"Better Foods-Better Homes" Is Brought to Close With Expressions of Benefits From Prominent Workers.

A large attendance, many interesting features and sincere expressions of appreciation characterized the last of the series of "Better Food, Better Homes" lectures given in the Eleventh-street playhouse by Mrs. Kate Brew Vaughn The cooking school and lectures, held all this past week, attracted thousands of women in Portland and the near-by towns. Mrs. Vaughn had been here about a year and a haif ago, and it was at the request of many who had heard her before that the return series was planned.

At the close of Mrs. Vaughn's talk At the close of Mrs. Vaughn's talk yesterday she gave away her gas range and kitchen cabinet. The former went to Mrs. Mildred Baker, of 234 North Nineteenth street, and the latter to Mrs. E. Condon, 284 Poplar street. Several of the women took cakes they had baked and Mrs. Vaughn gave a special Appreciation Is Expressed. In her little closing message Mrs. Vaughn said: "I appreciate very much the attendance of so many women at these lectures. Mrs. J. E. Rand, of the Congress of Mothers, declared that the lectures were as good as the recipes, and the whole thing was most helpful. "Mrs. Vaughn is the best lecturer I have ever heard and her recipes are so practical. She advises us to use seed ingredients. She advises us to use good ingredients. I hope we who have heard her will be able to do as she has urged." This was what Mrs. Rand said.

PAVING ERRORS CORRECTED

S. Benson Says Aman Moore's Statements Are Incorrect.

PORTLAND, June 3.—(To the Editor.)—A series of articles, misleading in intent, inaccurate in statement and at absolute variance with facts, regarding the paving of the highways of ing the paving of the highways of Multnomah County, are being published by Aman Moore, a promoter of the Oswego Cement Works.

These articles reflect on the honesty, integrity and business fudgment of the county officials, civic organizations and citizens of the county who recommended the type of pavement used on a large percentage of the county's thoroughfares. While the articles are not taken seriously in Multnomah not taken seriously in Multnomah County, the publication of them in the country districts where no opportunity offers to become familiar with the facts will create an erroneous impression, and to correct this prompts this com-munication.

Instead of the whole amount of the bond issue as stated in one of the articles amounting to $1,250,000, but $747. ticles amounting to $1,250,000, but $747,260 was appropriated for bitulithic, a two-inch wearing surface, the lowest price ever heretofore paid. The profits or "royalty" on this is practically absorbed by the maintenance in Portland by the Warren company of a large office force and an extensive laboratory and a number of skilled, experienced workers during a long period of the year, when this character of work is impossible, and the cost of maintenance for a period of 10 years required by the county.

The paving of 60 miles was done by five separate companies, all home concerns. One of the contractors contended that he had completed his contract on one section at a loss.

About 10 miles was paved with cement at a cost of $174,384. If, as contended, cement is manufactured for 80 cents per barrel, and the selling price fixed at $1.90 per barrel, the profits of the cement people can be easily determined.

Bitulithic was adopted after a search-

by the county officials, representative citizens and committees from various civic organizations, all of whom had but one single object in view, namely, to obtain a pavement the most suitable and best for the roads, and to receive the most value for the money spent.
After a year of experience, during which the roads were subjected to unprecedentedly heavy traffic and the test which the roads were subjected to un-precedentedly heavy traffic and the test of a Winter of utmost severity, the unanimous opinion is that the choice made was wise and judicious. It is impossible to determine the profits of the companies laying the pavements until the expiration of the maintenance period of 10 years, for which adequate security was given. One fact remains that on a road given over to the testing of various types of pavement the cement contractors are the only ones who have protested against damage done to the surface, contending its disintegration was the result of unnatural causes, and yet the other pavements were subjected to exactly the same conditions without causing injury. In no instance has the County of Multnomah been called upon to maintain a highway paved with bitulithic, even when only a moral obligation was involved.

bitulithic, even when only a moral obligation was involved.

I hope the Oswego cement plant will prove an unqualified success, and that others in the state will be encouraged. Cement has many uses. The greatest hue and cry is raised against a paving trust by a paving trust that does not get the job. This was strikingly demonstrated recently when the same coment promoters did everything in their power to carry a bond issue in Snohomish County, Washington, where ce-

The monument is erected in the Oddfellows' Cemetery, where there are many unmarked graves of soldiers and sailors of the Civil War. The cannon and shot were donated by the Government and the dedication was made in 1915, although the monument was not then finished. One side of the monument has a bronze tablet with this inscription: "Dedicated to the memory of the soldiers and sailor dead by the Evening Record." The plot surrounding the monument is seeded and well kept. The cannon ball at the top of the structure is 17 feet from the base.

CIVIL SERVICE ASSAILED

Judge McGinn Hears Action of ex-Employe for Reinstatement.

Circuit Judge Henry E. McGinn does not think much of civil service.

"It's the great humbug of today," he asserted yesterday, when the action of John Jacob Moil to compel Commissioner Will Daly to re-employ him in the Street-Cleaning Bureau of the city, came up for hearing. Judge McGinn went on to say that civil service was devised by "theorists, who meant well" and desired to overcome the Jeffersonian plan of clean sweep in political offices at change of administration, but that it resulted in inefficiency, insubordination and other evils.

Moil complained that he had been another department and causin be laid off in February, when men his junior in the service had been permitted to remain on duty. Deputy City Attorney Temilinson explained that transfers of men from one department CENTRALIA. Wash., June 1
