SOMERVILLE, Mass., Oct. 28 .- The assertion that President Wilson at the time the second Lusitania note was sent to Germany, wrote and afterward withdrew a postscript informing the German government that the contents of his previous note were not to be interpreted too seriously, was reiter-ated by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge in a political address here tonight. The Senator added to his statement the an nouncement that information on the subject had come to him in a letter from Dr. Charles H. Balley, of the Tufts Medical School, in which Henry Breckenridge, formerly Assistant Sec-retary of War, was quoted as author-ity for the story of the alleged post-

Senator Lodge reviewed the sending of the Lustania notes and the resignation of Secretary of State Bryan.

"There was one feature about which there was much speculation at the time and that was why Mr. Bryan allowed his name to be appended to a very strong note couched in the most extreme language possible to diplomacy and yet resigned so that he need note of June 9, a note which even a man of very strong pacifist tendencies could not have objected to. It was could not have objected to. It was contrainly reported at the time that the reason for this apparently inexplication on Mr. Bryan's part was the fact that the first note as finally sent was not the note to which he had appended his signature.  "Dear Sir: As you requested, I am submitting to you herewith in writing a report of a conversation between exassistant Secretary of War Breckenridge and myself. Leaving San Francisco on July 15, 1916, I rode from that city as far as Omaha, Neb., with Mr. Breckenridge. During the trip I asked Mr. Breckenridge if he was willing to answer certain questions with regard to the conduct of our National affairs during his connection with the present Administration. Receiving an affirmative reply, I asked him, among other Administration. Receiving an affirmative reply, I asked him, among other things, as to the truth of the published report that, following the so-called 'strict accountability' note, Secretary Bryan had informed Ambassador Dumba that the central powers need not take the note too seriously, as it was written for political effect and home consumption only. He said that in all essential details I had stated the matter correctly, which led him of his own accord to tell me the following—this is not, of course, a verbatim report, but simply a brief outline of the story as told me by Mr. Breckenridge:

The trading stamp law, providing that money taken in on any kind of a trading stamp scheme in connection with sales is liable to a tax of 5 per cent, once more is operative. as told me by Mr. Breckenridge:
"He stated that following the com-pletion of the 'omit no word or no act' ote to the satisfaction of the Cabinet, Mr. Wilson, without the knowledge of any member of the Cabinet, except Secany member of the Cabinet, except Secretary Bryan himself, wrote a postscript which he sent with the note to the State Department for codification.
Mr. Breckenridge stated that both Mr.
Garrison and he had seen this postscript, and he told me what he claimed were its exact words, which, however, I cannot repeat exactly, but the substance was that the imperial German government was not to put too serious an interpretation on the words 'omit no word or act', on the contrary he would word or act, on the contrary he would be inclined, provided the German gov-ernment did not see fit to yield to the demands of the United States, to use his efforts toward submitting the en-tire matter to an impartial interna-tional tribunal, the decision to be made only after the war. Both note and postscript were submitted to and signed by Secretary Bryan. This, according to by Secretary Bryan. This, according to Mr. Breckenridge, was too good for Mr. Bryan to keep to himself, with the result that it reached Secretary Garrison's ears, who immediately with two or three (I do not remember which) other members of the Cabinet, called apon Mr. Wilson and demanded that he withdraw the postscript under the threat that otherwise they would resign and make the matter public. Mr. Wilson immediately yielded and Secre-tary Garrison and the others left.

Bryan's Resignation Follows, Immediately after this, President Wilson summoned Secretary Bryan to the White House, and when the latter left President Wilson had the assurance of his resignation; whether at "Don't know that there is any particular ruling covering this sort of a case, but all the parties were satisfied in one by Circuit Judge McGinn yesterday. "Don't know that there is any particular ruling covering this sort of a case, but all the parties were satisfied." Ance of his resignation; whether at Mr. Wilson's request, because Secretary Bryan had been reported for the matter reaching Secretary Garrison's cars, or whether presented by Secretary Bryan because there had been a previous understanding between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan that the latter would sign the note proper only with the understanding that such a nullifying postscript should be sent and the President was now unable to fulfill the agreement. Mr. Breckenridge was unable to state.

"I asked Mr. Breckenridge if he would be willing to bring such knowledge as he possessed to the active support of Mr. Hughes. He said that he was still at heart a Democrat, but that neither he nor any other patriotic American could support Wilson. Whether, however, he would be willing actively to support Hughes, he said he could not say at that early date.

"This," continued Senator Lodge simply throws an additional light or the shifty character of this Admin-istration in its foreign policies. It is also of interest in another way for it apparently shows that Mr. Bryan's reason for resigning was the highly creditable one of objecting to having his signature go out appended to a document differing in an essential point from the one which he had signal was the highly the rain of yesterday have been extinguished, excepting in a few localities where the danger of spreading is thought to be past.

There is a strong demand from the Eastern states for flour, but buying on the Coast is not heavy, grocers and bakers purchasing only such quantities as they require from day to day.

The leading wheat buyers are not operating as heavily as at the beginning of the week. There is no abatement of the Eastern and export demand for wheat, but the car situation is becoming so tight as to make a slowing down of buying necessary.

"The Democrats have broken every plank of their last platform except one—that in regard to the tariff," Mrs. Hanley said. "And it would have been much better for the country if they had broken that. There is one plank, though, we are all going to try and help them keep, and that is the single term for President plank."

She urged the election of Hughes as a man and as a statesman. She reviewed his official record, particularly in behalf of labor. She told how the Administration's child labor law was modeled after the one Hughes forced through in New York except that in the new law the effectiveness of the old was removed.
