who bought them will be glad to have exact data furnished by Mr. George H. Himes, who kindly gave all the precious wool, too, for the cause. Those of locust were cut from the descendants of the first seeds of the kind brought to the Oregon country from England in the supply ships for the Hudson's Bay Company to its Fort at Vancouver, (now Washington), established by Dr. John McLoughlin in 1825. Those made of yew were taken from a tree which grew at the site of the organization of the first civil government on the Pacific Coast. This was in 1843 at Champoeg, Or. Then the wood of the pear was taken from one of the first pear trees brought across the plains. This was in 1847 and the trees were planted in Salem.

The construction of these souvenirs was carried on in the booth by Theodore Gladding. His presence in a suit of Quaker grey of Colonial pattern, surmounted by white wig, was a distinct and attractive feature.

Marion Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Farrell, was perched on a high stool, wearing a costume of long and wonderful history. The dress was of cream-colored silk, heavily brocaded and hand-wrought with particolored flower sprays. The material was brought from India in 1742 by Captain Collins, who salled his own ship, for his bride-to-be. It is fastened with hand-made hooks and eyes. The dress is owned by Mrs. Thomas G. Farrell of this city.

Period Furniture

A Letter to the Public:

Your attention is respectfully called to the fact that I am now closing out my stock of furniture, which will give you an opportunity to obtain select pieces from our elegant choice stock at exceptionally reasonable prices.

Owing to the fact that workmen are unobtainable and our fine reproductions of period furniture in mahogany are almost prohibitive in price, due to the tremendous increase in the cost of materials, I have decided to withdraw from business rather than resort to handling an inferior grade of furniture and so reduce the high standard I have always made it a policy to upheld in my shop.

I have an excellent collection of period furniture made in our own shop. And as most of my stock constitutes but one of a kind of most desirable pieces, it is absolutely essential that you make an early call in order to take advantage of this rare opportunity.

Awaiting the pleasure to welcome you at my shop, I am,
Respectfully yours,
S. KUGEL & SON. A Letter to the Public:
