

SIX CENT FARE NOT SLATED FOR DELAY

City Attorney Files Request for Suspension of Order of Public Service Commission.

ACTION IS NOT LIKELY

Commissioner Corey Announces Positively He Is Opposed to Any Suspension and Stands on Rights Until Courts Overrule.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—Although City Attorney LaRoche today personally filed with the Public Service Commission resolutions asking that the 6-cent fare order as to the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company be suspended until such time as the courts have had a chance to act, it is now practically an assured thing that such request will not be granted.

Commissioner Corey returned from Seattle today, where he has been attending a hearing, and announced positively that he is absolutely opposed to suspending the operation of the order. Chairman Miller recently expressed the same view, and with a majority of the Commission aligned against the proposal the resolution seems to have little chance of being passed.

Mr. Corey Absolutely Opposed. "I am absolutely opposed to suspending the order," was the statement of Commissioner Corey today. "We found the company in dire need, and we issued an order to become effective January 15, and as far as I am concerned that is when it will become effective. I am satisfied that the Commission has jurisdiction in the premises, and it will assume such jurisdiction until such time as the courts pass upon the question. If it is found we have not jurisdiction, well and good, but until that time I am in favor of the order becoming effective at the time originally determined upon."

Commissioner Corey suggested as a counter proposition that the same procedure as that followed a few years ago in the Milwaukee case might be invoked. In those cases, pending a decision, the conductor was charged, but with each fare the conductor handed out a refund slip, which would entitle the passenger to the return of the excess fare in event the order was found to be invalid.

Rebate Slips Might Be Issued. "Some such a proceeding might be followed in the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company matter, if it was deemed expedient," stated Commissioner Corey. "I am not prepared to say that I would make a recommendation along those lines, but suggest that such a plan might offset the proposal to suspend the operation of the order. In event it was then found that this commission has no authority to issue the 6-cent fare order and make it effective, passengers could turn in their refund slips and secure their extra pennies back."

The document filed by City Attorney LaRoche this morning contains the resolutions passed, hitherto published, and declares the intention of the city to appeal the order to the Circuit and Supreme Courts of the state.

"While said cause shall be pending," says the document, "it is expedient, if possible, to save the public the inconvenience and cost of increased fares for transportation within the city of Portland over the lines of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company."

SUICIDE SLAYER'S REFUGE (Continued from First Page.) ets from a supply company yesterday, according to officials, and borrowed two more today.

Army officials tonight declined to say whether any of the money which the robber is supposed to have obtained was found in Captain Whisler's room.

The suicide of Captain Whisler was the climax of a day of investigation by the Army authorities, who were confident as the day progressed that the murderer had not left the reservation.

Their most definite information was furnished by Wornall.

Wornall, who recovered consciousness this morning, told the authorities that the murderer was an Army Captain, whose face he recognized and who, he said, was a close friend of C. Fuller Winters, of Kansas City, head of the Army bank, one of the men killed.

Finger-Print Order Issued. As a result of Wornall's statement a general check of Army officers was begun. This afternoon the order that all Captains should report and have their finger prints taken was issued.

Although it was practically certain that he would be accused, Captain Whisler kept his nerve and displayed a bold front, according to the men who associated with him.

He attended regimental school at 9 o'clock this morning as usual, although classmates recalled tonight that he appeared rather nervous. At the end of the order came for all officers to record their finger prints, Captain Whisler went with the rest and submitted to the test.

It is denied that Whisler was in great need of money, at least so far as his most intimate associates were aware.

Wornall, in describing the murders, said a man came to the door of the bank about 8:30 o'clock last night and rapped insistently. He was admitted, and covering the five men with his revolver, forced Wornall to tie the hands of the four men, after which he tied Wornall's hands. The man then looted the bank safe, and had reached the door when Winters said to Wornall: "You recognize him, don't you?"

Victims Fall One by One. Wornall answered that he did. The murderer turned to Winters and said: "You know me, do you?" "I sure do, you black scoundrel," was Winters' reply.

Wornall said at this point the man hesitated and then suddenly leaped at them, swinging his hand ax. He struck the men down, one by one.

Wornall was the last struck. When he recovered consciousness he managed to untie his hands and made his way into the open air, where he was discovered by a sentry.

NO INCONCLUSIVE PEACE ANNOUNCED-T. R.

Overwhelming Victory Necessary to Make Another War Impossible.

PREPAREDNESS IS URGED

"Training Camps Today Are Huge Universities of American Citizenship and It Will Be Crime if They Are Ever Discontinued."

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—America must accept no peace except "the peace of overwhelming victory," Theodore Roosevelt said in an address today at a dinner of the Ohio Society of New York.

"To accept an inconclusive peace," the former President said, "would mean that the whole war would have to be fought over again by ourselves and our children. Those who demand such a peace are not only the enemies of America, but of democracy throughout the world and stand on the level of the Bolsheviks, who have betrayed both Russia and her allies to the militaristic and capitalist autocracy of the Hohenzollerns."

"Unless both Belgium and France are restored and indemnified," Colonel Roosevelt said, "justice will not have prevailed."

The expediting of war preparations was urged by the speaker, who declared that to "refuse to see and to point out" the country's failure in this respect is "both ally and unpatriotic."

"To permit them to go uncorrected," he said, "is to play the German game in the most effective manner possible. It is no mere accident that has made all the pro-German organs in the present clamor for peace the men who dare to point out our shortcomings; for the pro-Germans know well that the ruthless enemies of this country, whom they serve as far as they dare, desire nothing so much as to see this country afraid to acknowledge and make good its shortcomings, and these pro-Germans cloak their traitorous aid to Germany under the camouflage of pretended zeal to save American officials from just such criticism."

Colonel Roosevelt said America would be wise to make its ultimate aim "such military and industrial preparedness as shall save us from ever again being caught in such shape as to be helpless to protect ourselves." In this connection he reiterated his advocacy of universal military training, "the training camps of today," he said, "are huge universities of American citizenship; and it will be a crime if they are ever discontinued."

WAR NOT STARTED BY BUSINESS MEN, SAYS OTTO H. KAHN. American Financiers Had Nothing to Gain and Everything to Lose by Going Into Conflict.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—American financiers had nothing to gain and everything to lose by war, according to a statement by Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, which was read tonight at a banquet of the Chicago Bankers' Club.

Mr. Kahn was scheduled to address the bankers, but his train was stalled by the storm.

"Promoters of disunion pretend to believe that this war was started by big business men for selfish reasons and for the purpose of gain," said Mr. Kahn's statement. "This assertion is in flat contradiction to the facts."

"Business and business men had everything to gain by keeping the United States out of the war. In the two years previous to our entry into the war enormous profits on munitions and supplies were made by American business men. It was plain to everyone that if America entered the war the Government would practically control the munitions and supply factories—business done—so that these profits would cease. Business men are bound to be heavy losers through America's entry into the war."

Mr. Kahn's statement found fault with the war tax law, declaring that too many committees attended to its enforcement. He urged a board of economic strategy, composed of business men, to deal with financial and economic problems, including the war tax.

Need of Money Suggested. Their theory was borne out by Wornall's story. The man who committed the murders, he said, was "another of money and hate to do it." Another fact tending to confirm his theory is that the body of Winters was found lying on top of a large number of bank notes, which had been scattered over the floor in front of the safe.

The suicide of Captain Whisler was discovered by brother officers, who heard the two shots and rushed to the room. They found him lying on the floor, the Army rifle nearby.

Arrangements for the funerals of the four victims of the tragedy had not been arranged tonight.

Camp May Show Sympathy. Although the murdered men were civilians, it was said here tonight that some ceremony by which the camp might show its sympathy probably would take place.

News that the murders had been cleared up came as a welcome relief to the officers and men at the camp. Since the crime was discovered last night the camp has been a barred military area, surrounded by heavily armed guards, with orders to shoot anyone who might seek to enter or leave the camp without permission.

The origin of the fire is unknown. Over 100 boys, scantily clad, escaped in the cold.

Several dentists lost "dope" in other robberies.

HIGHEST MARK IS REACHED. Heavy Rains in Mountains Cause Willamette to Rise Rapidly.

EUGENE, Or., Jan. 12.—(Special.)—The Willamette River at Eugene tonight touched the high mark for the winter, measuring 14.3 feet. The sudden rise from 5.7 feet at 7 o'clock yesterday morning is unprecedented in the experience of Lee Goetschius, Federal river and weather observer.

Mr. Goetschius says the flood is the result of unusually heavy rains in the mountains on the east fork of the Willamette and McKenzie.

Roads between Eugene and Springfield and in other districts bordering the Willamette and McKenzie are under water.

HUNS WANT OIL FIELDS

EFFORTS TO OBTAIN Foothold IN TAMPIO DISCLOSED.

City Engineer of Tucson, Ariz., Arrested on Charge of Conspiring to Violate Neutrality Laws.

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 12.—Efforts of German interests to obtain a foothold in the Tampico oil fields of Mexico were disclosed by the arrest here yesterday of Charles Frederick von Petersdorff, City Engineer of Tucson.

Von Petersdorff admitted that in January, 1915, he received a letter from Franz Bopp summoning him to San Francisco and enclosing a check for $50. Von Petersdorff went to San Francisco, where, he said, Bopp made him a proposition to go to Canada, ostensibly on a mining deal and advanced $100. The German consul at Seattle, a man named Schulerberg, he said, gave him $500 and sent him to Vancouver, B. C.

Later, according to Von Petersdorff's testimony, he was sent from Seattle to New York. There he met Von Papan and Boy-Ed. He admits he was supplied with $1000 by "certain Germans" and sent to Tampico in an effort to obtain certain oil lands. Petersdorff sailed for the Mexican port, but found the lands were in possession of the rebel forces and returned to the United States by way of New Orleans.

WELL, the grand opera season is over and we'll have to go back to the canned variety—regale ourselves with Caruso, Schumann Heink, Patti, Tetrassini, et al., via the electric needle and music box.

Portlanders are great lovers of music. Operatic concerts prove this most forcibly. So does that great human interest department of The Oregonian, the Want Ad Section.

Musical instruments don't go begging long for a home when their owners engage Mr. Want Ad as salesman. Mrs. Sig Lipman, of 673 Johnson street, discovered this when she advertised, via an Oregonian Want Ad, her Kranich & Bach upright mahogany piano. So did A. C. Camack, 310 East Fifty-seventh street, when he disposed of his Victrola, and I. W. Elkins, 497 Forty-second street South, when he sold his Victor phonograph on the second call.

In fact, so successful was their plunge into musical instrument salesmanship that they all must have harbored a wish that they had more to sell. It was "dead easy."

Thousands of others have enjoyed other salesmanship experiences just as certain, just as quick, and just as cheap. The Want Ad Department wins new followers every day, people who would as soon think of overlooking the latest Russian developments as an after-breakfast perusal of "Today's News and Bargains" as published by Mr. Want Ad. It's a thrift habit worth forming.
