Delirious and nauseated from what the hospital attendants thought was due to his first cigarette or chew of tobacco, Willis Kompf, aged 16 years, was taken to the Emergency Hospital last night from the Rose City Athletic Club. Young Kompf, who lives at 304 Wilder street, left the people with whom he lives just before the fights at the athletic club started. He is said to be a boy of good habits, and the symptoms pointed to first use The emblem adopted is a sprig of everyreen tied with a tri-colored red. try are relied on to stand the expense of the Nation-wide organization work. A letter sent out by Mr. Hamilton, originator of the Memorial Day Associ-ation idea and the proposed creed, also being sent broadcast, writes: "The time is ripe for a National pa-triotic creed for the children of the Nation. I wrote out a rough draft when the idea came to me, but let it be understood, please, that a National patriotic body should, through a com-mittee, prepare the creed and have it approved by the President, thus giving official sanction of the Nation's head. In this way no race or creed could pos-sibly take exception to its being re-peated weekly or daily in our day schools and weekly in the Sunday schools of the country."

Benefits Are Forecast.

The creed adequately written, Mr. Hamilton points out, might make for a more perfect amalgamation of the various race strains, and he adds: "If the committee would draft a parag aph with special reference to an international point of view so that the children in every nation would re-peat a daily recognition that the rights of their country ended where the rights of other nations began, it would surely have a beneficial effect in time. The knowledge that the children of the world were repeating daily a creed breathing good fellowship for all other children would in itself be an inspira-tion."

Among the list were three proxies which David Mosessohn, one of the members of the credentials committee and a lawyer of standing, immediately told them did not entitle the holder thereof to a vote in the members of the work bart corps, several having accepted higher the meeting, as it is a well-established principle of law that an elective officer principle of law that an elective officer cannot delegate his voting power in an assemblage to another. Mr. Cameron, the retiring chairman, would immediately refer these to L. Lemarck Krause, a member of the credentials committee, which, however, had been discharged, and upon Krause's ap-proval would rule that the proxy was entitled to a vote. There were, how-ever, only about five or six of these, which would about make up for the number of persons who did not vote after handing in their credentials. This indicates to any fair-minded per-son that there must have been 11 bal-lots placed in the box wrongfully. "After the temporary organization was effected, Albin L. Clark, who, per-haps through his familiarity with bal-lots, Mr. Day had placed upon the com-mittee for election of secretary, im-mediately moved that the temporary organization be made permanent.
