the panniers and bustle design of the heavy satin gown suiting the daintiness and charm of the modern bride perfectly.

The delightful part of the gown was that it was unaltered for yesterday's bride. Even the filmy tulle veil was just as worn by her mother. It was simply arranged on her coiffure, and was wreathed with orange blossoms. Miss Wood followed the charming old-fashioned scheme of the wedding and wore one of her mother's trousseau gowns, a dainty pink-flowered pompadour silk, with a deep buff background, the demure design of the gown, also unaltered, being especially becoming to the modern maid.

The bride's bouquet was a replica of the old-fashioned bridal bouquets; and it was made of bride roses and the feathery bouquet. Miss Wood's bouquet was of Ophelia roses. Emery Olmstead, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man, and Miss Van Dyke presided the wedding march, Ferdinand Smith, brother of the bride, contributing a vocal solo. C. C. Smith, father of the bride, gave her in marriage. Only the closest friends and relatives of the couple were asked to share in the festivities.

Dainty little old-fashioned flowers, combined with ferns and palms, adorned the drawing-room, where the ceremony was read. The dining-room was decked with bridesmaids and white chrysanthemums.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held at a buffet supper served. The prettily decked bride table was presided over by Mrs. E. H. Wallace and Mrs. Emery Olmstead. They were assisted in serving by the Misses Elizabeth Bacon and Florence Holman.

Mr. Olmstead and his bride left for a brief wedding trip, and upon their return will be at home at Ardway Terrace.

The bride is a charming and lovable girl, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clifford Smith and sister of Mrs. Clifton Nesmith McArthur, now in Washington with Representative McArthur, and of Ferdinand Smith. She is a Dana Hall girl, a group of her classmates attending the ceremony last night. She also attended Miss Catlin's school and St. Helen's Hall.

Mr. Olmstead is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Olmstead, of Minneapolis, and a brother of Emery Olmstead, of this city. He is prominent in banking and business circles of the Northwest and is a member of all the leading clubs of the city. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

A number of small and informal functions, in keeping with the war times, have been given since the announcement of the engagement of this popular couple last month.

The Irvington Club's Tuesday evening card party promises to be another social charming affair of the week, under the chairmanship of Mrs. May Varwig, who will be assisted by Mesdames W. E. Richey, W. H. Cullen, W. A. McVay, George Eisman, S. T. McBride, E. G. E. Cornish, E. D. Inman and E. A. Hart. The club's dancing party Friday night was enjoyed by more than 60 couples.

Mrs. J. Dunning, of Spokane, formerly Miss Minnie Chapin, of The Oregonian art department, was calling on her old friends here on Friday. This being Mrs. Dunning's first visit since she left to be married, 12 years ago, her old acquaintances were sincerely glad to see her again.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Burns, who have been visiting in the East for several weeks, returned last week to Portland.

Miss Genevieve Brooks was a hostess for a charming informal tea Sunday afternoon at the Waverley Country Club, the affair being a sort of adieu party, as the charming young hostess left Thursday for Canada. The attractive tea table was presided over by Mrs. Cameron Squires and Mrs. Guy W. Talbot.

Mrs. Hazel E. Litt entertained with a charming musicale Wednesday in her apartments at the Benson Hotel. Captain J. W. Carter gave the programme, and the guests included: Captain and Mrs. J. W. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beebe, Mr. and Mrs. John B.

The proceeds of the Christmas Pageant given Friday night at the Multnomah Hotel by the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, will go for war relief work in response to a call from President Wilson for more college trained women to hold important executive offices, to replace the men summoned to the front. During the past few years this Association of Collegiate Alumnae has sent eight girls to college. Each girl receives the money in the form of a loan, no payment being expected or asked for until five years have elapsed; thus one year after graduation payment by installment begins.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson, of Pendleton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Gladys Andre, to Dr. Horace P. Belknap, of this city. Miss Andre is a charming young maid, and equally popular in Pendleton and Portland. She entered one of the hospitals of this city for training several months ago, and she has hosts of friends here. She also is widely known in musical circles, as a vocalist. The Ferguson family are prominent social

GLADSTONE COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Paddock

OREGON CITY, Or., Dec. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Paddock, of Gladstone, well-known residents of Clackamas County, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home December 15, at which time many of their old-time friends from various sections of the county called to extend best wishes. Many gifts also were received. The home was attractively decorated in yellow, red and green. Assisting in receiving were Misses Laura and Jessie Paddock, daughters; Mrs. A. D. Paddock and Mrs. Harry Paddock; of Gladstone; Mrs. Addie Dedman Hunt, sister-in-law of Mrs. J. C. Paddock, of Raymond, Wash. During the afternoon refreshments were served. Mrs. Harry Paddock and Miss Ona Renner poured tea, while Mrs. Arthur Paddock, Mrs. Henry Dedman, of Canby, and Mrs. Don McKenzie, of Portland, sister of Mrs. Paddock, assisted the Misses Paddock in the dining-room. As this was also the birthday anniversary of E. P. Dedman, of Clackamas, brother of Mrs. J. C. Paddock, this event also was celebrated. Mrs. Paddock was born in Missouri December 5, 1848, and Mr. Paddock was born at Burlington, Ia., November 10, 1842. They settled in Clackamas County in 1885.
