in this section is unsurpassed in any part of the world.

Mountain climbing is sometimes haz-ardous and tiring, but the climber is well repaid when the summit of several thousand feet is reached. The trip took us from Cascadia along the San-tiam River to the foothills of the Seven-Mile Mountains, continuing up these mountains to the summit, an ultitude of 4500 feet. We made camp a short dis-tance below the summit in What is called Indian or Tombstone Prairie, a tombstone having been erected there to the memory of a person who met death by accident.

On the first part of our trip we saw various mountain peaks, many covered with snow, the most interesting being "Nigger Baby Rock," the formation of the peak being similar to a negro baby doll.

carly days the Summer playground of the Indians. A few feet back of camp we had the pleasure of snowballing after our supper.

Continuing on the following day through this wonderful forest we reached Fish Lake about noon. Fish Lake is a radiating point for many side trips, such as "Clear Lake," one of the most beautiful spots in the state, which derives its name from the clearness of the water. You can readily distinguish articles on the bottom at a death of the water. You can readily distinguish articles on the bottom at a depth of 50 or 40 feet. It is a peculiar and an almost uncanny feeling to see the shadow of your own boat at the bottom. At this place you have a beautiful view of the Three Sisters Mountain and the head of the Mackenzie River. Among the other interesting things you find is a spring coming out of the lava, the water drifting through what is called perpetual ice, making it two degrees cooler than freezing temperature.

Other side trips from Fish Lake are to Sand, Crescent and Carpenter Moun-lain or following the Big Meadow trail to Marion Lake and to Detroit and also Lava Lake. At Lava Lake you get a beautiful sight of Mount Jefferson, Three-Finger Jack and Crescent Mountain. At Fish Lake you have a beautiful view of Sand Mountain and the ragged edges of the peak of Mount Washington.

Fish are found in abundance on the whole trip. Game also is plentiful. In the deer season it must be a wonderful place for hunting and, as I am con-

The reason for the sale is that the quarters are cramped and the funds for support of the feature are not adequate, hence to economize and at the same time make things more comfortable for whatever is left in the park the City Council ordered the sale.

FOUR AUTOISTS ARE FINED

Each Convicted of Using Glaring

Four motorists, arrested by Motorcycle Patrolman Ervin, appeared before Municipal Judge Rossman yesterday and were convicted on charges of maintaining glaring headlights on their machines. They were H. F. Garford, G. W. Macklin, C. Munson and M. Mosessohn. Fines of $5 each were assessed. L. Smith, a streetcar conductor, who interfered with Motorcycle Patrolman Ervin while the latter was attempting to obtian information of an automobile collision, was convicted on a disorderly conduct charge and fined $5.

We met a party of state road commissioners who were inspecting a route for a highway through Santiam Pass. I am sure such a road would be of vast benefit to Oregon. I am going to boost for it, for that is the least I can do in the way of compensation for the dein the way of compe lightful time I had.

ENTRIES TO CLOSE EARLY

Portland, my home city, struck me as unique, but the invitation coming from Charles South, violinist, and well known as a mountaineer both at home and abroad, carried with it inducements not at all commonplace. So one sunny day in early July we started for a beautiful place called Cascadia, 39 miles from Lebanon, and shocking.

Returning to Cascadia we made our way up to the W. T. Nichols ranch at Moss Butte, where we passed a few delightful days. Mr. Nichols is a well-known musician of Linn County who spends part of his time on his ranch. Before returning to the city we spent a couple of days assisting with the harvesting by raking, bundling and shocking.
