AN interesting description of soldier life in Hawaii is found in a letter from Private Clarence W. Wridge who is with the First Infantry in Schofield Barracks, near Honolulu, to his mother, who lives at 290 East Tenth street.

"Reveille at 6," runs the letter. "Breakfast call at 6:30. Drill call at 8. We are out till 11, when we come in for dinner, which is due at 12. Nothing to do in the afternoon till 4:50, when we get ready for retreat, which goes at 5. Sometimes the buglers play colors and sometimes the band plays the National anthem. Then supper, and lights out at 9:30.

"The mosquitoes are with us here the year round. There is never any frost here to kill the vegetation, which is always green, though the country is so dry that crops have to be irrigated. Most of the cultivated land is planted to sugar cane and pineapples. Sugar cane grows from eight to 16 feet high, and so thick that one can't walk through it.

"A soldier can enjoy himself here at the post. We have a large library, and a moving-picture show every night. The city of Honolulu is about the same in appearance as any twon of 50,000 or 60,000 inhabitants, except for the palm and other tropical trees planted along the curb. It is certainly a pretty town."

Earl E. McKinney, son of E. S. McKinney, 1051 Kirby street, has joined the radio service of the Navy and will take a course of training at Mare Island, after which he will go to Harvard to complete his training and take examinations for a commission. Mr. McKinney is well known in Portland, having been with the Western Union for four years and operator at American Lake for the last six months. C. L. Wolf, another Portland lad, also with the Western Union, will leave for Mare Island at the same time.

A former Jefferson High School student, Charles S. Cook, is assistant wireless operator on the U. S. S. Pittsburg. Mr. Cook worked with his father at the Western Union. His grandfather, W. H. Hamilton, Sr., served four years as sergeant in the Civil War.

The three branches of the service were represented at a reunion of Portland boys when they met unexpectedly at Princeton, N. J., recently.

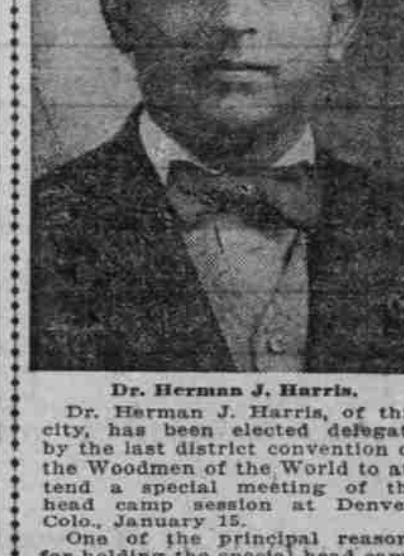
Lieutenant Joyce R. Kelly holds a commission in the Engineers Corps of the regular Army. He is at present engaged in research work.

Wilbur Kelly represents the Navy. The presence of his ship in a nearby Atlantic port enabled him to visit his brother, whom he had not seen for 18 months.

Everett Truesdaye is a Marine and is quartered at Quantico, Va. He obtained Thanksgiving leave to visit his former instructor, Dr. K. T. Compton, formerly of Reed College and now of Princeton University.

Truesdaye and Kelly both received instruction at Reed College from Dr. Compton. Wilbur Kelly was active in athletics at Washington High School before his enlistment in the Naval Reserve early last year.

DELEGATE TO SPECIAL SESSION OF WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.



Dr. Herman J. Harris.

Dr. Herman J. Harris, of this city, has been elected delegate by the last district convention of the Woodmen of the World to attend a special meeting of the head camp session at Denver, Colo., January 15.

One of the principal reasons for holding the special head camp session is to provide for a patriotic relief fund to be used to keep in good standing and pay death losses of all members of the lodge who enter any branch of the military or naval service of the United States or its allies during the period of the present war.

BANKS TO AID PIG CLUBS

Activities of Youngsters Will Be Financed at 6 Per Cent.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Dec. 22.—(Special.)—Bank aid to boys and girls on farms who wish to join "pig clubs" is being arranged for throughout the state by L. G. Allen, leader of pig club work. Mr. Allen has just returned from Roseburg, where plans to get financial loans from the banks for the school children have been effected.

Under the conditions arranged by Mr. Allen the banks agree to lend the children money for purchasing pigs or brood sows at 6 per cent interest. Only pure-bred stock may be raised by the club members. The children have meetings and demonstrations and are organized through the aid of school officials.

Youngsters who raise pigs on culls, skim milk and other products generally wasted can realize big financial returns and aid in hog production for the country.

Sixty-Nine Men Have Enrolled in Y. M. C. A. Radio Classes.

NEW EQUIPMENT IS READY

Men of Second or Subsequent Drafts Are Eligible to Receive Free Instruction in Two Important Branches.

Any man of the second or subsequent military drafts is eligible to receive free instruction in radio telegraphy and telephony in the Y. M. C. A. radio school, in accordance with arrangements which have been made by the directors of the association in response to an appeal from the War Department.

Already 69 men of Portland and vicinity have been enrolled in day and evening classes and several have become sufficiently proficient to meet the Government's initial requirements of ability to receive 12 to 15 words a minute. Twelve men have qualified within the last few days for further training at Bremerton, Mare Island or the radio school on the University of Washington campus.

Students Given Promotion.

"Five men from Pacific University who took their training here last Spring," said L. G. Nichols, director of the Y. M. C. A. educational department, "went to Bremerton and have made good. One of them was sent for special work at Harvard and subsequently was made an ensign and attached to one of the battleships in the Atlantic fleet. "We have practically completed arrangements for the employment of an additional instructor to assist Walter Haynes, the instructor now in charge of the radio school. The Y. M. C. A. was in a fortunate position to respond to the Government's appeal for the training of men in the second and subsequent drafts in radio service.

Portland School Oldest.

"Our school is the oldest and one of the best-equipped radio institutions on the Pacific Coast and its work had been recognized as standard for years. We have installed complete new table equipment, wired with separate circuits for each student, giving every man his own private telephone and such switch arrangements as to make it possible to throw various tables on to different instructors, so that the student can "listen in" on the insruction given at the rate of speed which he is capable of receiving.

"Any man who belongs to the second draft and who has passed the physical examination required for the Army is eligible to receive without charge the course in radio offered by the Y. M. C. A. school."

"Camouflage" Pie Supplants Old-Fashioned Mince.

Meatless Mince Pastry Takes Place With Pumpkinless Pumpkin Pie and Gingerless Gingerbread as Culinary Triumph in Food Conservation Art.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Meatless mincemeat, another culinary triumph in the art of food conservation, has been brought to the housewives of the country by the National emergency garden committee as a worthy companion of pumpkinless pumpkin pie and gingerless gingerbread.

The new mincemeat, officially described as a "camouflage," was tried on 500 troops on a transport, who pronounced it perfect and called for more.

Half a package of seeded raisins, half a pound of prunes stewed with lemon juice and peel, one-quarter cup sweet cider, four tablespoonfuls brown sugar; chop the raisins and prunes together and the result is said to be a meatless mince pie which will accord with the Food Administration's meatless Tuesday.

As turkey does not violate the meatless day, Christmas dinner may be complete.

HOME MILLS IN LINE

Col. Disque Favors Cutting of Spruce in Oregon.

DIRECTOR WANTS FACTS

Army Man Glad to Place Contracts Here Because of Great Saving in Car Space if Mills Have Adequate Facilities.

Colonel Disque, commanding the spruce production division of the Signal Corps, with headquarters at Portland, has pledged himself to act favorably upon the application of Oregon mills that they be given contracts for cutting parts for airplanes, if they can show him that they are adequately equipped with machinery and men for the purpose.

That they are so equipped and are able to handle such work to the satisfaction of the Government, is the assertion of members of the Planing Mill Association of this state, who have taken up the subject and are now engaged in making an exhaustive survey, preparatory to filing a complete report of their findings with Colonel Disque.

This subject is one of the most important now up for discussion in connection with the spruce production programme of the Government, as it has many features that appeal strongly to Colonel Disque, who is right on the ground, and to members of the Air Craft Board, at Washington. One of the chief savings would be in cars, as it is estimated that several hundred cars would be saved for other purposes should the dimensioning of the output be contracted with local mills.

"There seems to be no question as to the ability of the Oregon mills to handle the dimensions of the spruce cut," said W. D. B. Dodson, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who is in close touch with the situation. "No doubt the planing-mill owners will be able to show Colonel Disque that they are equipped with the necessary machinery for the work and that they have or can get sufficient experienced men to handle the machinery. If this is done, it will mean a great saving in cars alone, and, as there is a shortage of these, it would mean much to the Government to be able to ship spruce already dimensioned and do away with the using of needless car space. In addition, it would, of course, mean much to the city and state commercially, and there is no reason why it should not be done."

The Government programme now calls for an average monthly output of 11,000,000 feet of spruce throughout the first six months of 1918. Colonel Disque is directing for the Signal Corps a multitude of details, and a big force of men in the execution of this big task, to which he was personally assigned by Secretary of War Baker. Headquarters are in the Yeon building and the field of activity extends throughout the spruce forests of Oregon and Washington.

To win the war by airplanes is the slogan for the big drive.

THOMAS B. KAY WILL ACT

New York Flax Manufacturing Process to Be Investigated.

Thomas B. Kay, State Treasurer, has notified the Chamber of Commerce of his acceptance of its appointment as a special representative to investigate the Starling flax manufacturing process at North Tonawanda, N. Y. Mr. Kay will endeavor to visit New York and make the investigation next month.

By the process under consideration by the Chamber, the production of yarns from flax is simplified, and, if it is found practicable by Mr. Kay, will prove an important factor in determining further steps by the commercial body in obtaining for this community a flax-manufacturing plant.

$17,170 DAMAGES SOUGHT

J. C. Aldrich Brings Action Against Townsend Creamery Company.

The T. S. Townsend Creamery Company, of this city, was yesterday sued in the Circuit Court by Jay C. Aldrich for damages in the sum of $17,170.90 for injuries alleged to have been suffered in an automobile accident September 27. Plaintiff charges that while visiting the State Fair at Salem on that date he was run into and injured by an automobile driven by W. F. Hardison, an employe of the defendant company.

Another personal injury suit was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Carrie W. Miller against J. B. Holman as the result of an automobile collision.
