

SONGS WIN OVATION

Madame Schumann Heink Sways Enthusiastic Audience.

SIMPLE PATHOS IS HEARD

German Vocal Gems Not Appreciated in Full by Those Not Acquainted With Tongue—Smiles Also Are Carried to Hearers.

BY JOSEPH MACQUEEN.

Madame Schumann Heink, contralto, is like a new dollar and also like the sunshine pouring from a May sky—everybody is glad to see her.

She seems to have outdone the famous Ponce de Leon, because she must have discovered the secret of everlasting life. She is like—but what's the use? The fact is there is only one Schumann Heink, and she cannot be duplicated.

Last night at the Hellig Theater the great German-Austrian contralto was the solo vocal star in concert, assisted by Miss Edith Evans, of New York City, piano accompanist, and was a spectacular success. Schumann Heink, from the first moment she stepped on the stage, was greeted by her large audience as if she had been a personal friend. Every seat in the house was occupied, and there was even an "overflow meeting" on the stage.

Vocal Gems Are in German. The man who doesn't have a speaking acquaintance with the German language, or at least doesn't know German songs, doesn't enjoy last night's concert to its fullest measure, because the best songs were German vocal gems, sung in the German language. Still, the initiated grasped the vocal drift of the singer. At the end of each song there came roars of applause. It was a perfect exhibit of hero-worship.

Of course, Schumann Heink's voice is not so young and fresh as it once was—but today it has more charm than years ago. Her grand opera professional work has stamped her singing with splendid dramatic intensity and fervor of utterance. Her command of art has grown in intensity. Her grasp of poetic meaning has improved much. In personal popularity there is no other singer in America who has more appeal. She is the type of artist that the managers love to present to audiences, because she sings in the big houses. Her use of English is splendid.

Song Has Simple Pathos.

It was wonderful to hear such a hackneyed song as "My Heart Ever Faithful" (Bach) sung with such simple pathos and new beauty by Schumann Heink. Real refinement of sentiment lives in her wild, throbbing "Erl King." This was the star bit of the concert. Real tragedy was stamped on Salter's well-known "Oy of Rachel."

Bright songs, with smiles in them, such as "Mach dich nicht wie die Weib" ("Spinners' Song") and "Good Morning, Sue," were interpreted joyfully, with laughing good nature. The extra numbers were: "Ich Liebe dich" ("I Love You") from "Samson de Delila" (Saint Saens) and "Calm Is the Night" (German folk song).

Miss Evans is a first-class accompanist and plays with both grace and skill. The concert opened the Steers & Co. man series of concerts for 1916-1917, and was a most auspicious affair, both from music and society viewpoints.

RED MEN IN POW WOW

FOOD AND CHRYSANTHEMUM SHOW AT ICE PALACE HAS FEATURE.

"Royal" Children Representing Brands of Products Are Christened at Big Entertainment.

A war dance and pow wow that would have done credit to Sitting Bull and his braves was staged by the Order of Red Men at a special attraction at the National Food and Chrysanthemum Show at the Ice Palace last night. The dance was held before the throne of the king and queen of the fetes.

The "royal" children were christened as a feature of the entertainment last night. Each child presented in turn before the royal couple was dressed to represent a particular brand of product and was formally named after the respective brand represented by the child.

Pure food demonstrations were held at the various booths and a lecture on "What Vocation in Life to Follow" was given in the afternoon by Princess Gowning. The day was closed with dancing. The fetes will be closed today, but will be opened again Monday and continue throughout the week.

Among the special attractions for this week will be a masquerade carnival Monday night, a prize mask-cutting contest Tuesday night, a musical revue Wednesday night, a prize baby beauty contest Thursday afternoon, a surprise programme Thursday night; "Municipal day" a mock trial, Friday night and a special electric display on Saturday night, the closing night of the fetes.

ALFRED NAQUET IS DEAD

Noted Frenchman Who Made Divorce Possible in France Succumbs.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Alfred Joseph Naquet, a noted French chemist and politician, died here today.

STOP PAIN, RUB NEURALGIA AWAY

Instant Relief From Nerve Torture and Misery With "St. Jacobs Oil."

Rub this soothing, penetrating oil right into the sore, inflamed nerves and like magic—neuralgia disappears. "St. Jacobs Oil" conquers pain. It is a harmless neuralgia relief, which doesn't burn or discolor the skin. Don't suffer! It is so needless. Get small trial bottle from any drug store and gently rub the "aching nerves," and in just a moment you will be absolutely free from pain and suffering. No difference whether your pain or neuralgia is in the face, head or any part of the body, you get instant relief with this old-time, honest pain destroyer—it cannot injure.—Adv.

SYSTEM IS OFFERED

Co-operative Stores Are Dealt With in Bulletin.

CAUSES OF FAILURE GIVEN

Plan Originated by Oregon Agricultural College Is to Be Published by Federal Government Department.

$1,100,000 IN BONDS VOTED

Ochoco Irrigation District Prepares to Complete Project.

PRINEVILLE, Or., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Bonds in the sum of $1,100,000 were authorized by a vote of 56 for and 28 against the proposition by the land owners of the Ochoco irrigation district. The bonds will bear 6 per cent interest and mature in 20 years.

Owing to the fact that all the land within the district is privately owned and more than 35 per cent is already in a high state of cultivation, little difficulty is anticipated in the sale of the bonds.

The successful completion of the Ochoco project means much to Prineville, as nearly the entire $1,000,000 will be spent here within the next two years. The large land holdings will

FOUR GENERATIONS PRESENT AT FIFTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED AT PENDLETON.

MR. AND MRS. H. R. NEIL. PENDLETON, Or., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Four generations were present at the 50th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Neil, recently celebrated in Pendleton. The four generations were Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Neil, Mrs. J. D. Rose, a daughter, Mrs. Lee Bisengser, a daughter of Mrs. Rose, and Conrad Bisengser, the son of Mrs. Bisengser. Mr. and Mrs. Neil were married in Polk County, Missouri, where they lived for 20 years, after which they moved to Umatilla County, Oregon, where they have resided for the past 30 years. Mr. Neil is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, having served for a term of three years in the Sixth Missouri Cavalry during the Civil War.

necessarily be cut up and several thousand new people will be added to the population of Crook County.

MEXICAN OIL LANDS SOLD

Americans Reported to Have Paid $100,000,000 to British Interests.

LAREDO, Texas, Nov. 11.—Mexico City newspapers reaching the border tonight contain statements that the Gulf Oil Company, an American corporation, will purchase the Mexican oil properties of Sir Weetman Pearson (Lord Cowdray), of England. The consideration, the papers state, will approximate about $100,000,000. The Pearson interests control large oil holdings in Tehuantepec and Tampico, as well as being largely interested in the National Railroad of Mexico and in improvement concerns at the ports of Vera Cruz, Puerto Mexico and Salina Cruz.

NEW MEXICO FOR WILSON

Democrats Have Lead Also for Senator and Representative.

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 11.—President Wilson led Charles E. Hughes in the special election for senator today by 1184 votes of 29 of the 638 precincts missing. These precincts were small and widely scattered. Late returns on Congressman gave Walton, Democrat, a lead of 1776 in 342 precincts. For Senator, A. A. Jones, Democrat, led Bursum, Republican, by 650 votes with 113 precincts not reported.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION FOR MARRIAGE DECLARED FARCE

Dr. J. Allen Gilbert Comments on Futility of Preventing Mating of Incompetents Under Present Oregon Law—Specific Objections Discussed.

BY J. ALLEN GILBERT. THE Oregon law requires a medical examination of every male before he is granted a license to marry. The importance of such a step as an entering wedge for the protection of the principle of reproduction from disease can scarcely be overestimated. However, in its present form it is hopelessly inefficient, capable of great mischief, and does but little positive good other than to attract the attention of the public to the seriousness of the venereal diseases in the home. As a statute it is a deplorable farce.

Let us see whether so severe an arrangement can be substantiated. At any time within 10 days previous to marriage the male applicant is required to present himself to a regularly licensed physician in the State of Oregon for examination under the following certificate: State of Oregon, County of Multnomah, ss. I, _____, being first duly sworn, say that I am a physician duly authorized to practice medicine within the State of Oregon. That on this _____ day of _____, 191____, I examined _____ a male person who is about to apply to a County Clerk of the State of Oregon for a marriage license. That from said examination I found said applicant to be free from contagious or infectious venereal disease. Subscribed and sworn to before me this _____ day of _____, 191____. I personally have made a number of

SYSTEM IS OFFERED

Co-operative Stores Are Dealt With in Bulletin.

CAUSES OF FAILURE GIVEN

Plan Originated by Oregon Agricultural College Is to Be Published by Federal Government Department.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The failure of such a large percentage of the co-operative societies in Oregon prior to 1915, and the interest that has been displayed in this type of organization of recent years, has led to the preparation and publication of a bulletin by J. A. Bezell, dean of the school of commerce of the Oregon Agricultural College and W. H. Kerr, investigator in market business practice for the United States Department of Agriculture. "Business Practice and Accounts for Co-operative Stores" is the title of the new publication, which is published by the United States Department of Agriculture. The purpose of the bulletin is to out-throw us physicians into a position of peculiar and oftentimes embarrassing responsibility, finally telling him that he could not issue the certificate unless he were willing to undergo further laboratory tests, in order to confirm or refute the clinical findings. It was learned by the telephone that no report from the laboratory on the tests desired was possible before Monday at 4 P. M. The applicant would necessitate postponement of his marriage, which had been arranged for the next day—Sunday. He submitted graciously, saying that he would take it over with his companion, and promising at the same time to report on Monday morning at the examination. He seemed to be acting conscientiously; all in all he called out from me high respect for a manhood that is too rare. His solicitude for the welfare of his companion and the welfare of possible children seemed to outweigh in his mind any personal considerations, and he left the office with a friendliness which I admit was unexpected. However, I must also admit that I should ever see him again in spite of the favorable impression he left behind. He never came back for further examination or for discharge of his obligations in my office. Presumably he has obtained his license through other channels. Inquiry at the license department disclosed the fact that, as well as I, have no power to prevent issuance of an undesired license provided the applicant presents himself with a witness and a legally-signed medical certificate. Let us face some of the difficulties inherent in the law. First—Inasmuch as there is only one objection in the list which is based upon sentiment let us dispose of it first. The examination is made after the contracting parties have made all their arrangements preliminary to the formal contract. Rejection is both inconvenient and embarrassing to the parties. This element is a strong incentive for the introduction of fraud or deception on the part of all parties concerned. Not that those concerned necessarily stoop to unfair means to circumvent the law in an affair of so much importance as a dire consequence, but the temptation is there whether it is yielded to or not. Under the existing law the means of escape from such a dilemma, should such a dilemma be visible, are so numerous that the law is ineffectual and at the same time makes a strong bid for infraction of the law. Second—Without specific tests for both gonorrhoea and syphilis no physician can intelligently and conscientiously swear to the certificate as it stands. Even with all the tests at our disposal the diagnosis is frequently in doubt, and the only way to obtain definite tests universally accepted as reliable. In order that they may be of value they must be guarded from tampering in some way. The conditions are certainly not fulfilled in the average—no saying of "any" physician. Many Physicians Handicapped. All that is done—in fact, all that can be done under existing conditions—is to make a clinical examination of the patient in search of any of the two diseases and if no clinically evident symptoms are manifest, the certificate is filled out. It cannot be otherwise, because if it were otherwise, where many physicians do not even own a microscope, to say nothing of laboratory facilities, the physician would have no reputable physician will deny that without appropriate laboratory facilities the absence of neither syphilis nor gonorrhoea can be definitely ascertained. Consequently the examination resolves itself into a determination of whether there are any apparent symptoms of either disease present at the time of the examination. Even this assumes that "any" physician is capable of recognizing them—a point out such as to emphasize the above certificate be filled out efficiently and conscientiously by "any" physician. Third—A slipshod examination does injustice to both the man and the woman who are to be parties to the contract of marriage. The man is deceived into thinking that he is free from these diseases because he has passed a state examination. The woman is given assurance that her partner is free from disease which may ruin her life and handicap her children for generations. Each is given a false security in the presence of danger, possibly calamity. The state has become a quack in so far as it pretends to know that of which it is ignorant. Black Sheep in Flock. Fourth—Any licensed physician is allowed to make the examination. If the applicant fails to pass the examination he is to pay his fee—or, perchance, beat him out of it—and go to another physician's office. It is possibly not so careful or he is willing to sell his professional signature for the fee. There is but little doubt that such can be found with comparative ease. The certificate is given into the applicant's hands. Even assuming that in the certificate the examining physician should detail certain facts which would ward the chances of the applicant in the County Clerk's office, there is no assurance that the certificate will ever reach the County Clerk's office. It is at perfect liberty to tear it up and get another in a different physician's office. The physician is neither required to be examined by the state, nor is the state ever learns of any rejections even when they occur. Only those that pass the examination come under the notice of the state, and, judging from experience in the practice of medicine, it would be perfectly easy for a man with one or both venereal diseases active to obtain license to marry without in any way breaking the law. Fee Regarded as Barrier. Fifth—The fee for the examination is $2.50, this sum being definitely stipulated in the law. The applicant is expected to pay this. There is something incongruous, to say the least, in compelling a man to pay for the privilege of expressing one of his normal biological instincts. Place an obstacle in the way of a normal biological instinct and it will probably go around the obstacle, instead of taking the trouble to break it. At best the fee is a restriction or tax upon the principle of reproduction, which is already overburdened with social restrictions prolific of perversions and abnormalities. Sixth—Man and woman are—or at least ought to be—equal partners in the marriage contract and should be asked to submit to the same conditions. Being a man, it may seem little to plead injustice to man in requiring examination from him alone. Let us pass, then with the remark that the venereal diseases are not pre-nuptial diseases in man alone by any means. Seventh—The state does nothing further than to deny the right of marriage to such males and females afflicted by venereal diseases, viz: Gonorrhoea and syphilis. These are not the only diseases that incapacitate one for normal expression of reproduction. Furthermore, the rejection of an applicant raises two questions, (1) What is to be done with him and (2) Are gonorrhoea and syphilis the only things that should disqualify for the marriage fit? These questions open too wide a field for discussion within present limits. Marriage Only Hampered. Eighth—The law makes marriage more difficult. For the unfit, restriction of reproduction should be abrogated by one means or another. For the fit, there should be no impediment to the normal expression of a normal biological function so long as the social order of things suffer no violence thereby. To reject a man and then, in high-reproduction in all its phases. Any disease which stands as an irreparable barrier to the purity of the race should be excluded from participating in racial procreation. The determination of the fit and the unfit is not without difficulties, but they are not insuperable. Nothing effectual will be done along these lines until the public really wants it so. Sooner or later the state will be brought to face the problem in self-interest and justice to the future.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

YOU Can Do It All in Half an Hour and Wear the Clothes Home!

There's the big advantage to you in buying ready-made clothes. You pick out what you want, put them on, and walk out with them on.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

make styles that will fit you. They use all wool and nothing else—guaranteed good clothes.

Come in and get your Suit or Overcoat Tomorrow and take it home with you.

Priced $20 to $40

Sam'l Rosenblatt & Co.

Portland's Largest Men's Exclusive Store Southeast Corner Fifth and Alder

Copyright Hart Schaffner & Marx

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

As the result of a jolt he received recently, William M. Anderson, who resides about 10 miles southeast of Albany, has been literally knocked "out of tune." In other words, he cannot carry a tune, either whistling or singing, since the shock. Previously he was a splendid singer and whistled any tune. Several days ago he was engaged in building a silo and was holding a board which another workman above him was nailing. A blow on one of the board while the other was against the side of Mr. Anderson's head, disabled his powers of melody. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

GOODRICH

Black Safety Tread Tires

Help the Grip of the Brake

WHEN you slam on the brakes in the tight pinch of sudden danger, it puts confidence in your heart and firmness in your hand to know that you have Goodrich Black Safety Tread Tires under you.

Note the common sense of the non-skid pattern of the Goodrich Black Safety Tread. Its five parallel fingers and cross-ties throw a right-angled bar against any skid—forward or side.

That is why, rain or shine, it helps put fair weather under your car.

Moreover, that simple, effective design takes the wear off the body of the tire, and gives it longer life.

Small wonder that when one considers Goodrich Black Safety Tread Tires are sold on a one-price basis, the same prices to everyone—the Fair-List Prices—knowing motor car owners regard them as the ideal fabric tires.

The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio

Best in the Long Run

Local Address: Broadway at Burnside St. Phone Broadway 850