PLANS FOR REOPENING HIPPO-DROME IN FALL MADE.

Hockey Game to Be Played Again, but What Teams Will Constitute Lengue Is Not Decided.

Portland is going to have ice skating again, and hockey, too. Further than that there is nothing sure about the season's sport in Portland. War has not shot the plans of the Northern professional hockey team owners full of holes. E. J. Bryan, now in control of the Portland Ice Palace, is not in a position to say what kind of a schedule or league it will be, but he is going to stick with the hockey game and the sport of skating until something "busts."

Hockey plans are somewhat of a puzer. Bryan does not know just what e plans of the Patrick brothers are up North, and, of course, the organization of the league as it was in the past depends on what these men will do. Another factor is Spokane. This team was brought into the league last year, but for some reason it did not pull well, though the transplanted Victo rians played a good fast game and a mighty good brand of play occurred every time they had a brush over there. Mr. Bryan said last night that the kiddles of Portland are going to get every chance to learn the game and play it all the time.

The prices for skating will be reduced to a point where it will be merely nominal for children. Also grown-ups will be able to play the game oftener Also grown-ups as the prices will be reduced all around.
