THE affection of hundreds of Portland people still hovers about the memory of Charles B. Merrick, former postmaster, who died in 1912. A fountain has been erected in tribute to his unusual usefulness as a citizen. It is placed on the grounds of the Rose City Park Club, at East Fifty-seventh street and Sandy boulevard, and it will be dedicated next Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Albert G. Clark, president of the Charles B. Merrick Memorial Association, which secured the fund for the monument, will preside. Governor Withycombe has accepted an invitation to represent the state and Mayor Albee will receive the fountain on behalf of the city. Commissioner George L. Baker will speak appreciatively of Mr. Merrick's constructive influence for good, as will Postmaster Frank S. Myers. "Merrick the Man" will be the subject of a concluding address by Marshall N. Dana, speaking as a close personal friend. Miss Dagmar Inez Kelly and Charles McNeil, of the Ad Club quartet, will render vocal solos, and Scout Young Camp, Greater War Veterans, of which Mr. Merrick was a member, will fire the military salute and sound "taps."

Contributors Are Invited.
As contributors to the fountain fund special invitations have been extended to the Portland Ad Club, the Rose City Park Club, the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association, the Greater Portland Plans Association, Mount Hood Tent, No. 17, Maccahees, Portland Council, 878, Knights of Columbus, The Oregonian, the Evening Telegram, the Journal, Jonathan Bourne, Jr., Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Theodore B. Wilson, A. W. Prescott, H. F. Rittmann, John Heuser, O'Shea Bros., H. J. Blasing, Multnomah Camp No. 77, Woodmen of the World, and N. A. Perry. A special invitation has also been forwarded to the Portland Chamber of Commerce.

The ceremonies incident to the dedication of the fountain, however, will be public and a large attendance is expected.

Mr. Merrick spent much of his early life in Detroit. For a time he was connected with the firm that brought the first automobile to the city that is now the center of the world's automobile industry. When war was declared with Spain he enlisted and saw service in Cuba, only to be stricken with a fever that kept him in hospital for a longer period. He was traveling for an Eastern firm when he first came to Portland.

Grocers Are Organized.
His first important piece of work was the reorganization of the retail grocers of Portland and later the retail merchants of the state. He was instrumental in securing the enactment of much beneficial legislation.

He was one of those most prominent in the organization of the Greater Portland Plans Association and he was known as the "father of the Ad Club," serving both organizations as president. At the nomination of ex-Senator Jonathan Bourne, Jr., he was appointed president of the Portland Ad Club, the public auditorium bond issue and many other important community activities he was an important influence and a tireless worker. In 1915, not long after his death, a group of his friends from various organizations with which he had been connected organized the Charles B. Merrick Memorial Association, electing Albert G. Clark, president; Arnold Keller, secretary; J. C. Mann, Marshall N. Dana and John Malley, directors. Others who participated in the organization were Dan Kellaher and George Hockenyo, then officers of the Retail Grocers' Association. The fountain was designed and built by H. J. Blasing.

at a banquet held to launch a new membership campaign.
Speaking before the Walla Walla High School students in the large auditorium that seats 700, Mr. Richardson related the story of the tremendous wealth of the United States and told in particular of the great resources of the Pacific Northwest.

"One man in the Walla Walla country still has 250,000 bushels of wheat for sale," said Mr. Richardson yesterday. "I found that the average farm in that locality is 560 acres in area."
The farmers in the Pendleton and Walla Walla country are so busy making money that they hardly have time to think of anything else. I am informed that the deposits in the two Pendleton banks total $5,500,000 making this "big little" city second to Portland in the matter of bank deposits in Oregon. The people of Pendleton made a splendid success of their automobile show last week.
