

WILSON THANKS HE WILL WIN AT POLLS

President Says He Doesn't Expect Opponents to Have Chance to Bring on War.

IDLE TALK IS CRITICISED

Executive Declares He Will Be Glad When Campaign Is Ended, That He May "Get Down to Business Again."

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 21.—In a speech devoted primarily to a discussion of the need for economic preparedness in the United States, President Wilson today told a delegation of farmers, architects and engineers, here today that he did not expect the United States to get into war.

"I know the way in which we have preserved peace is objected to," said the President, "and that certain gentlemen say they would have taken some other way that would inevitably have resulted in war, but I am not expecting this country to get into war, partly because I am not expecting these gentlemen to have a chance to make a mess of it."

Taking the work done by the Administration for the farmers as his text, Mr. Wilson declared: "We want the privilege of representing the whole force of the Nation."

He demanded that men be put through a "third degree" in respect to where they stand with regard to love of the United States, and he said he was glad the campaign was nearly over, "because I am in a hurry to get down to business again."

"There is a great deal of irresponsible talk being indulged in," declared the President, in discussing the campaign. "Men are saying things they know perfectly well they will make good on, and it disturbs the National council. On the seventh of November we will call it."

Mr. Wilson said the Democratic party had been trying to take the Government out of the control of small groups and "square it with the counsel of the whole nation."

Mobilization of Resources Cited.
In detail he told of work being done to mobilize the industrial resources of the Nation, saying that the great lessons of the European war has been that the economic co-ordination and co-operation of the country is just as important as the military co-operation of it.

The occasion of the President's address was the celebration of "farmers' day" at Shadow Lawn, but a delegation of architects and engineers from New York, led by a band, came to the West End railroad station by train and marched to the President's summer home to hear the address. Farmers from New Jersey and other nearby states came to the celebration, several hundred of them in automobiles.

Republican Neglect Charged.
In his speech here today, President Wilson said, in part:
"We owe much to our Republican predecessors that they exercised such long and systematic neglect that it was necessary for us to undertake systematic performance. Things will not be done until they are performed. Not only that, but circumstances will not wait upon everything that ought to be done, some of the things must be done and done promptly."

"This Administration has had the singular advantage of having a great body of National sentiment behind it, which had stood ready to support such measures as it adopted. I do not know whether the systematic neglect to which I referred was deliberate or not. I only know that it was thorough-going, and that an absolutely free field was left for the present Administration."

"You as farmers were never told, I take it, that you were getting the direct benefit of the tariff. You were told you were getting the indirect benefit of the tariff. You were getting it with extreme indifference, because you were getting it by having duties placed upon almost everything that you had to use, and, therefore, the cost of almost everything you had to use was advanced, and you were promised hardly more than this—that if the country prospered you would necessarily prosper with the country, but you would pay for the prosperity at a very considerable price. That was not added, but it was implied."

Interests in Tariff Is Charged.
"And the whole point of view of our legislation has been this, that a special set of men who thought they could guide the Nation better than anybody else, and proffered to guide in private, asked certain chief beneficiaries of the tariff to come together and suggest what the duties of the tariff should be. So that these gentlemen have the idea that I have several times pointed out that it was best for us to be in the hands of guardians."

The President then reviewed the benefits of the Federal reserve act, and the rural credit act, and said: "The agricultural products of this country," he continued, "judged by our opportunities and our soil and our native capacity, ought to be twice what they are at present, and, instead of the possibility of shortage, there ought always to be the certainty of the exportation of large bodies of grain from the United States."

Council of Whole Nation Heard.
"So that what we are trying to do all along the line is to establish co-operation, general development, common counsel, and what I would be glad to have you gentlemen understand is, everything that we have been trying to do. We have been trying to take the government of this country out of the control and from the guidance of small groups and square it with the counsel of the whole Nation. We have been trying to make a partnership out of it, and I am glad to say we have succeeded."

"I do not wonder that the gentlemen out of whose hands it has been taken are uneasy, because they are genuine of the opinion that only they know how to run the country, and if I thought I was the only man living who knew how to run the country, I would be very sorry to see it taken out of my hands."

"What has surprised some of these gentlemen is to discover how many there are who really understand the United States. The United States is beginning to understand itself, and it is beginning to understand these gentlemen. One of the greatest lessons of the European war has been that the economic mobilization of the country, the economic co-ordination and co-operation of it, is just as important as the military co-operation of it."

War Not Expected.
"I am not expecting this country to get into war. I know the way in which we have preserved peace is objected to, and that certain gentlemen say they would have taken some other way that would inevitably have resulted in war, but I am not expecting this country to get into war, partly because I am not expecting these gentlemen to have a chance to make a mess of it. But I am very glad to take advantage of the present concentration of the attention of the world upon the problems of war to make it evident to the country that these same problems are the problems of peace so far as they are economic problems.

"The railway development of this country never has been studied as a whole for one thing. There are great many things lacking in the transportation facilities of the country which are now going to be developed in the new kind of consultation which we have established.

"Congress has created recently a council of National defense, and has associated with that council an advisory committee of seven men, who shall represent these various physical and intellectual resources; a great surgeon, a great engineer, a great railroad man, a great manufacturer; all the several kinds of industries in this country, at any rate, represented for the purpose of taking counsel with the Government itself as to how the resources of this country can be drawn together at all times, in times of peace as well as in times of war. Because, my friends, in the immediate future, this country has got to know itself, has got to draw upon its resources in the most intelligent possible way, and has got to make conquest of all those men who refuse to co-operate. It has got to study the individual interest and the individual group of interests to the general interest."

LISTER DEAL ALLEGED
GOVERNOR SAID TO HAVE HAD BACKING OF WETS IN 1912.
Senator Carlyn Declares Silence on Issue Was Promised as Means of Getting Saloon Support.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Charges that Governor Lister entered into a deal with liquor interests whereby he was to command their support in 1912 are made in a campaign statement issued by P. H. Carlyn, Republican State Senator from Thurston County.

His statement follows:
"Governor Lister now claims to be the dry candidate for Governor and has charged that Henry McBride is wet. In his attempt to prove this statement he made in a campaign statement support of all liquor interests in 1908. There is more recent history than 1908 on this subject, and it is a matter of common knowledge that Governor Lister had the wet support in 1912 and is now holding office by virtue of that fact."

"The Governor has known as the dry candidate in 1912 because of having vetoed the bill permitting hotels to sell liquor on Sunday.

"The Governor did not want Mr. Hay and I am reliably informed that a deal was made at a room held in the Washington Hotel in Seattle and that in return for wet support Ernest Lister agreed to remain silent on the liquor question in his message to the state Legislature.

"This is one promise Governor Lister kept. In his message to the Legislature in 1913 he remained completely silent on the prohibition question and the only reference to the liquor law in 1915 was to ask the Legislature to appropriate $50,000 to be expended under his direction in enforcement of the law.

"The Governor has promised to make an appropriation, but did provide a fund of about $17,000 for investigation of funds of the law and extradition purposes.

"That fund has practically all been spent and not one cent of it has ever been connected with enforcement of prohibition."

HAILY SCORES HUGHES
SILENCE ON LIQUOR QUESTION CHARGED IN SPEECH.
Prohibitionist Makes Attack in Republican Candidate's Home State, Invaluable Government Alleged.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Here in Charles H. Hughes' home state, J. Frank Hanly, the Prohibitionist candidate for President, charged today that the Republican Presidential nominee had rendered "dumb" by the liquor traffic.

Hughes would not say a word on this traffic for a seat in Heaven," the ex-Indiana Governor shouted in his first New York speech at Westfield. "He had rather take a chance on winning the Presidency than do that which is his long Western tour recently he said nothing about the liquor traffic. Was this done inadvertently? No, it was done after a long and deliberate struggle with the liquor traffic, he was invited to speak, but he would not do it. His answer invariably was that he had nothing to say on this issue."

And because of this attitude it hinders Mr. Hughes in any way, no invisible government in connection with his candidacy because he proposes to acquiesce in this traffic which is the ruin of the visible government."

Dr. Ira Landrith told New Yorkers that he doubted if this state ever would go dry by its own act.

"As long as you have old Manhattan at the other end, it probably won't go dry," he said. "But you won't be alone. The other states probably will have to dry up Pennsylvania, New Jersey and several others along with you."

COWLITZ CAMPAIGN IS ON
E. L. Brunton, of Chicago, Speaking in Washington.

KELSO, Wash., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The first Republican campaign addresses of the National campaign were delivered in Cowlitz County yesterday by E. L. Brunton, of Chicago, who addressed enthusiastic audiences at Kalama, Castle Rock and Woodland. Tonight Representative Albert Johnson opened the campaign in this city. Next week Senator Jones is billed to speak at Kalama, and Henry McBride will deliver an address at Kelso Friday. George E. Lee is billed to speak at Woodland October 31, and the County Central Committee is arranging for other speakers of note, who will keep the campaign red hot until election day.

Pe Ell Plan Falls Through.
CENTRALIA, Wash., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Owing to the fact that 145 residents of the Frances School district in Pacific County signed a remonstrance against the proposed annexation of a part of the district with the Pe Ell district in Lewis County, the proposition has fallen through. The purpose of the proposal was to make it possible for Pacific County students living in Walville to attend high school in Pe Ell, which is much nearer to Walville than is Frances.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH SEEKS WAR CURE

Establishment of International Court Suggested at Convention.

MOVIE CENSORSHIP URGED

Fight on Remarriage of Divorced Innocent Party Not Yet Ended. Committee Asks Indorsement of Prohibition.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 21.—Establishment of an international court having jurisdiction over all nations in the world in the same way that the United States Supreme Court has jurisdiction over all states of the Union, was suggested as a practical method of preventing war in a report submitted to the House of Deputies of the Protestant Episcopal general convention today. The report was presented by the commission on minimizing war.

Whether the class of motion picture films shown in the United States is improving was a question raised by the submission of a resolution by Rev. E. V. Shayler, of Seattle. This resolution directed the church social service commission to arrange conditions to create a national board of censors, and originally asserted that, while admitting the beneficial effects of some pictures, an increasing number is being shown showing "distorted views of affection, suggestions of lust and license, and details which combine to develop a school of crime."

Rev. Edward S. Brown, of Cambridge, Mass., objected to the words, "increasing number," asserting that that was a matter of personal opinion, and, as a result, they were stricken from the resolution as adopted.

Display of Wealth Censured.
The clergy and laity of the church are urged in a resolution adopted by the house of deputies to the "rigid observance of social habits of those Christian principles which make for sobriety, purity and holiness in life."

The resolution also asserted that "the awful tragedy of Europe demands a searching investigation of the standards of our individual and corporate life." American life, it is asserted, "is marked in a vulgar and wasteful extravagance, creating false standards of living and tending to make more evident the cleavage between rich and poor."

"That the right within the church for the prohibition of the remarriage of divorced persons was not ended when the house of deputies recently rejected the proposal was evidenced today in a resolution introduced by the Rev. Leighton Parks, of New York, and referred to the commission on holy matrimony. This proposed a canonical amendment which would forbid clergymen performing such ceremonies and is in a new form from the original proposal. With its reference to the commission on holy matrimony, the convention asserted it was certain to become one of the paramount issues in the 1919 general convention.

Prohibition Indorsement Urged.
Liquor prohibition probably will be discussed before the convention next week. This was determined today when a memorial, submitted to the house of deputies by the church temperance society, was referred to a committee to be reported later in the session. The memorial in effect asked that the house indorse the prohibition movement.

The house of deputies did not act today upon the selection of Bishop Arthur Selden Lloyd, of New York, as president, and George Gordon King, of Newport, R. I., as treasurer of the board of missions, as had been expected, but probably will vote Monday.

Announcement was made from the house of bishops that among those elected to the board are Bishop Alfred Harding, of Washington, D. C., and the Rev. W. T. Manning, of New York, who were among five members of the board to resign a year ago.

It was announced that the house of bishops would consider a proposal to create a new missionary district in South Dakota late Monday afternoon. The committee appointed to investigate the proposals reported today that in its belief relief of some sort was necessary for the district, but that it was divided as to the manner of obtaining it. The full report will be made on Monday.

Woman Hurt in Runaway.
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Mrs. W. L. Young was seriously injured as the result of a runaway accident while going from Halfway to North Pine a few miles south. As the horses started down hill a dog ran at them and the frightened animals started to run, throwing Mrs. Young from the buggy. She was severely bruised, but was able to make her way home.

FARM CONGRESS CHIDED
Little Country Woman Cites Care of Hogs, Neglect of Children.
EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 21.—A little country woman told the International Dry Farming Congress delegates today that they knew more about raising hogs than they did about rearing children, that the Government spent $40,000 to study children's diseases, and $900,000 to study diseases among hogs.

She was Mrs. W. A. Warner, of Claude, Texas, who spoke on the subject: "The Farm Woman's Viewpoint." "A man may become a father while riding to town on a load of wheat," she said. "The perpetuation of the human race has never come across a single physical pain, and that is why the men who make all the laws are so indifferent to the needs of women and children."

"41" WANTS $774,000 MORE
Washington Budget Is $1,884,910 and Buildings Are Asked.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 21.—An increase of $774,000 in the biennial appropriation for the University of Washington and the renewal of the provisions permitting the application of tuition and rental money toward new buildings, is asked in the university budget resolution, which was completed yesterday, for submission to the next State Legislature. The appropriation asked is $1,884,910, the budget two years ago was $1,110,000.

Construction of several new buildings, remodeling of others, and substantial increases in salaries, as well as provision for the appointment of more instructors, are urged. Rentals from university property will yield $110,000 and tuition fees $134,000 a year, which will be enough to erect one new building and begin work on another next year.

Finley, president of the University of the State of New York. Eight hundred persons in the auditorium of the New York Education Building here listened to the ceremony through individual receivers and others throughout the country, including President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, of the University of California, at Berkeley, Cal., also "witnessed" the event.
