CURRY COUNTY VIRTUALLY IS PARADISE FOR LOVERS OF GREAT SPORT OF BEAR HUNTING

Thousands Bagged by Jake Fry, King of Trailers of Bruin, While Others Also Hold Records Running in High Figures—Bloodhounds and Beagle Hounds Best Dogs for Chase.

Miller are all well-known Curry County bear hunters.

100 Bear Dogs Owned.
Jake Fry has probably killed more bears than any other man in Oregon. He has been hunting bears for 30 years, since he was 12 years old. In that time he has owned 100 bear dogs. He has kept four on hand steadily for half a century. Eight years is the ordinary life of a bear dog. In eight years, often before, he goes to the Valhalla of brave bear dogs. Mr. Fry remembers the heroic services of dead these 40 years. During retrospective evenings the ghosts of those 100 dogs that he has owned come back to him, eager for the hunt, nimble of foot, musical of voice, with Spartan courage, no yellow streak in the whole 100. Bloodhound and beagle hound are standard breeds. Bloodhounds, mastiff and shepherd are a poor cross, says Mr. Fry.

The bears that Jake Fry has killed run up into the thousands. He has killed as many as 10 in a day. A low average would be 25 a year. That would make 1250. But he has killed more than that. He now has one of the smart set have joined the rapidly increasing number of their sex entering the business world. These three are Mrs. Nathaniel Bowditch Potter, wife of Dr. Nathaniel B. Potter, of No. 531 Park avenue, who is related by marriage to Mrs. Philip Lydig and to Mrs. Oren Root; Mrs. Elsie Cobb Wilson, who is a sister-in-law of Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., and Mrs. Francis Alexander Wellman, who is a niece of John Alexander, the well-known painter. The new undertaking is to consist of interior decorating and the entire furnishing of homes.

A monthly publication, to be called the Bulletin, has just been launched by the League for Business Opportunities for Women. At present the league numbers 310 members, from all fields of women's business endeavor, and its object is to help the beginners in their first years of work and likewise to assist them to choose occupations and professions, when that is necessary. The staff of the new publication is made up of women of experience; the editor is Eva von Baur Hanzel, who was formerly editor of the women's page-fact in the Evening Sun. Other active workers are Katherine Glover, Grace Hatheway and Gertrude Hill Springer. A number of women who are in sympathy with the idea and working principles of Mrs. Margaret Sanger, for which she was placed on trial during the week, gave a "birth control breakfast" in her honor just before the trial and then marched in a body to the courtroom. The breakfast was held in the rooms of the Women's City Club, at the Hotel Vanderbilt, and the arrangements for it were made by the Women's Committee of One Hundred, of which Mrs. Amos Pinchot is chairman.

Three more women of New York's New York's newest hotel will be 25 finest farms on the whole Rogue River. Everybody, no matter who he is, is welcome at his big house near Illinoe post-office. Killing bears, with this man, has surely been a "valorous pastime," for he is constructive in every other way. If bear hunting and bear killing produces such citizens, we all would do well to turn bear hunters.

All Are Veteran Hunters.
Frank Fry has hunted bears in Curry County for 33 years, averaging 25 a year. Delmar Colgrove has hunted for 20 years. Will Lake, Elmer Miller and Walter Fry are also veteran hunters. During the summer the bears travel along the river, in the fall they eat huckleberries and acorns, with such miscellany as they can find in the way of food, and in the spring clover, skunk cabbage and grass are the principal features of their menu.

Almost every day you can read in the papers of the killing of a bear somewhere in Oregon; annually they kill the bears by hundreds; but for many years to come there will be bear hunters, bear dogs and bears in Curry County.

Theater Company, under the superintendence of Stuart Walker. I have never been so thrilled as by the performance of the two Lord Dunsany plays, "King Arminius" and "The Gods of the Mountain," and I doubt if there has ever been a more wonderful finale to a play than that of the latter. The enthralling effect of it may be judged by the fact that the typical blasé New York audience, after sitting breathlessly through three hours of serious entertainment, would hardly be satisfied with half a dozen curtain calls. All stage set, accompanying music, costumes and acting—is as nearly perfect as could possibly be imagined.

Maurice Samuels, the talented young California playwright, is now on the royal road to recognition. Not only is his play, "The Wanderer," in course of rehearsal with a marvellously selected cast, but the author has just signed a contract with David Belasco, whose name in the production of a play spells success, for a new play for Miss Frances Starr for the coming season.

Miss Mary Nash, who is now playing in "The Man Who Came Back," Jules Eckert Goodman's very dramatic work, has been added to the World list of film stars and Mr. Goodman has been commissioned to write the scenario for her new film debut.

The mechanics and other employees of the PUNCH and JUDY Theater have issued invitations for a performance of "Treasure Island," which they will give on Sunday, January 14. The regular company close their remarkable run of nearly two years tonight.

TWO BIG NEW YORK AUTOMOBILE SHOWS ARE CENTERS OF INTEREST FOR OUT-OF-TOWN CROWDS

Society Turns Out in Force to See Exhibition of Cars at Hotel Astor—Average Price of Machines Is $5000 and Some Novel Models Are Shown—Roadsters Are Now for Four Passengers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(Special.)—The two big automobile shows are on and the out-of-town crowd which was a feature of the old-time horse show, but which has now, partially at least, transferred allegiance to the newer sport, is assembled in force. No reservations for rooms have been accepted by any of the prominent hotels for the last two weeks and many of them are taking care of the overflow of their customary clientele in private houses in their vicinity, and one of them, the Vanderbilt, has engaged accommodations for a number of their patrons in Brooklyn.

Society, as usual, turned out in force for the 23rd annual International Automobile Show at the Hotel Astor. This year, owing to the great number of entries, it was necessary to use the boxes as well as the hall proper for the display of cars. The average price of the cars is about $5000 and there are about 100 machines on exhibit, with a total valuation of more than $500,000.

The coach work has a tendency toward low-suspended bodies; in fact the leading requisites for the smart car seem to be low, compact lines of the body of the machine and long sweeping lines of the hood and cowl, with the upholstery and painting in soft, neutral colors.

One rather novel car is called the Dolphin. It is a three-passenger car, of low and very rakish outline, built on a sort of nautical plan, which idea is emphasized in the two-toned gray color scheme. There are two forward seats, with an aisle between leading to the rear seat.

A very marked change seems to have taken place in the roadsters, most of which are now four-passenger cars, with the seats closely coupled. Then there is a very fascinating new coupe arrangement, a bit on the style of a clover leaf. But above all one notices that each succeeding year the cars grow more comfortable and luxurious.

Six thousand persons, unmindful of the intense cold, or perhaps reminded more forcibly by it of the intense suffering of those in the trenches, joined in a big open-air peace meeting here, under the auspices of the American Neutral Conference Committee, just after the beginning of the new year. It was one of a number held in various cities across the continent. Among those most active on the committee of arrangements were George Foster Peabody, Dr. Stephen S. Wise, Rev. John

Haynes Holmes, Mrs. John Fels and Miss Lillian Wald.

Those of us who live in cities where gardens or at least bits of green are the rule, instead of the exception can appreciate the novel way in which Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Browning, wealthy New Yorkers, have secured a yard which will give them a garden in their city of stone. They have installed a flower garden on the roof of the apartment-house, which they own and in which they make their home, consisting of 20 flower beds containing 10,000 plants, besides which they have summer-houses, arbors and a real lake-clover leaf. But above all one notices that each succeeding year the cars grow more comfortable and luxurious.

Right Rev. William Lawrence, bishop of Massachusetts, reports that $4,000,000 of the $5,000,000 Episcopal Church pension fund has already been raised, with a host in summer and in the winter it automatically becomes an ice rink.
