Ingham reported that the study of English under the supervision of Miss Dobson, of Reed College, in connection with the regular psychology lessons, also that they had formed a gymnasium class which meets every Wednesday night at the Reed gymnasium, with Miss Sargent as instructor.

Among other things he said: "Every time we think we form a matrix in the brain, and that no other thought can enter until the matrix is cleared out. We are our own creator, fashioning and framing our bodies according to the thoughts we think."

Following is a prayer repeated by the members of the Council of Jewish Women at the close of each of their meetings:

Keep us, O God, from pettiness, let us be larger, straighter, in word, in deed. Let us be done with fault-finding, and self-seeking, and let us be done with pretense and meet each other face to face without self-pity and without prejudice.

May we live in the present, and not always in the past.

Teach us to put into action our better impulses, straightforward and unafraid.

Let us take time for all things, make us grow, let us be generous, let us be kind, let us realize it is the little things that create differences; that in the big things in life we are as one.

And may we strive to touch and to know the great common woman-heart of us all, and let us not forget to be kind.

THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN, PORTLAND, FEBRUARY 11, 1917.

THE scholarship loan fund is receiving deserved attention from the clubs just now. Mrs. Frederick Egbert is chairman of the fund committee and she has said on numerous occasions that the work has most repaid the clubwomen in that it has given so many young girls a chance to get an education.

The Portland Shakespeare Club celebrated scholarship loan fund day Wednesday, when the members met with Mrs. Waldemar Seton. An elaborate luncheon was served. For the programme there were artistic readings by Mrs. Herbert Garr Reed, songs by Miss Mae Breslin and a jolly good time, during which no one was allowed to mention Shakespeare.

On Wednesday the Coterie had a programme in the ballroom of the Multnomah Hotel, followed by a luncheon in the gold room. Mrs. Edward Alden Beale was a guest here also and Mrs. Anna Newman, an ex-president, gave a short talk. She is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Julius Loucheur.

The Council of Jewish Women had a meeting full of human interest last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Castner was a guest here also and Mrs. Anna Newman, an ex-president, gave a short talk. She is here visiting her daughter, Mrs. Julius Loucheur.

Norman G. Pike's address was a heart-to-heart talk and was filled with good suggestions. His tribute to his mother was applauded by the women. Charles McNeill's songs were Scotch favorites. The social hour, always a success, was more than ever enjoyed. Gay Spring blossoms decked the table at which Mrs. A. E. Steinbach and Mrs. Simon Sellings were stationed. Mrs. Paul Lehenbath had planned the programme and Mrs. M. Sichel, assisted by several prominent members, had charge of the social hour time last Wednesday night.

The Daughters of the American Revolution will have a reception February 23 in Alexandria Court.

On the same day Washington's Birthday, the Portland Grade Teachers' Association will give a Colonial ball at the Multnomah Hotel.

The minstrel show given by the Oak Grove Parent-Teacher Association Wednesday afternoon, was a success from every standpoint. The "colored" people were well received and their plantation songs greatly enjoyed by a large audience. Both orchestral and vocal music showed a marked degree of musical talent in the community.

In recognition of the action of the General Federation, which named the first week of February as "Preparedness Week," the Portland Woman's Club, next Tuesday, at 2:30 P. M. in Library Hall, Mrs. J. D. Spencer will lecture on "Rising Prices" and what can be substituted to keep down the living expenses to a minimum. She will take up the question of high potatoes, and point out the number of substitutes, with full cooking details. Palatable dishes prepared from the cheaper winter vegetables will also be discussed.

Suggestions will be given for cooking. Columbia River smelt which are now in the market at 10 cents per pound to take the place of the halibut hereof of these practical, up-to-date talks, to which all women are welcome.
