HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDANCE PER CENTAGE EXCEEDS 14 CITIES.

Denver Survey of 1916 Shows Portisme Now Has 11.4 Per Cent of All Census Children in Hgih School.

Portland now has 11.4 per cent of all census children in the district in average daily attendance in high school. When the Denver survey of 1916 was published Portland was placed first in a list of 14 leading American cities of Portland's class. The percentage of average daily attendance in high school at that time was but 9.8. Asking the question, "Are the school authorities efficient in getting a sufficient proportion of the school census into school?" the survey gives the following list of the 14 cities of the class of Denver in the order of their efficiency in this respect: Portland. Minneapolis, Denver, Columbus, Worcester, Indianapolis, Washington, St. Paul, Kansas City, Toledo, Providence, Louisville, Rochester and Atlanta. Since that time Portland's percentage has been increased 1.6 per cent.

The latest reports from the principals of the various Portland high schools show an attendance of 6544 pupile, distributed as follows: Washington, 1357; Lincoln, 1208; Jefferson, 1713; Franklin, 946; James John, 224; Benson Polytechnic, 236; School of Trades for Girls, 406, and High School of Commerce, 254. This shows an increase of 2507 high school students during the past four years.

A feature of the work of the Portland high schools is the fact that approximately 70 per cent of all grammar school graduates enter, and more than 60 per cent of these take the full course of four years successfully.
