in all the sternness of reality Is vividly depicted in Kleinschmidt's "War on Three Fronts," which will be shown in the Heilig Theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Febru-ary 8, 9 and 10, afternoons at 2:15, evenary S. 9 and 10, alternation ings at S:15. Captain F. E. Kleinschmidt was at the front for two years, and obtained 3000 scenes of the world's greatest war, the firing line of the warring nations.

The realism of the pictures may be gleaned from the fact that soldiers are shown being wounded within 20 feet of the camera, despite this fact the picor the camera, despite this fact the pic-tures are not gruesome, but highly in-teresting, giving as close and concise a view to the operations as if one were accompanying Captain Kleinschmidt on the Italian, Russian and Balkan fronts. Not a single scene has been re-hearsed or staged. There is neither actor nor actress. The real thing is shown here. War in the making and development.

It is admittedly true that the average tillery, was celebrated by the veterans this admittedly true that the average civilian knows nothing of the hazards and perils, the importance and neces-sity of man-power even in modern war-fare. Captain Kleinschmidt says, "T do not think the risk taken by the sappers and miners, and the importance of their work at the front of every attack has been fully realized or ap-preclated by those who have not seen them in actual conflict with the en-tery." tery, now stationed at Calexico, on the Adv.
