New Kingdom Sends Note of Protest Against Cruelties to United States.

WASHINGTON IN QUANDARY

How America Can Respond Without Consular or Diplomatic Representative Is Problem, and Delay Seems Certain.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The new kingdom of Arabia, organized a month ago, has begun its diplomatic career with a vigorous protest.

How the United States can respond is a problem as the department has not yet decided how the new kingdom can be communicated with.

Reply to Be Deferred. It is certain, however, that no definite action will be taken until the end of the war.

GREECE DENOUNCES ACTION OF ARMIES

Demand for Surrender of Arms Held to Be Infringement of Sovereign Rights.

NOTE SENT TO WASHINGTON

Insistence That Neutrality Will Be Maintained and Demand Rejected so Great That Later Acquiescence Puzzles.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A note denouncing as "a serious infringement of sovereign rights" the allied demand for the surrender of Greek arms and ammunition to the Anglo-French expedition at Saloniki, and pleading for the sympathetic understanding of the United States in the "painful circumstances" surrounding the Greek government and people, was delivered to the State Department today by A. Vouros, charge of the Greek Legation.

The communication sets forth at length the efforts of Greece to maintain neutrality, and gives notice that the Greek government "has rejected and will continue to reject this last demand."

During his visit to the State Department, Charge Vouros talked over the whole Greek situation with Counselor Foltz, but neither was attempting to say regarding the conference. It is understood that communications similar to those addressed to the United States have gone to all neutral governments, and that the step was intended primarily to create a proper understanding among neutral powers of the difficulties in which Greece had found herself.

Presented by the charge of the communication was in the form of a copy of a note handed to American Minister Droppers at Athens on November 23 and signed by Foreign Minister Zolocostas.

The communication as delivered to the State Department was in French. A translation of the full text follows: "From the beginning of the European war the Greek government conscientiously of its duties for the defense of the national interests and of its responsibility of a war, it would serve the national aspirations."

Interests of Greece Stand Alone. "An essential feature of the Greek government had in mind solely Greek interests, and not, as has been repeatedly insisted on, sympathy with one side or another of the belligerents. A Greek government could only think of the interests of Greece. The geographical situation of Greece, which places it in very direct contact with one of the two groups of belligerent powers, rendered the application of a policy of neutrality very difficult; it is for that reason that she has been forced to submit to the occupation by foreign troops of her Greek islands and to permit the belligerents to dispose of her ports, public buildings and works of art."

At the moment when the present Greek government assumed power, an imposing fleet was blockading the entrance of the Strait of Salamis. The anchorage of the Greek fleet, and in spite of our protests and our formal refusal, we were constrained to order our officers and sailors to abandon the vessels of the light fleet in order to spare them the grief of surrendering the vessels which, not very long ago, they had contributed to two victorious wars.

Affairs Suffer Interference. "For about a month the Greek people have suffered from the effects of the administration of foreign control of nearly all of its public services, its land communications, its postal service, telegraph and telephone services. The Greek commercial fleet has seen its activity hampered by repeated inspections and by restrictions of every sort. For a long time Greece has been unable to import from abroad only what is absolutely indispensable to feed and sustain the country, not very long ago, its commerce, both by land and sea, the necessary fuel.

"And now the traditional hospitality of the Greek people has suffered an affront which has been profoundly painful. The will of the strong has been constantly placed in opposition to the legitimate rights of Greece. Nevertheless the latter has up to now endured everything with the patience and dignity which small nations possess in the highest degree, but the last demand of the Admiral commanding the naval forces of the entente in the Mediterranean, in which he invites the
