

IDAHO FARMERS ARE ASSESSING THEM

Census Reveals That Second City Has More of Draft Age Than Boise, Capital.

POLITICAL CAREER ENDS

John M. Haines, ex-Governor, Who Bore Most of Attack Following Treasury Steal, Dies After Unusual Life.

BOISE, Idaho, June 9.—(Special)—Conscription in Idaho was more of a success than military officials expected. With less than a half million population in this state, registered close to 40,000 men. There were few violations of the law, but those slackers who failed to give in their names will be severely punished.

Rewards of $25 each for their apprehension have been posted by Governor Alexander, while sheriffs and others are actively engaged gathering data by which convictions will be made possible.

The military census brought out some interesting figures. They prove that the United States Bureau of Census was overestimated for practically every county and that most sections of the state are rapidly settling up with young men.

This is particularly true of the Twin Falls country. Twin Falls was the banner county of the state. Yet Twin Falls is one of the comparatively new counties in Idaho.

Bannock county, of which Pocatello is the county seat, also sprang surprises. Pocatello registered more men by 100 than did Boise, the largest city in the state.

The 2000 already in service. This is believed due to the fact that Pocatello is rapidly becoming an important railroad center, having the large shops of the Oregon Short Line Railroad, where many men are employed. It is also the point of division of the Short Line and the Butte-Salt Lake Railroad.

In Northern Idaho Nez Perce and Latah counties are showing a registration. Both, however, were below the census bureau estimates. Idaho now has more than 2000 men in the military service.

Idaho now has more than 2000 men in the military service. In addition, close to 600 men have joined the regular Army and the Navy.

His total registration independent of the men now in uniform could result in 20 additional regiments of 2000 men, practically war strength, being turned out. In addition, the state has over four millions for liberty loan bonds.

The death of John M. Haines, ex-Governor of this state, removes from Idaho politics an interesting character. He was one of the most alert organizers in the state and was active either in public speaking or organizing campaigns. Prior to his entrance into the gubernatorial race he was active in both state and Boise city politics, having served as mayor of the city for one term. Later he decided to go into state politics and entered the gubernatorial primary fight within the Republican party.

His selection for the gubernatorial race was not unexpected. He was nominated by less than 100 votes over Paul Clagstone. His selection for the gubernatorial race was not unexpected. He was nominated by less than 100 votes over Paul Clagstone.

HONOR GUARD GIRLS STEW RHODODENDRONS ON COOS BAY WATERS IN HONOR OF SAILOR DEAD.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 9.—(Special)—The strewing of rhododendrons on the waters of Coos Bay for the sailor dead by the members of the Girls' National Honor Guard of Marshfield was an impressive part of the ceremonies held in Marshfield on Memorial day. The burial service for those who have lost their lives at sea, read by Rev. Father H. J. McDevitt, the sounding of taps and the salute closed the unusual ceremony, which drew hundreds of spectators. A Memorial-day programme, in which L. J. Simpson was the principal speaker, followed. The North Bend Honor Guard, the Coast Artillery, the G. A. R., the Spanish War Veterans, one Mexican War veteran and the Sons of Veterans were other participants in the programme and parade. A general committee of citizens arranged the services—D. A. Jones, E. H. Joehnk, C. W. Walters, S. Miller, C. L. Reigard, R. J. Walrath, Mrs. Claude Nasburg, Mrs. M. D. Bromberger and Mrs. F. E. Wilson.

CENTRAL OREGON IN QUICK RESPONSE MADE IN CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS.

Deschutes Towns Show Patriotism by Rising to Meet Nation's Need. District Aided by War Profits Generous.

BEND, Or., June 9.—(Special)—In proportion to population and ability to absorb liberty-loan bonds, little Prineville probably will be among the first in the state in the total amount contributed. Right now the banks of Prineville have applications for bonds totaling $50,000 and more. The seven days remaining before the subscription books close will be used by the Prineville committee in seeing rich cattle and sheep men who reside at a distance from the center of the city.

Prineville citizens are not bragging about what they are investing with the Government. They are going about the work as quietly as their sons slipped away to enlist. Prineville regards the buying of bonds as a duty to the Government, but the button of honor issued to each applicant is worn outside, so slackers can see it. Barber, waiters, the blacksmith, farm hands, chauffeurs, bankers, in fact everybody in sight is so imbued with the Prineville spirit that there has been no trouble for a committee consisting of Dr. J. H. Rosenberg, J. E. Wilson and H. Baldwin to raise the money.

Prineville has become rich through the war prices paid for grain and meat animals, and her citizens are glad to come to the aid of the Government. Prineville was said to be the first city visited by the Liberty-bond auto touring committee where the people were found to be fully posted on the Liberty loan on bond investment. Willie C. C. Chapman was speaking on a street corner Saturday afternoon, J. H. Templeton slipped into the First National Bank and subscribed for a $5000 bond. At Bend last night, P. A. Freeman addressed an audience which filled the high-school auditorium. There was no excitement, no shouting and little applause. The atmosphere was tense with interest.

Saturday morning the Portland-party met Bend citizens, before making the run to Prineville, and the result was the appointment of a committee which will make a whirlwind campaign for bond subscription during the remaining six days.

Employees of the Shevlin-Hixon mill and logging camp at Bend have made an enviable record through the subscription of $6000 for bonds of small denomination. One employee mortgaged all his wages except living expenses and $5.25 a month for incidentals.

Money Lent for Hands. The company is lending all employees money to buy bonds and will purchase any bond contract on which the employee is unable to complete the payment. R. Prince is the Shevlin-Hixon official responsible for arousing the interest of the men.

The Brooks Seaton mill will make a similar showing when the closing date comes. A Bend newspaper carrier is wearing a button as evidence of his $100 subscription.

The committee of Bend citizens is composed of H. J. Overturf, E. R. Prince, R. W. Sawyer and Dr. B. Ferrell. Messrs. Freeman, Cloutier, Chapman and Woodruff left Bend this morning for the 150-mile drive to Burns, where a huge meeting is planned under the auspices of the Honor Girls.

The Masonic lodge, Woodman of the World and the Order of the Eastern Star were among the subscribers to the Prineville fund.

NORMAL GRADUATES 215

BACCALAUREATE SERMON TO BE PREACHER TODAY.

Alumni Reunions Are Set for Tuesday and Diplomas Will Be Given Wednesday Morning.

OREGON NORMAL SCHOOL, Monmouth, Or., June 9.—(Special)—The 1917 graduation programme of the Oregon Normal School was begun this morning, when the graduates were entertained at a luncheon on the lawn at the president's house in Monmouth. The faculty is preparing a reception for the graduates for Monday, when alumni members also will be invited guests in the gymnasium tonight.

Rev. D. V. Poling, of Dallas, is the speaker for the baccalaureate services set for 10:30 Sunday morning in the normal chapel.

Two classes will unite for 1917 graduation. The February class of 54 members has returned to receive diplomas with the 161 June graduates, making the class 215 strong, the largest yet to leave the institution.

The faculty is preparing a reception for the graduates for Monday, when alumni members also will be invited guests in the gymnasium tonight.

The seniors are busy with preparations for the class play Monday evening. A Greek theater has been erected on the campus. In R. Sophocles' "Antigone" will be staged. The proceeds from the performance are to be added to the liberty bond funds of the class, which already has reached $150.

Reunions will be held by alumni members Tuesday, which is Alumni day. Classes graduate every 10 years since 1851 are to meet and recall old school days. The alumni business session is set for the afternoon, a picnic will be held and a banquet will close the day.

The graduation exercises Wednesday morning are to be held out of doors on the campus at 10 o'clock. Professor Norman F. Coleman, of Reed College, is the commencement speaker.

STORAGE PLANTS ADVISED. Mr. Sinnott Is Assured Fruit Will Be Classified as Necessity.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, June 9.—Representative Sinnott has received a letter from C. J. Kirby, director of the bureau of markets, suggesting the advisability of establishing temporary cold storage plants in Oregon and other Northwest states in which apples and other fruits may be stored in the event of a car shortage when the crop is ready to move.

WRONG BERRIES SERVED

KENNEWICK FRUIT FAILS TO ARRIVE AT HOOD RIVER. C. W. McCullagh Uses Local Supply, but Secret Leaks Out, and Then He Explains.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 9.—(Special)—C. W. McCullagh, sales manager of the Apple-Growers' Association, is the victim of numerous jests from local strawberry growers following the "Kennewick" strawberry dinner he gave at the Mount Hood Hotel. Mr. McCullagh announced the first of the week that a crate of the Washington district berries would be shipped to him, and that he would serve them at a banquet to representative local growers in celebration of the Kennewick berry festival held this week.

Mr. McCullagh instructed a local drayman to deliver the fruit to the Mount Hood Hotel on its arrival at the local express office. The chef had instructions to serve them with copious quantities of cream.

Following these instructions Mr. McCullagh gave the delivery of the Kennewick berries no further thought until the meal was in progress. A waitress started him by the whispered announcement: "Your berries haven't come yet, Mr. McCullagh." Excusing himself the salesmanager telephoned to the association's warehouse and ordered a crate of local fruit sent to the hotel. The Hood River fruit men were profuse in their laudations of the strawberries, but the secret leaked somewhere, and today Mr. McCullagh is explaining. I. J. Biot, manager of the Kennewick Growers' Union, in a telegram of apology stated that shipment of the crate of fruit promised the local sales official had been overlooked.

ATTORNEY'S ERROR FREES 2

Indictments Faulty in Case of Alleged Robbers. MEDFORD, Or., June 9.—(Special)—Judge F. M. Calkins, in the Circuit Court today, took two cases from the jury because of errors in the indictments drawn by the state. The first case was against John Torney for conveying land without proper title, and the second was against Sam Slide and W. E. Collins charged with robbing the Phoenix Mercantile Company and postoffice last April.

As the latter pair had been placed in jeopardy by the selection of the jury they could not be retried on a corrected indictment and were released. As they departed, Prosecuting Attorney Roberts handed to them the $200 in cash which was found on them at the time of their arrest.
