SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 20.—(Special.)—One of the most interesting figures that the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church drew out of its world organization, in session here, was Dr. Mary Stone, called the "little doctor of Kiukiang."

She is a native Chinese, educated in a Methodist mission school in China and later graduated from the Medical school of the University of Michigan.

Immediately upon receiving her diploma, she hastened to Kiukiang and within four days had started a work that, within two years, necessitated the foundation of the now famous Elizabeth Shelton Danforth Memorial Hospital, where for 16 years the little doctor has been quietly at work without interruption.

Dr. Stone is at the head of a staff which is treating nearly 25,000 patients a year. In addition to being a physician and surgeon of remarkable skill, she is famous as a writer, administrator, public speaker, evangelist, home maker and charming hostess. She was the first native girl of Central China to avoid formed feet.

"The great difficulties encountered in medical work in China," said she, "are public ignorance and procrastination."

Pacific Baptist Issues 40th Anniversary Edition.

Special Number Celebrates Completion of Two-Score Years as Religious Publication.

THE PACIFIC BAPTIST has just completed 40 years of publication. To celebrate this achievement the last edition was gotten out in extra style. There are 48 pages all well edited and attractive in many ways. The Baptist is the successor of the Beacon. The first editor of the Beacon was Rev. J. C. Baker whose portrait adorns the 40th anniversary edition.

The place of publication has been changed at times, the paper has had its ups and downs, but throughout it has maintained a high standard.

Among the splendid men who have been editors are mentioned Rev. W. J. Crawford, Rev. G. J. Burchett, Rev. J. Q. A. Henry, Rev. S. P. Davis, Rev. C. A. Wooddy, W. W. Brooks, Rev. Myron Cooley, Rev. Frank L. Sullivan and Rev. A. L. Wadsworth. Various titles have been held by these, but they all did their part and did it well.

The Vanguard of Seattle was combined with the Pacific Baptist in 1892. The Leader of San Francisco and the Southern California Baptist, of Los Angeles, after uniting their interests, joined with this paper, April 1, 1893.

Today at the First Methodist Episcopal Church both sermons are to be preached by Rev. Walter Lee Airheart, the assistant pastor, who is occupying the pulpit in the absence of Dr. Frank L. Loveland. This morning his subject will be "The Triumph of Truth," and this evening "The Way to Be a Christian." Mr. Airheart is one of the strong preachers of the state. He believes firmly in the Christianity of old, but applies it to present-day conditions. His views are broad, and he says it is the business of the church to "do things" as well as to pray.

At the service this evening the quartet and vested chorus, under the direction of Hartridge G. Whipp, will give a full Mendelssohn programme.

Mr. Whipp has been re-engaged as baritone and director of both the quartet and chorus for next year. Norman A. Hoose is to continue as tenor, and Miss Goldie Peterson as soprano. Miss Alice Juston has resigned as contralto, and Miss Asenath Barnes is taking her place for the balance of the year.

At the meeting this noon of the Young Men's Forum, Mrs. L. Gee will speak on the minimum wage and maximum hour law for women from the standpoint of the employe.

Thursday evening Mr. Airheart will begin a series of addresses on "In the School of Prayer."

A large number of the members of the Aid Society of St. James' Lutheran Church met at the parsonage last Thursday and perpetrated their annual "surprise" on Mrs. J. A. Leas, it being the anniversary of her birthday. A musical programme was improvised and elaborate refreshments were served. In addition to the hearty good cheer and well wishes, the women also left an interesting memento in the way of a substantial purse.

The Rev. Mr. Leas, at St. James' Lutheran Church, will undertake, this evening, to answer the question, "Can the orthodox church heal disease? If she does not do so, why not?"

In addition to the prelude and offertory numbers, the orchestra accompanies the congregational singing of the hymns.

System of Retirement for Protestant Pastors Needed.

Strenuous Campaigns Are Being Waged to Provide Funds to Care for Retired Preachers.

IT HAS often been a reproach to the Protestant churches that so little provision has been made for the retirement of their ministers with some degree of comfort before old age or ill health has made it advisable if not compulsory for them to relinquish duties that have absorbed the energies and efforts of their best years. The Roman Catholic Church, with a celibate clergy, has not felt such urgent need of provision for this desirable object, but the Protestant churches have been realizing more and more that past and even present conditions have become a reflection on the honor and spirit of the faith they teach.

At present the Presbyterian, the Baptist and the Methodist Episcopal churches are making, with more or less success, strenuous efforts to provide funds for pensioning old or invalid ministers and their dependents, and the Protestant Episcopal church has recently adopted a plan with the same object in view, but with many new features.

A joint committee of the general Episcopalian convention has studied the question deeply for three years and has proposed as a solution: "That when a parish pays its rector his salary it will also pay a small added sum to a central fund, which, held at interest, will be sufficient to produce an annuity at a given age, and at his death will provide annuities to his widow and minor children. Cases of disability by accident or diseases are also provided for."

In considering and formulating the method adopted, the services of the most eminent actuaries in the world were enlisted and the trustees of the fund have voluntarily subjected themselves to the oversight of the insurance department of New York State.

Under this arrangement every clergyman of the Episcopal Church can look forward with confidence from active work before he is worn out, and he is not harassed by the dread that his family may be left destitute in case of his death.

The plan provides a minimum of $600 a year, available to ministers of the church who are disabled or who retire at the age of 68. The minister's pension will be equal to one-half his average salary during his active service. At death his widow and minor children will receive annual pensions; if disabled in active service, a pension follows.

In order to take care of those who should be pensioned immediately, and to give the contributory plan time to move permanently on its own wheels, an initial sum of $5,000,000 is to be raised. This sum will bring the fund up to date and start it with the assured safety it would now possess if it had been instituted years ago.

The efforts to raise the $5,000,000 have been entered into with such enthusiasm and spirit, especially in the Eastern dioceses, that success is assured by the time fixed, March 1, 1917, to commence the benefits of the fund. The diocese of Pennsylvania has $1,000,000 as a goal, and Delaware, with about the same number of clergy and communicants as Oregon, has decided to raise $50,000. A total of $2,500,000 already has been pledged. The diocese of Oregon was one of the first to approve the plan, but has only recently actively organized by the appointment of a committee and officers. The chairman of the local committee is Walter J. Burns and the treasurer J. C. Ainsworth; the offices are at the Board of Trade building.

Seventh-Day Adventists to Convene on June 1.

Arrangements Made for Western Oregon Conference in Portland.

ARANGEMENTS have been made to hold the annual campmeeting of the Western Oregon conference of Seventh-Day Adventists in this city, June 1 to 11. Members of the churches at Albany, Lebanon, Brownsville, Toledo, Newport, Silverton, Salem, Dallas, McMinnville, Falls City, Forest Grove, Gaston, Woodburn, Monitor, Oregon City, Cornelius, Hillsboro, Tillamook, Nehalem, The Dalles, Hood River, Terrebonne, Astoria and many other places in the state will join with the members of the various churches in this city in making the meeting a success. The exact location of the encampment will be at Anabel Station on the Mount Scott carline.

This will be one of several hundred similar gatherings that will be held in practically every state in the Union, every province in Canada, and various foreign countries, during the Spring and Summer months, which the Adventists style the campmeeting season. During the ten days' stay in Portland the campers will live in tents, and hold their daily meetings under canvas. It is expected that between 1200 and 1500 people will be present, this being considered the most important meeting among Adventists ever held in Oregon.

In addition to a large number of family tents which will be furnished with household effects to make the campers comfortable as possible, there also will be pitched several pavilions, in the largest of which, 80 by 120 feet in size, English preaching services will be held daily at 11 A. M., 2:30 and 7:45 P. M. Pavilions are also set apart for the German and the Scandinavian nationalities, where they may enjoy sermons in their several languages.

Young people's work will be carried on daily in a large tent devoted especially to their use, and special services for the juniors and kindergarten children will be provided.

The Portland Sanitarium will have a tent, where doctors and nurses may be found in case of illness. A reception tent will be prominently located, at which visitors will be made welcome. There will be a book tent on the ground.

Meals for this large gathering will be served on the cafeteria plan in a large pavilion equipped for that purpose. Only vegeterian dishes will be served. A grocery and fruit store, centrally located, will be conducted for the accommodation of the campers.

Dr. A. L. Hutchinson's lectures in Piedmont Church are attracting wide attention. In them he is commemorating the centennial of the American Bible Society. Tonight he will speak on "Seven Wonders of the World."

Pageant to Portray History of Methodist Church.

Progress From Time of Wesleys in England to Present in America to Be Covered by Play.

AN anticipated event is the pageant that will be given in the Eleventh-street playhouse, depicting the history of Methodism. The dates set are May 26 and 27.

The pageant will portray the history of the Methodist church, both in England and America, from the time of the Wesleys to the present day. It is divided into four episodes and 18 movements.

The first episode develops the beginnings of Methodism in England, the second depicts the beginning of Methodism in America, the third reveals the days of the circuit rider, and the last exhibits the church at work today, presenting such activities as missions, the book concerns, conference claimants, orphanage and deaconess work, and eight other working departments of the present-day church.

There are about 130 persons in the pageant from the various Epworth Leagues of the city, besides a chorus and orchestra which will furnish the music for the production. Many of the leading workers in the Methodist Church will participate, as Ralph Speelmon, of Epworth; Fred Schnell, of Mount Tabor; Edwin Norene, of Lents, and E. H. Walters, of Centenary.

Pearl Sinfield, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, has charge of the chorus of trained voices from the First Church, who will sing the representative music of the different periods portrayed.

The real purpose in giving the pageant is to educate the people concerning the history of the Methodist Episcopal Church, although the proceeds are to be used in promoting the work of the Portland district Epworth Leagues. Every Methodist is expected to rally around the standards in order that the pageant may be a grand success. The young people are working faithfully.

Woodlawn Church to Celebrate 25th Anniversary.

Well-Organized Institution Stands as Monument to Pioneer Efforts of Rev. G. M. Pierce.

THE Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal Church, which celebrates its 25th anniversary this week, is a monument to the zeal of the late Rev. G. M. Pierce, who while pastor of the Russell Street Church (now Central) went out and gathered a few scattered families in Woodlawn together and organized a class.

Among the early members were Mr. and Mrs. John Sarginson, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. S. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sheldon, Mrs. M. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Arthur, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Gottfreits.

Woodlawn, St. Johns, Sauvies Island and Columbia Chapel were made a circuit, with Rev. W. R. Struble as pastor. The class at Woodlawn at once made plans for the erection of a church, which was dedicated in May, 1901, by Dr. M. C. Wire, the then presiding elder. The Rev. Dr. Kunimer, of Taylor Street Methodist Episcopal Church, preached the sermon.

Soon a parsonage was erected, and later Woodlawn became an independent station. Rev. W. R. Struble was pastor one year, Rev. Craven one year, Rev. John Bretts one year, Rev. H. K. Hines one year, Rev. F. G. Brown one year, Rev. D. G. Stevens three years, Rev. Andrew Monroe two years, Rev. W. J. Walts two years, Rev. Dr. Dewart three years, Rev. W. J. Douglas four years, Rev. Harold Oberg one year, while the Rev. Louis Thomas is now completing his fourth year as pastor.

The early history is the story of the struggles and sacrifices of a loyal little band endeavoring to maintain a Christian service in a sparsely settled suburb. With the years the church has grown in numbers and influence, and now has a membership of 170, with a Sunday school enrollment of 200, of whom many have gone out from it to strengthen the churches in other communities. With an active, well organized membership, Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal Church turns its face to the future.

Northern Baptist Convention Is Attracting Interest.

Five-Year Programme Outlined Last Year Is Known Throughout World.

THE Northern Baptist Convention, meeting at Minneapolis, May 17-25, will be of unusual interest this year to the denomination for several reasons. Last year, at Los Angeles, a five-year programme was launched by the denomination with five great objectives, calling for one million baptisms into the churches of the Northern Baptist convention within five years; the raising of $2,000,000 for aged ministers and missionaries; $6,000,000 for the endowment of colleges in America and non-Christian lands; increasing of the missionary force to 5000; campaign to increase students of Baptist families to 17,000; placing 25 student pastors in great university centers; and raising of the missionary income to $6,000,000 per year.

This programme is attracting world-wide attention.

The denomination will watch with particular interest the final disposition of the report of the efficiency committee, which has contemplated the readjustment of the work of the American Baptist Home Mission Society and American Baptist Publication Society, looking toward greater efficiency and economy in administration; and the discussion and final vote upon this report will attract probably more attention than anything else to be brought in the way of business before this convention.

Delegates from Oregon will be Rev. C. A. Wooddy, D. D., superintendent of Home Missions for the Pacific Division; Rev. A. M. Petty, D. D., joint secretary of Foreign and Home Missions for the North Pacific District; Rev. O. C. Wright, superintendent of Missions for the Oregon Baptist State Convention; Rev. L. W. Riley, D. D., president of McMinnville College; Rev. W. B. Hinson, D. D., superintendent of evangelism for the Pacific Coast; Rev. G. F. Holt, D. D., pastor of Salem Baptist Church; Miss Carrie O. Millspaugh, district secretary of the Woman's Baptist Home Mission Society; Mrs. James F. Failing, vice-president of the Columbia River district for the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society; Miss Ruby Weyburn, district secretary for the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society; Rev. J. D. Taylor, Rev. G. L. Hals, of Marshfield; Rev. S. A. Douglas, of Grants Pass, and others. Dr. W. B. Hinson, the former pastor of the White Temple, is one of the speakers on this seven-day programme.
