CAR ECONOMY GOAL

Every Item of Rolling Stock Being Requisitioned.

LOADING SPEEDED UP ALSO

Equipment Used to Transport Company Supplies Over Short Hauls Placed in Active Service on O.-W. R. & N. Lines.

How the railroads are striving for car economy, in order that every item of rolling stock shall be in active service, is told by H. W. Hicks, former traveling passenger agent of the O.-W. R. & N. Company, who received promotion several days ago to the post of special representative of the operating department.

Mr. Hicks' new duties are to supervise the speedier loading of cars and study freight traffic conditions with a view to obtaining maximum efficiency from the equipment available. Suggestions adopted and found practicable in one division are passed on to others and car economy ideas are sought for constantly.

Economy Suggestions Adopted.

Many suggestions have been forwarded in the past few months by the War Board at Washington to the railroads and have been placed with agents. In his trips Mr. Hicks has found that many of these have been adopted and that others, equally productive of car saving, have been originated.

Antiquated outfit cars, such as are used to transport company supplies over short hauls, have been remodeled and repaired and placed in active commission on branch lines, thus releasing other equipment for service on the main lines of the O.-W. R. & N. Company.

Instructions have been given to shippers to load cars to full capacity when practicable. In instances where shippers have failed to comply the company has refused to supply them with any further cars until they agree to the wartime requirements.

Cars Carry Big Loads.

Mr. Hicks said that in instances where freight cars have broken down car repairers have been sent out on gasoline speeders and the repairs made immediately in order to save the car hours that a trip to the shops would demand.

Indicative of the way cars are being loaded under the new regime are instances like the loading of 1094 sacks of potatoes on one car at La Grande, when the minimum capacity, or the amount required, is 800 sacks.

Authority has been given by the general freight agent of the O.-W. R. & N. Company to "double load" cars wherever this arrangement can be made. Thus, if two consignments sufficiently small are to be sent to one town or two adjacent towns, one car suffices for both and a direct saving of one car for other service is effected.

At La Grande, reports Mr. Hicks, employes of the O.-W. R. & N. have strung 700 feet of electric wiring over their storage coal bunkers, in order that company coal may be unloaded at night and coal cars released without unnecessary delay for other duty.

When company material in quantity is to arrive at La Grande the force which unloads it is augmented by section crews, which are called in by special order, and additional car hours are saved.
