

HARMS' ACCUSERS OFFER TESTIMONY

Policeman Long and ex-Policeman Wise Both Admit Having Grievances Against Captain.

"MORAL SQUAD" GAMBLER

Witness Testifies That Harms Had Key to Weinhart's Brewery and That They Often Went There at Night to Drink.

J. M. Wise, an ex-policeman, and A. L. Long, at present a policeman, were the principal witnesses presented yesterday by H. Armstrong and the Daily News in the City Council chamber with Mayor Baker, United States District Attorney Reames, District Attorney Evans, City Attorney La Roche and Chief of Police Johnson as judges. The accusers presented all their testimony.

Both officers admitted having grievances against Captain Harms and the only other witness presented were three other policemen whose testimony was uncertain, and a near-hysterical woman who claimed Captain Harms had made mistakes in arresting and accusing her during his moral squad career.

J. M. Wise, who is now a fireman, testified that he was a member of the moral squad, which was headed by Captain Harms, saw Captain Harms drunk on several occasions. One occasion was at the Stark street when the squad members were watching a bawdy house and Captain Harms became badly intoxicated. He also related stories of episodes at the Armory, where, he said, the moral squad went to drink and gamble at poker.

"I was forced by Captain Harms to drink," said Mr. Wise. "When I refused to drink he called me a black sheep and on one occasion threatened to screw me up in a vise in the Armory. I gave in, Harms had a key to the Weinhart Brewery and we often went in there and drank at night.

"On one occasion at the Armory, Harms got to shooting and shot a hole through my hat. At another time he ran me up into the balcony with a gun. Mr. Wise testified that he had been drinking led him to trouble which finally caused him to desert his wife and baby and elope with a woman of the underworld named 'Babe' Gooding. This affair caused Wise's arrest on a technical charge of stealing some dance tickets, and he was discharged from the police force.

Blame Placed on Wise. Mr. Wise declared that the drinking indulged by Captain Harms was the cause of this. The attorney for Captain Harms presented a newspaper interview concerning the elopement episode, in which Wise was quoted as saying he had never started drinking until he met the Gooding woman. Mr. Wise admitted having given the interview but said this newspaper article had been "doctored" by the reporter who wrote it.

Mr. Wise testified that Captain Harms had often appeared in court half drunk and on one occasion it was necessary for him to take him to a hospital to sober him up. Mr. Wise declared that outside of drinking Captain Harms had been a good officer and was absolutely honest.

"You had a grievance against Captain Harms, did you not?" asked Attorney Banks, representing Captain Harms. "I'll admit it is there at him," said Wise. "But I was not anxious to get into this case."

Patrolman Long was the principal witness in connection with the provision of German charge. He testified that during the last Presidential campaign Captain Harms made vile remarks against President Wilson and that on May 15, 1917, he had told him to "keep still about Germany, for my people live there." Also he testified that Captain Harms had failed to arrest a German named Dolpen, an American soldier in uniform and whom Long said had made threats about what he would do to this country.

Mr. Long admits Grievance. It was shown on cross-examination that Mr. Long had notified Captain Harms of this affair by telephone and that Captain Harms had told him to make a report and get with him. The report as made was submitted to Captain Harms and next day found its way to the Federal authorities and Dolpen later was arrested by the Government.

Mr. Long admitted that he had a grievance against Captain Harms. He said Captain Harms had been the cause of his (Long's) dismissal from the moral squad and that when Captain Harms was put back in charge of the moral work recently, Mr. Long figured it was a case either of getting Captain Harms getting him or he getting Captain Harms. It was shown that the reason for Long's dismissal from the moral work was his refusal to go with Captain Harms to arrest a woman named Essie Watkins. "I knew this woman's connections," said Long, "and I was afraid to arrest her. Furthermore, I was leaving on my vacation the next day and did not want to be bothered with a case in court."

Assistant is Admitted. It was shown that Captain Harms arrested the woman and Mr. Long refused to participate in the arrest for the reasons mentioned. He admitted that when Captain Harms recently was put in charge of the moral work he decided to get him if he could.

When asked by United States District Attorney Reames why he did not arrest Dolpen, the alleged German spy, he said he was afraid of getting into trouble because the man was in the United States Army and wore a uniform.

PRETENTIOUS HAWAIIAN SPECTACLE TO BE PRODUCED AT AUDITORIUM FEBRUARY 2.

CHARLES KAMA DIMOND.

A Hawaiian-American company of more than 100 performers is to stage a pretentious Hawaiian spectacle entitled "A Night in Hawaii" at the Auditorium on Saturday evening, February 2, under the direction of Charles Kama Dimond.

Mr. Dimond is well known as a Hawaiian musician and he was for some years chief musician to the late Queen Liliuokalani. He has gathered the best of Hawaiian talent available and will be assisted by a number of local American girls, who have become expert under his instruction in the hula hula dances and playing the steel guitar. Additional music will be furnished as an accompaniment by an orchestra of about 20 pieces.

Remarks against President Wilson as charged by Long. They both said remarks were made during heated arguments during the pre-election campaign. Neither officer could remember what Captain Harms had said, but did remember that he had said something.

"The Republicans were cursing Wilson and the Democrats were cursing Hughes at that time," said Patrolman Hilton.

Maude F. Wilson, an elderly woman living at 207 Market street, testified that Captain Harms had arrested her here should try to control her conduct. If this scene has been purposely staged it is a serious mistake," Attorney Powers apologized and got Mrs. Wilson away as quickly as possible.

Mr. Powers announced that that was all the testimony he had. The other side of the story will be told on Tuesday when witnesses for Captain Harms are called.

POLICE LAUD CAPTAIN HARMS. Petition Declares Faith in Integrity of Portland Officer. Police last night began circulation, among members of the bureau, of a resolution declaring faith in the integrity of Captain Harms, and asking that the character of the complaining witnesses be investigated. The resolution asserts the belief of the signers that Harms is the victim of an unscrupulous plot to discredit him. Those circulating the petition said that it would be signed by practically every member of the Police Bureau.

DONALD SKENE IS SAFE. YOUNG AMBULANCE DRIVER WAS MOURNED AS DEAD. Return to United States Delayed by Shipwreck of Which No Account is Given.

"Have arrived safely. Delay due to shipwreck." Receipts of this telegram yesterday by Dr. and Mrs. William H. Skene, of Sixteenth street North, from their son, Donald, aged 19, removed grave fears entertained for his safety. The telegram was sent from Old Point Comfort, Va., and announced that the young man would go to New York and thence start for home.

Young Skene enlisted in a hospital unit shortly after war was declared and arrived in France last June, where he drove an ambulance for six months. Upon the expiration of his enlistment he called his parents from a foreign port on Christmas day that he would leave immediately for the United States.

Rainier SPECIAL A MELLOW BEVERAGE

"I like RAINIER SPECIAL best of all"

The mellow, unequalled flavor of RAINIER SPECIAL makes it the choice of youngsters as well as those who always will be young. It's seldom that anyone is satisfied with a single bottle—it's goodness is so captivating. There should be a case in every home all the time—and the children should be urged to drink it in preference to miscellaneous concoctions. It's as good for one as its flavor is pleasing—nothing in it to harm the tiniest tot. Be sure, however, to get the genuine—for there are many imitations.

YEAR'S ARRESTS GIVEN

VIOLATION OF TRAFFIC ORDINANCE IS FAR IN LEAD.

Drunkenness Is Good Second and Vagrancy Third, but Both These Are Shown to Be Decline.

The high mark for one month for drunkenness was 219, for December, 1916. The low mark for the same offense was 69, for June, 1917. The high mark for traffic violations was 235, for July, 1917, and the low mark 85, for December, 1916. This comparison shows that drunkenness is becoming less common, although arrests for traffic violations are increasing with the lid tightening.

The little parody, "If You Can't Get a Job in the Summer Time, You Can't Get a Job in the Fall," does not seem to apply. In the rainy days of August 121 vagrants were arrested, but with the cool October breezes blowing only 28 found their way to second and Oak.

In the month of December a total of 1742 cases came up in the Municipal Court. Of these 1046 were traffic violations, 133 vagrants, 149 varied offenses for gambling, visiting gambling games, or conducting games of operating punchboards, 141 drunks, 40 disorderly conduct, and 53 lottery cases. Minor offenses incidental to keeping the peace, keeping streets clean, keeping hours, respecting pure food ordinances and the like made up the month's total of 1742.

President Katz says in the call that matters have reached the point where the credentials and work in harmony with us, are making deliberate, concentrated and united effort to break up the league in the hope of being able to our opinion, by the product below cost of production and sell it at the present prices. This, he points out, would injure the producer without in any way helping the consumer.

Wells Gilbert, E. C. Hatch and Giuseppe Stasi Get Prized Articles, All of High Value.

Statuary left over in the Italian booth at the closing of the Allied Red Cross Bazaar in the Auditorium was awarded last night to Wells Gilbert, E. C. Hatch and Giuseppe Stasi. Ira F. Powers became the owner of a Florentine vase. These articles were sold during the bazaar, but because of the precipitous closing of that affair on account of a bomb scare, there was no time for the making of awards.

The statue entitled "Mother and Child," purchased by Mr. Gilbert, is the most valuable of the collection. It is a copy in marble of a bust by Tabacci in the museum at Florence, Italy. The vase acquired by Mr. Powers is valued at $95. It is a genuine Majolica china, made by Salvini, in Florence.

language enabled me to read their letters and cards, and I gained a fair idea of the real German soldier's life. Then I want to tell you how the grand old English army ordered us all to treat them—none of this eye-for-an-eye stuff, but rather return good for evil. If a few of the stories one hears about atrocities are true."

Mothers of Oregon Prepare for Trouble!

When a girl becomes a woman, and when a woman becomes a mother, and when a woman passes through the changes of middle life, are the three periods of life when health and strength are most needed to withstand the pain and distress often caused by severe organic disturbances. Many thousands along the Pacific Coast would testify just as do the following:

MONROE, OREGON.—"I am certainly glad to recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I think it is a God-send to woman-kind. During expectancy I was, oh, so sick with that terrible morning sickness. I was so bad that I just could not eat one thing. I commenced taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and I was relieved at once—no nausea, no headaches, no backache, and I got through so well."—Mrs. W. T. POCKRUS, Care McCready Camp.

SOHELLA, OREGON.—"I have suffered everything during expectancy but the last time I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I never missed a meal and had comparatively no suffering. I would surely recommend the Prescription to all prospective mothers and, also, for young girls coming into womanhood. A friend is taking this medicine now as I advised her to and she is improving fast. One would not know she was the same woman."—Mrs. H. E. GRISON.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten ways of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sickheadache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation.—Adv.
