shoppers yesterday outdid that of any day this year and compared favorably with the biggest days of former years. Every day of the coming week is ex-pected to be one of intense activity, of big crowds and generous purchases. Buying Reported Heavy.

The Christmas season to date, say retailers, has outdone similar periods of former years in the amount of business transacted. The grand total of the present week is expected to be very large and, with the shortage of help reported, the late Christmas shopper is

Crowds literally jammed the shops yesterday. There were steady streams of humanity passing in and out and in the main aisles of the stores the congestion reached the maximum. Progress was difficult throughout the aftern n and the store officials acted as

In every department of the big stores there were busy buyers and salespeed of the were busy buyers and salespeed of the were busy buyers and salespeed of the store reported it has been made the custodian of many Christmas secrets by busy people who have made deposits of money, with specific orders how it is to be spent, so that the purchaser is relieved of much time and worry. These lists are mostly for the benefit of children and some of these trusts are charliable in their nature. The plan works well and its adoption is likely to become more general in future, Generally speaking, gifts of better quality than ever are in demand this year. Shoppers show taste and discrimination and they have the money, of the temporary positions on the sales forces during the holiday rush is indicative of a more general prosperity than ever before, and the quality of Christmas gifts being chosen argues along the same line.

SENATE CALLS ON NAVAL SECRE-TARY FOR REPORT.

Findings of Investigating Board Not Made Public by Mr. Daniels; Opinion Is Divided.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. - Secretary Daniels is called on by a resolution in-troduced by Senator Brandegee and adopted without objection by the Sen-ate today, to send to the Senate the report of naval boards which investi-gated the explosion aboard the sub-marine E-2 at the New York Navy-yard some months ago, and later went over the whole subject of submarine data.

The report of the final board which took up the battery question carried no conclusions, and was sent back by Sec-retary Daniels to be amended. A divided opinion then was disclosed, a majority of the board recommending that the Edison battery used on the E-2 should not be installed on other sub-marines. A minority report found that there were advantages in the Edison battery which made it preferable. The text of these reports never have been made public.

Former Agnes Gardener Eyre Gets Divorce From F. W. de Jahn.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16 .- (Special.) -- An interlocutory decree of divorce for Mrs. Agnes de Jahn against F. W. de Jahn has been granted by Justice Guy, of the Supreme Court, on statutory grounds. The plaintiff is well remembered as Miss Agnes Gardener Eyre, who, as an American virtuoso planist, toured Europe and played before many of the crowned heads. Among her so-elal and musical achievements was an appearance before the then Prince and Princess of Wales, who were being en-tertained at Medbury House as the guests of the Earl and Countess Riches-ter.

Miss Eyre gave up her professional career September 14, 1909, when she married Mr. de Jahn in San Francisco. The name of the co-respondent did not appear, as the testimony of detectives merely was that they had seen Mr. de Jahn enter a little hotel in West Fortymixth street in company with woman they knew was not Mrs. de Basing his decision on a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of Oregon, Circuit Judge Kavanaugh yesterday overruled a demurrer with the result that Mrs. Edith Branin may recover $75,500 from the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company for the death of her husband, J. Walter Branin, last December under the wheels of a streetcar, if the jury in the case finds for the plaintiff in the full amount asked.

The death of Mr. Branin comes under the employers' liability law, it was ruled, which is now held to apply to the public generally, as well as to employes.

This argument was raised in the brief of Attorneys D. A. Norton, Oswald West, Claude McCulloch and Frank Collier, who appear for the widow of Mr. Branin, and is the same one which was sustained by the Supreme Court ruling that Mrs. Clayton against the Enterprise Electric Company, of La Grande, Last Week the Supreme Court ruled that Mrs. Clayton was entitled to recover, under the employers' liability act, adamages for the death of her husband, who touched an uninsulated switch, to an amount greater than $7500.
