

REPUBLICAN CLUB TO BE PARTY SPIRIT

State-Wide Plans to Muster Full Election Strength Are Now Being Laid.

LINCOLN DINNER IS FIRST

Progressives Propose to Maintain Own Organization in Spite of Desertions—R. S. Darrell and Gus C. Moser in Race.

The Republicans of Oregon having succeeded in perfecting the organization of an active and aggressive political club, some new life and energy will be instilled into the campaign of the coming Summer and Fall.

The club has its nucleus in the organization that was formed at the Masonic Temple last Thursday night, but soon will extend branches through every county of the state. It is expected that its influence will be felt in every voting precinct of Oregon.

One of the first activities in which the club expects to engage is the popular dinner on the night of February 12, Lincoln's birthday. A committee now has charge of the preliminary arrangements and a detailed program probably will be ready within a few days. The dinner probably will be held in the Chamber of Commerce dining-room.

It is believed that all factions of the Republican strength in the state are amalgamated in the new organization. The list of officers contains a heavy sprinkling of former Progressives and of progressive Republicans.

John McCourt, the president, is ex-United States Attorney, having been appointed by President Roosevelt. The other officers are: First vice-president, Charles A. Johns; second vice-president, W. A. Carter; third vice-president, George Arthur Brown; secretary, John Y. Richardson; treasurer, J. L. Day; executive committee, A. O. Muck, Phil Metcalf, Jr., G. W. Baldwin, W. M. Calk, Dr. Earl Smith, Hamilton Johnstone, James E. Brockway and M. B. McPaul. The president also is a member of the executive committee.

President McCourt expects to call a meeting of the executive committee to take place early this week. Plans for further meetings of the whole club will be arranged. While some meetings will be held prior to the primaries, the club's principal activity will be directed through the campaign immediately preceding the election.

"The club will take no part whatever in the primary contests," said President McCourt yesterday. "It will endorse no candidates and will not restrict the rights of any citizen to run for office."

"Our principal work will be after the primaries and during the pre-election campaign. Meanwhile, however, we expect to have the Republican strength of the state well organized so that we can present the most formidable front to the opposition when election day comes."

Despite the almost wholesale desertion of former Progressives in a scramble to amalgamate with the rejuvenated Republican party, the Progressive organization of the state will be maintained, said T. B. Neuhansen, state chairman, yesterday.

"We expect to send a full delegation to the Progressive convention at Chicago," said Mr. Neuhansen. "The Progressives intend to nominate their own candidate for President, but it is their hope that the Republican convention in the choice of the same man."

"Unless the Republicans nominate someone who is in sympathy with the Progressives, the Progressives will nominate someone else."

Mr. Neuhansen expects soon to leave on an Eastern trip, and will consult with Progressive leaders in New York, Chicago and elsewhere.

Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, Progressive National committee member, who has been attending the Progressive "powwow" in Chicago for the last few weeks, is expected home today.

Elmer J. Burkett, ex-United States Senator from Nebraska, is seeking the Republican nomination for Vice-President, and his friends are starting an active campaign in his behalf. He has opened headquarters in Omaha.

Senator Burkett visited in Sumner, Mo. He is well known here, and will have many supporters among the Republicans of the state. It is probable that his name will be placed on the ballot at the Republican primaries.

A good-sized crop of Senatorial candidates is developing among the Republicans of Multnomah County. Although only five nominations are to be made, it is possible that all dozen aspirants will be in the field.

Only two definite announcements have been made so far. They are by E. S. Darrell, one of the Senators whose terms expire, and F. H. Ransom, manager of the Eastern & Western Lumber Company.

Gus C. Moser, another of the retiring Senators, will be a candidate for reelection. He is expected to file his nomination petition within a few days. E. S. Day and Dr. T. Perkins, also among the retiring members, have not determined whether they will run again. It is probable that Senator Day will be in the race.

J. D. Abbott, a former member of the lower house, also is being considered for a place on the Senatorial ticket. John H. Burgard, C. W. Hodson, Ben Salling, S. B. Huston and George M. Hyland are among the other possibilities.

John Y. Richardson, secretary of the new Oregon Republican Club, of which John McCourt is president, announced yesterday that 1087 names are signed to the club's membership rolls. A few of these are probably duplicates, but it seems certain that the membership will reach the 1000 mark. Mr. Richardson says the annual dues of $1 a year from each member are now payable, and requests that the money be sent at the earliest convenience of members to his office, 465 Concord building. Membership cards and formal receipts will be issued later. Their printing has been ordered.

City to Accept Sewer.
The Montavilla trunk sewer is to be formally accepted by the City Council Wednesday. City Engineer Dater and Commissioner Dieck yesterday signed the acceptance after a complete inspection of the work. The assessment ordinance will be passed by the Council, amounting to about $125,000.

Bend Pastor Resigns.
BEND, Or., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—E. G. Judd, pastor of the local Baptist Church, has presented his resignation to take effect March 31. His successor has not been selected. Mr. Judd has been pastor of the Bend Baptist Church for nearly

PLANS FOR POUND ASKED

Mr. Baker Wants to Know How Society Will Spend Surplus.

That the City Council may have definite information as to plans of the Oregon Humane Society for the city dog pound when it assumes control, City Commissioner Baker yesterday sent a letter to the society asking for a detailed statement.

While the Council has voted to turn the pound over to the society, the question of the amount of the dog licenses to be given the society has not been determined. The society has asked for $9 per cent, which would mean $4000 a year more than the present cost of operating the pound. Mr. Baker in his letter asks for a full statement as to what would be done with any amount over the present cost of the pound.

His letter follows: "You will no doubt note by my attitude yesterday that I favor the handling of dumb animals by the Humane Society, feeling that they will be handled in a humane way. I feel that too much attention cannot be given to creatures who have no way of making their grief or troubles known, and who are willing to devote their time to the comfort and care of dumb animals is certainly merited. It is my duty as a representative of the people to pay money and get for them all they have paid for. I would like to inquire what plan you have for the handling of this problem."

The city will turn over to you approximately $11,000. I would like to know how this money will be spent; what additional services you propose to furnish; in fact, as a detailed statement of proposed expenditures in as much detail as you can furnish at this time.

You no doubt have a clear idea as to a plan of operation and I would like to have some information as to the advisability of turning the pound over to you. I would like to see a statement of your complete plans.

Oil on Stove Burns Woman.
ROSEBURG, Or., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Mrs. C. E. Ricker, wife of a prominent rancher of the Smith River country, yesterday sustained serious burns of the face and body by accidentally tipping over a small amount of coal oil upon the stove where she was at work. The oil ignited, with the result that Mrs. Ricker's clothing caught fire.

"Freewater Day" Attracts Crowds.
FREWATER, Or., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Freewater day was a success in spite of the cold weather and six inches of snow that was on the ground. Farmers from neighboring localities as well as townspeople took advantage of the special bargains. The theaters were free to the public.

Knights Templar Officers in Charge of Party Next Thursday.

The second event in the series of dancing and card parties given by Oregon Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar, will take place Thursday evening, February 2. The dance will be held at the Masonic Temple, Park and Yamhill streets. The second floor of the temple will be devoted to dancing, while those who prefer the less strenuous exercise will be entertained with cards on the fifth floor.

The fine parlors adjoining the dancing auditorium on the second floor have been converted into delightful restrooms. This party is the second of the series of three given by Oregon Commandery, the first of the series having been given on January 6.

Members of the commandery are making preparations for a large attendance on Thursday evening and they extend a most cordial invitation to all Knights Templar and their friends to join with them in making this one of the best social events of the Winter season.

Aside from dancing and cards, there will be varied entertainment for all who come. Refreshments will be served throughout the evening. It is the intention of the commandery to send its crack drill corps to accompany Right Eminent Grand Commander L. G. Clarke to the annual Knights Templar convocation, which will be held at Los Angeles in June. The proceeds of the series of dances will be used to assist in the defraying of the expenses in sending the drill corps of the local commandery.

The commandery is desirous of sending a large escort with Right Eminent Grand Commander Clarke to Los Angeles. The tickets for the two remaining dancing and card parties are on sale at $2.50 each and they may be obtained from Fred O. Jennings, of Henry Jennings & Sons, Fifth and Washington, or from Alex. Oliver, of Brady & Oliver, in the Yeom building lobby.

BROADWAY PAVING CERTAIN

Ground Purchased to Eliminate Jog at Wheeler Street.

Broadway will be paved to the entrance of the bridge probably from Union avenue early this Spring, according to the report submitted at the meeting of the Albina Business Men's Club Friday. The important part of the report was that the grade of Williams avenue, at its intersection with Broadway, will be lowered three feet when the improvement is made and that the jog in Broadway, between Vancouver avenue and Wheeler street, will be eliminated.

EXTENSION CONTRACT LET

Work on Union-Avenue Viaduct and Fill Is Due This Week.

Contracts were signed yesterday and work is to start probably this week on the construction of a viaduct and the making of a fill to extend Union avenue on its present grade at Bryant street, northward to the city limits to connect with the south approach of the Interstate bridge.

Gleibisch & Joplin got the contract for constructing the viaduct, which will be 2 1/2 feet in length, passing over the tracks of the O.-W. R. & N. Company, and the Pacific Bridge Company got the contract for the fill, which will be 730 feet long. The contractors have 120 days in which to complete the work.

HOOD RIVER MAN MARRIED AT BEND.

BEND, Or., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—Theodore G. Becker and Miss Fay Gerking, of Tumalo, were married here Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Franklin W. Keagy, of the Methodist Church. The bride is the only daughter of J. N. B. Gerking, a prominent irrigator of Tumalo and known as the father of the Tumalo project. Mr. Becker owns a ranch at Hood River, where they expect to take up their residence in the Spring.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank our many kind friends and members of the National Croatian Society, Branch No. 238, Birth of Christ, for their sympathy and kind words during the illness and death of our dear husband and father, Marian Soljan, and also for the many beautiful floral offerings. Mrs. Marian Soljan, widow; Mrs. N. Sigovich and Mrs. S. Sabich and Dominick and Jack Soljan, sons.—Adv.

18 DOCTORS PASS TEST

FOUR OSTEOPATHS ARE LICENSED BY STATE EXAMINING BOARD.

Twenty-six Candidates Are Considered, but Eight Fail to Meet Standards Proposed in Law.

Fourteen applicants for licenses to practice medicine and four to practice osteopathy in this state were successful in the examinations held by the Oregon State Board of Medical Examiners in the Knights of Pythias Hall, January 4, 5 and 6. It was announced yesterday by the board, which canvassed the results of the test. Twenty-six applicants appeared before the board and 22 applied for medical license, while four took the osteopathic examinations.

The board met yesterday to announce the results of the recent examinations. Members of the board are: C. T. Chamberlain, president; H. H. Hamilton, secretary; H. S. Nichols, treasurer; H. F. McKay, H. L. Henderson and F. E. Moore.

The following were successful in their examinations for licenses to practice medicine in this state: W. E. Harris, Paul A. Schmidt, Charles T. Moore, Delmer H. Hayden, Robert I. Hall, Earl M. Bevis, Robert W. Auld, Frank C. Hart, Mark W. Emery, Grace McCasky, Cecil Dalbey, J. Shelley Saurman, John B. Dinsmore and Myron J. Ewing.

The following obtained licenses to practice osteopathy: Mary E. Anderson, Emma B. Stuart, Margaret T. Ingie and H. W. Nice.

Bend Resident Dies.

BEND, Or., Jan. 29.—(Special.)—E. A. Knotts died early this week at his ranch east of town. Mr. Knotts was born in Yamhill, Or., January 15, 1855. In 1881 he was married to Mary Hackett, of Oregon City, who survives him, together with four children.

W. S. U'REN DENIES THAT LEGISLATURE HAS REPEALED EXPENSE PROVISION.

HIGHER OPINION SUGGESTED

Rolling by Attorney-General Urged. Many Democrats Are Dissatisfied With Woodrow Wilson League of Portland.

W. S. U'Ren, for many years of Oregon City but now a resident and practicing attorney of Portland, widely known as father of the "Oregon System," takes issue with the general belief that the last Legislature in amending the law of 1911 providing for the election of delegates to party National conventions, repealed the provision allowing each such delegate his expenses up to $500.

Before arriving at this opinion Mr. U'Ren devoted a couple of days to study of the law. He says he cannot see anything in the new act, which is Chapter 243 of the General Laws of Oregon for 1915, which repeals the $200 clause.

Since Jan. 10, Mr. U'Ren points out, provides that "That portion of chapter five of the General Laws of Oregon for the year 1911 and all other acts or parts of acts in conflict herewith are hereby repealed."

"But there isn't a thing in the present act so far as I have been able to see after the most careful study that in any way conflicts with the provision that the state shall pay the expenses of delegates," commented Mr. U'Ren yesterday.

"Consequently, not being in conflict with the 1915 law, the $200 provision of the 1911 law certainly is in effect in my opinion. I should like to see a ruling by the Attorney-General on this point, for it means a great deal to many who cannot afford to devote their time and expenses to the cause, but who would run for delegate if they could have their expense paid up to $500."

"The $200 provision permits the poor man to participate actively in politics. The other construction limits the delegation to rich men, of those who can get somebody to pay their expenses."

Many Democrats do not hesitate to express their dissatisfaction with the Woodrow Wilson League of Portland. To begin with, they say there is absolutely no need of such an organization at this time, nearly three months before the primary election, with not even a cloud on the horizon to indicate that any candidate will be brought forth to oppose Mr. Wilson for the nomination. But the nub of the difficulty seems to be that G. V. Harry, general organizer of the league, of which Dr. J. Smith, former Democratic candidate for Governor, is president, is drawing a nice little salary of $100 a month for his work.

There are even some of these dissenting brethren who go so far as to intimate that the chief purpose of the organization at this time is to provide a livelihood to pay the general organizer's salary. They point out, likewise, that whereas the league purports to be non-partisan, all the officers are Democrats, a situation they do not regard as especially attractive to possible Republican admirers of the President.

P. J. Phillips, of Nyssa, Or., is a candidate for joint Representative in the lower House of the next Legislature from Harney and Malheur Counties. He is a Republican.

The Progressive party appears to have several Barkleys who are "wild," despite amalgamation talk to become candidates for delegates to the Progressive National Convention at Chicago, June 7. According to word received by Secretary of State O'Connell from John W. McGrath, of Oyster Bay, member of the Progressive National Committee, Oregon has been appointed five delegates for the convention. Both the Democrats and Republicans are to have ten delegates from this state. Oregon Progressives attach considerable importance to the fact that Mr. McGrath, besides being member of the Progressive National Committee, is also private secretary to Colonel Roosevelt.

Among the Progressives likely to run for delegate are David L. Povey, of Portland, from this district; D. J. Cooper, The Dalles, from the Second District, and Fred Mears, of Medford, from the First District. Two delegates are also to be elected at large, and Colonel Emmet Callahan is mentioned for one of the places. T. B. Neuhansen, state chairman of the Progressive party in Oregon, will undoubtedly attend the convention in his official capacity.
