Lieutenant-Governor Taylor
Has Fight on Street With County Chairman.

SLUR CAST ON GOVERNOR

Birthday Dinner Sins Democrats
When Reference Is Made to "Back
Entrance" Episode—Mr. Barker
Wants Exclusive Field.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Candidates will be made and unnamed party machinery will be set in motion when Republican leaders from all parts of the state gather in this city to attend the Lincoln-day banquet.

State-Chairman Evans will call a meeting of the state central committee for about the same time to consider a campaign programme.

Leaders of both parties have been concerned over two events which transpired this past week, one involving Governor Alexander and the second, Lieutenant-Governor Taylor.

Governor Alexander was made the butt of ridicule at a luncheon given here by the Commercial Club in honor of the sixty-ninth birthday of James H. Hawley, ex-Governor.

"Back Entrance" Episode Mentioned.
After the introductory remarks were over Frank R. Coffin, one of the pioneer bankers of this city, made some laudatory remarks regarding the life-work and character of Mr. Hawley, and concluded with the reference that Mr. Hawley never "paraded about the state speaking from pulpits or as a demagogue masquerading as a reformer."

Governor Alexander has accepted many invitations to speak from pulpits in this state.

The "back entrance" remark referred to the Boston episode when the Governor delivered an address there, his political enemies making the charge that, because of the indignation aroused among those of his own race, he was forced to leave the hall by the rear entrance.

This charge the Governor has flatly denied. He produced affidavits showing that the Boston meeting was a success in every way. The Governor made no reply to Mr. Coffin's remarks; in fact, he left the luncheon early.

Lieutenant-Governor in Fight.
The fact that Lieutenant-Governor Taylor had engaged in a fight with County Chairman Williams, of Bonner County, on the streets of Sandpoint, has become known here.

According to the most authentic report the Lieutenant-Governor is said to have charged the County Chairman with circulating a report relating to a game of cards for stakes played in this city at the last legislative session.

Mr. Williams denied he had circulated the report. Mr. Taylor declares that he struck only in self-defense. A fist encounter followed, with honors evenly divided.

There is open talk here of a standing difference between Secretary of State Barker and Lieutenant-Governor Taylor. Mr. Barker's friends, it is believed, believe that the Secretary of State should be the only candidate on the state ticket from Bonner County.

The first Democrat to announce himself as a candidate for the nomination of a state office is Clarence Van Deusen, at the last general election a candidate leading the Progressive ticket for State Auditor.

There is talk among Republicans of running a "Borah special" via the Oregon Short Line and Union Pacific to the Republican National Convention at Chicago next June. The matter has been satisfactorily taken up with the Oregon Short Line.

Grand Jury Finds That Riverside
Man Acted in Self-Defense.

ONTARIO, Or., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—M. D. McFadden will not be tried for the shooting of Clair O'Neil with a rifle at Riverside Tuesday. The grand jury found yesterday that he shot in self-defense and took no action. O'Neil is in the hospital here not dangerously wounded. The bullet entered through his upper lip and was located by the X-ray in his neck above the collar bone.

The jury disagreed, after 27 hours' deliberation, in the trial of Morris Powell for shooting Elmer Moody last month in Cow Valley. It was dismissed last night and the case will be continued until the April term.

ALCOHOL SALE COSTS $100

Sokane Druggist Is Convicted Despite "Hair Tonic" Plea.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—F. P. Tallent, a druggist at the West End Pharmacy, who on January 19 sold a pint bottle of grain alcohol to James Johnson, a logger, today was found guilty of selling liquor without a prescription and was fined $100 and costs. Oral notice of appeal to the Superior Court was given.

The case is the first of the kind to be tried under the prohibition law here. Tallent contended he was within the law in selling the alcohol on the grounds that it was to be used for chemical purposes. He said that Johnson, in purchasing the alcohol, declared it was to be used in making a hair tonic.

duct Demonstrations and Discuss Variety of Topics Incidental to Good Farming.

LA GRANDE, Or., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—For one week, commencing January 31, Oregon Agricultural College will virtually move its college to La Grande. The Corvallis institution is inaugurating a new extension scheme this year, and has selected La Grande as the hub of the plan. Instead of sending extension experts into all the small towns of Eastern Oregon, as has been the custom heretofore, all demonstrations and lectures will be held here, and no other extension work will be done in Eastern Oregon this year. If the plan is successful it will be adopted regularly.

The Department of Agriculture, the Oregon Agricultural College, the State Grange and Farmers' Union, Oregon Congress of Mothers, Parent-Teacher associations and the local Farmers' and Home-makers' clubs are co-operating.

Monday will be registration day. In the afternoon City Manager Lafky will give an address of welcome, followed by a response by Professor Hatzel, director of extension service, Oregon Agricultural College. The address of the evening will be given by "Farmer" Smith, agriculturist of the O.-W. R. & N. Company.

Soil Fertility Topic.
Tuesday will be known as Agronomy day. Subjects pertaining to soils and crops will be discussed. Professor H. D. Scudder will speak on "Farm Management and Soil Fertility Problems of the Eastern Oregon Farmer." Professor J. E. Larson will discuss "Soil Moisture Conservation," and Professor Powers will handle the subjects of "Duty of Water" and "Irrigation, Its Relation to Alkali and Drainage." J. W. Brainerd, president of the State Irrigation Congress, of Portland, also will speak.

Mr. Warren, of the United States Department of Agriculture, will discuss "Home Water Supply and Sewage Disposal." Miss Turley will lecture on "The Relation of Food to Health" and "Principles of Cookery and Home Canning." Mrs. Brooks will discuss "Home Decorations and Floor Coverings."

Beef Cattle to Be Discussed.
On Wednesday the beef cattle fanciers and horticulturists will be given first consideration. Professor E. L. Potter will talk on "What Can We Afford to Pay for a Range Bull?" Walter M. Pierce, of La Grande, has been especially successful with Fall calves, and he will tell folks the hows and whys.

Ed Cole, of Haines; Robert Withycombe, superintendent Eastern Oregon experimental station, and F. A. Phillips, of Baker, will contribute to the animal husbandry programme. Professor H. F. Bess, plant pathologist, and Professor W. S. Brown, extension specialist, will have charge of horticultural work for this session.

Mrs. Dolman, Miss Turley and Mrs. Brooks will lecture on "Home Cookery, Home Nursing and Home Dress-making" in the women's section this day.

Thursday will be dairymen's day. Helmer Rabl will lecture on "How to Make Dairymore Profitable." Professor M. W. Howard and F. W. Kehrill will occupy important places on this programme. The women's section will be given over to children's welfare discussions and mothers' congress work. Mrs. George McElath, president, will be the principal speaker.

Good Roads on Schedule.
Friday will be Good Roads day, with Professor G. V. Skelton and T. W. Allen, of the United States Department of Agriculture, as chief attractions. County Judges, roadmasters and road supervisors of Eastern Oregon are invited to participate in the open discussions. The morning session of the women's section will be turned over to the parent-teacher associations. In the afternoon both sessions will attend a meat-cutting demonstration conducted by William Constantine, of Portland.

Saturday will be Farmers' Union and Grangers' day. Rural credits, organization and marketing will be the chief subjects discussed. State Grange Master Spence and President Brown, of the Farmers' Union, will take part. Professor Hector Macpherson will discuss "Rural Credits."

Poultry subjects will be given as a counter attraction by Professor C. C. Lamb. The women's division will get the teachers' viewpoint of parent-teacher work. Mrs. E. A. Ivanhoe will be in charge of the session.

Sunday will be the climax of the week's session. Dr. W. J. Kerr will speak.

Committees Are Appointed and Take Up Campaign for Development of District.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Jan. 22.—(Special.)—Complete reorganization of the Aberdeen Chamber of Commerce was perfected this week by A. C. Gallac, newly elected president. He named an executive committee of seven members to handle the bulk of the chamber work.

Each committee is the head of a sub-committee upon some special line of work. The seven lines of action to be taken by the chamber are the improvement of the rivers and harbors, a close observance of legislation, taxation and public affairs, improvement of transportation and rates, the development of the county agricultural and dairying possibilities, the institution of new industries and the development of the trade-at-home movement.

The work of these committees has started. Mr. Gallac, the new president, is enthusiastic and has obtained the support of more business men than ever before.

W. C. Mumaw, ex-president of the chamber, has received the chairmanship of the committee on farming and dairying. In the past two years he has accomplished wonders in this work.

The seven new members of the executive committee are W. J. Patterson, W. B. Mack, E. A. Mores, J. T. Elson, W. C. Mumaw, C. M. Weatherwax and P. A. Bertrand.
