Valuable Information Gathered From Cities Preparatory to Assuming Office.

MAYOR MET ON RETURN

No Changes Definitely Decided, but Some Detectives May Be Put in Patrol Service, Following Series of Conferences.

N. F. Johnson, who is to be Portland's Chief of Police, beginning August 1, returned from a three weeks trip through the East, visiting the police departments in various cities and visiting his old home in Council Grove, Kan.

On his return arrangements were made by Mayor Baker for conferences, beginning this week, at which the reorganization of the police bureau will be worked out.

Mr. Johnson visited the police departments in Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Spokane and Seattle.

As to the police department in Portland, Mr. Johnson said he does not intend to start anything of a sensational nature with the outgoing Chief Draper.

MALICE PLAINLY MOTIVE

POLICE CONVINCED OF TRUTH OF STORY OF INCENDIARISM.

No Clue Obtained to Identity of Men Who Attempted to Burn West Oregon Lumber Mill.

Further investigation of the attempt to burn the West Oregon Lumber Company mill, near Linnton, at an early hour yesterday morning, has given no clue to the perpetrators, but has served to convince the police that the night watchman's story is fully borne out by the evidence.

Captain Jenkins, of the St. Johns police sub-station, conducted a searching inquiry yesterday, following the original investigation of Captain Inskip. It is believed the attempt was an expression of malice from disgruntled workmen, as the mill experienced labor troubles some weeks ago, in which several were discharged.

The escape of the three firebugs is laid to the panic of the night-watchman, Guy Depuro, who confessed his extreme fright and declared that he fired over the heads of the fleeing men. The hat dropped by one of them was not punctured by a bullet, closer scrutiny showing merely a casual rent. Depuro said he overheard the three talking about the fire and they had kindled it on their way out.

J. W. Hyser, night fireman, extinguished the blaze, which was in a pile of shavings near a quantity of lumber. Evidence of kerosene being used was found.

Heart Broken When Deformed Baby Is Allowed to Die.

CHICAGO, July 28.—The death of Baby Bollinger, the hopelessly deformed infant whose life a physician refused to save in November, 1915, is believed to have been responsible for the death of Mrs. Anna Bollinger, the baby's mother.

"After the baby's death," said Allen Bollinger, "my wife fell into a settled melancholy and wasted away. If ever a woman died of a broken heart she died."

The Baby Bollinger case attracted attention throughout the country. The physician asserted that if the child's life had been prolonged by an operation it would probably have been an imbecile and so crippled by physical defects as to have been a burden to itself and others.

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN

Authority of the Holy Priesthood Again Operative Upon Earth.

By DR. JAMES E. TALMAGE, Of the Council of the Twelve, Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Salt Lake City, Utah.

We believe that a man must be called of God, by prophecy and by the laying on of hands by those who are in authority to preach the gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof (Articles of Faith, No. 1).

We have seen that certain ordinances prescribed by the Lord Jesus Christ are indispensable to salvation. Without baptism by water and the laying on of hands no man can enter the kingdom of God (see Acts xiii:1-3). Unto the ferment of the Holy Ghost by the laying on of hands no man can enter the kingdom of God (see Acts xiii:1-3). Unto the outward form, mode or operation in each of these sacred and far-reaching rites is notably stipulated. So, the physical procedure is concerned, any man of ordinary ability may learn to perform the ceremony, and that with a few minutes' oral instruction or reading. The same may be said of many ordinances prescribed in human institutions. One must be taught to remember and learn to speak with due impressiveness the words by which a college degree is conferred upon the successful student, the formula by which man and woman are united in the bonds of wedlock, or the judicial pronouncement by which one prisoner is restored to liberty and another condemned.

But, as everybody knows, to make the utterance effective, he who speaks must be invested with specific authority, without which his presumption to officiate would be a punishable offense under the secular laws of consistency and reason less to be considered in matters of divine administration than in the affairs of mortals.

Healing ministry to the afflicted in the name of Jesus Christ is one of the gifts of the Spirit implanted in the church. The apostles of old so ministered, and with such effect that disease was stayed and evil spirits were rebuked. Certain vagabond Jews attempted to imitate Paul in his authoritative functions, and among them were the seven sons of Sceva, chief of the priests (see Acts xix:13-15). Unto a suffering demoniac these evil and presumptuous men, void of authority and power, undertook to administer, solemnly pronouncing the words: "We adjure you by Jesus," and then, as if to put beyond question the name in which they blasphemously essayed to speak, added, "whom Paul preacheth." But the demon in the man laughed them to scorn and cried aloud in derision: "Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye?"

The apostles who were with the Lord in the flesh had been ordained by him to the holy priesthood, and Paul, who was later called into the ministry, was ordained by the laying on of hands of those in authority (see Acts xiii:1-3). Unto the evil spirits acknowledged their authority, an earlier the demons had acclaimed the Christ, "Thou son of the Most High God" (see Mark v:7). But for the vagabond pretenders there was contempt and humiliation.

And what of the impressive lesson taught by the experience of Simon, the sorcerer? (see Acts viii:18-24). He marvelled at the power demonstrated through the apostles, for to the baptized believers upon whom they laid their hands came the Holy Ghost with manifestations of spiritual endowment. His mind, heart and motive darkened by sin, Simon sought to buy with money the power that only the call of God could impart: "But Peter said unto him: Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Repeat therefore of this thy wickedness, and be baptized if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee. For I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness and in the bond of iniquity" (Acts viii:20-23).

Far surpassing anything and all that man can bestow, the Holy Spirit preaches the word of God and administers divine ordinances through the investiture of the holy priesthood. While Israel lived under the law, heretofore the fullness of spiritual light such as the gospel alone can give, Jehovah repeatedly manifested his righteous indignation and zeal in behalf of his appointed servants and against all who pretended to arrogate authority unto themselves. King of Israel, who offered to undertake to discharge the functions of the Lord's prophet (I Sam. xiii:8-14). And think of the Israelites who, after the Lord's visitation of punishment for having presumed to officiate without priestly ordination (see II Chron. xxvi).

In the establishment of his church among the ancient Americans, the Lord was specific in covering upon certain men the authority to baptize, to lay on hands for the giving of the Holy Ghost, and to administer the sacrament of bread and wine and otherwise to officiate in the ordinances pertaining to the holy priesthood. By personal ordination the Lord invested his chosen representatives to minister in his name (Book of Mormon, III Nephi xii:21-22; xlii:1-2 xlviii:15).

So also, in the present age, authority to administer in the saving ordinances of the gospel must be given of God, not assumed by man. The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints proclaims to the world that the holy priesthood, which is the appointment and authority to officiate in the name of God, has been restored to the earth in modern days through the direct dispensation from God, as prophesied by the prophet Joseph Smith. Thus was ended the night of the great apostasy, which had long enveloped the world as the prophets had predicted. Again the authority to baptize for the remission of sins and to lay on hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost is operative upon the earth. The ordinances of the gospel of Jesus Christ, without which no man can be saved in the kingdom of God, are administered in the church today under divine commission; and now, as of old, all mankind are invited to become partakers of the Lord's covenant bounty; and to all be it said, "The promise is unto you and to your children, and to all that are called by the name of the Lord our God shall it be" (Acts ii:39).

The imperative urgency of the call is thus seen (see the following relation): "And the voice of warning shall be unto all people, by the mouths of my disciples, whom I have chosen to be called by my name, in the last days. And they shall go forth and none shall stay them. For I, the Lord, have commanded them. . . . Wherefore the voice of the Lord is unto the ends of the earth, that all that will hear may hear: Prepare ye, prepare ye for that which is to come, for the Lord is nigh. . . . For the Lord our God shall be forgiven" (Doctrine and Covenants, section 13).
