mrs. Galt was a simple and intimate affair. It was just such a wedding as might have taken place in the home of the humblest American citizen. The only religious service was the officiating clergyman used once was the property of the late Judge William H. Bolling, of Virginia, father of the bride, and was used at her request. Several guests added to the list at the last moment included Professor Stockton Axson, a brother of the late Mrs. Wilson, and a number of other guests. Mrs. Sterling Galt, the former a brother of Mrs. Wilson's first husband, and Mrs. Tumulty, the wife of Secretary Tumulty. One of the guests was a young girl, Matilda Braxton, an old negro mammy, of Wytville, who has been a servant in the bride's family all her life.

The ruse by which the wedding party got away from the White House was simple. When the White House automobile pulled away from Mrs. Wilson's house, lines of police blocked pursuit in all directions. The President's motor car, Station the Presidential entrance was fully lighted and lines of police were spread all about. The President and Mrs. Wilson were speeding to the station across the river ten miles away.

WILSON GIVES CLEMENCY

Pardons and Appointments Part of Wedding Celebration.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—President Wilson celebrated his wedding day by extending executive clemency to several convicts. He gave a full pardon to Charles Conture, convicted at Missoula, Mont., for selling liquor to Indians. He commuted the sentences of D. Dillingham, convicted in Georgia for operating an illicit distillery, and William H. Hood, under conviction of robbery in Alabama. The President also made several appointments. He signed an executive order permitting the appointment of Mrs. Virginia Campbell, a grandniece of Thomas Jefferson, to what the President considered insufficient evidence, and ordered the appointment of Harriet M. Sweet to a position in the Treasury without examining her because of her services in connection with the recent Pan-American financial congress.

Japan Sends Congratulations.

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—Cable messages of congratulation to President Wilson were sent today, the President's wedding day, by Emperor Yoshihito and Baron Ishii, the Foreign Minister.

Gifts Are Unusual

White House Bride Appeals to Public Imagination.

GIRLS SEND BIG NUGGET

Wonderful Assortment of Furs, Handwork of Women in Remote Villages, Rich Jewels, Rare Vases Are Included.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(Special.)—The President's bride has shared the fate of practically every woman who has gone within the range of the public imagination as a resident, actual or prospective, of the White House.

Consequently a White House wedding starts a current of gift-giving which stretches from one end of the country to the other. One of the earliest tokens to come to Mrs. Galt was a wonderful nugget of gold taken from the famous Empire mine, the "find" which precipitated the famous gold fever of 1849. A group of schoolgirls from California brought the gift, which is the largest nugget ever mined in California.

Fur Assortment Wonderful.

A wonderful assortment of furs is included in a collection which embraces articles of simple type, such as the handwork of women in remote country villages and jewels of unique description and great value. Other noteworthy gifts include a diamond and sapphire brooch and a flexible gold bracelet studded with sapphires, a desk set of Tiffany glass and hand-wrought brass embellishments, a cut-glass punch bowl with a huge silver ladle and a dozen cups and a wonderful table cloth of rare Russian lace, a rare rug of white bear skin, a Vienna ring of great value and rarity and a bewildering collection of books of all types, a filet lace tablecloth from Porto Rico and a wonderful traveling clock of Swiss origin.

Wide Variety Is Noted.

Of unusual beauty is a unique lamp of Florentine alabaster. A mahogany dining table is said to have a romantic history. An ancient Chinese box of beauty and rarity and a marvelous collection of fans, some of the most recent French production, were among the presents. Rich fans of ostrich feathers with mountings are also in the collection, which includes many specimens in cases as distinctive and valuable as the fans themselves.

A Sevres vase of the time of the first Napoleon, bearing the signature of the artist who embellished it, came from one of the women of the Cabinet.

Children to Give Pageant.
