

"FIRST LADY OF MOVIE LAND" IS CROWNED BY MAYOR HILAN, OF NEW YORK, RECENTLY

Honor is Conferred at Brooklyn—Girl Who Sings for Soldiers Enjoys Thrilling Ride in Aeroplane—Junior League Performs Good Work in New York City.

Miss Virginia Pearson, Miss Donna Easley, Miss Evelyn Payne.

It is a great honor to be "First Lady of Movie Land," but it is a still greater honor to be crowned by the Mayor of the "world's greatest city." Miss Virginia Pearson, the beautiful Fox star, was presented with a silver loving cup and a key to the city...

Miss Donna Easley, whose singing has thrilled and cheered thousands of soldiers in National Army and National Guard camps throughout the United States, will sail for France January 29 to sing to American soldiers in the trenches.

Miss Easley is a coloratura soprano, and her singing so aroused the appreciation of the men that the name of the "Nightingale of the Army Camps" was given her.

Miss Easley has covered the country from Cody in the West to Devers in the East, and she has toured the South, covering practically every large camp. While at Kelley Field, the aviation training ground near Fort Sam Houston, she was taken up in one of the new biplanes by the birdmen and given a few thrills.

Redeeming men's discarded shirts and making babies' dresses from them is the novel idea of Mrs. A. D. Gilmore, and she is devoting a great deal of her time to this work. She has organized a club of her own and has volunteered to act as instructor of similar clubs.

Her plan will put to good use material ordinarily wasted, and it is hoped that hundreds of useful little dresses for children of the war zone will be made. The need is great and the ability to meet it, in part, requires comparatively little.

Miss Evelyn Payne is one of the earnest workers of the Junior League, New York, which is placing posters about the city calling attention to the need for buying war savings stamps and certificates. The league is enlisted in a movement to raise $100,000,000 through the sale of thrift and war savings stamps, and the girls of the Junior League are right on the job to see that the city makes good.

WEDDINGS

WEDDINGS. FENDLETON, Or., Jan. 26.—(Special.)—In the presence of a large number of friends in this city from Walla Walla, Miss Lola Rogers, popular young Pendleton woman, Tuesday night became the bride of Harold Reed Barnett, well-known young Walla Walla man. Miss Rogers is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Rogers, of Pendleton, and has been prominent in social affairs here. She has been much interested in women's war work and was president of the Girls' Honor Guard and chairman of the canteen committee of Umatilla County Red Cross Chapter. Mr. Barnett is a member of a prominent Walla Walla family and a son of Mrs. Anna Barnett.

The ceremony took place in the Presbyterian Church. The double-ring service was read by the Rev. J. E. Snyder. Several beautiful musical numbers preceded the ceremony.

Miss Rogers' wedding gown was of ivory satin with a full court train and veil, and her bride but a few weeks ago. Blossoms of silver lace were used with the satin and her bouquet was a lovely shower of bride's roses and bouvardia.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Gwendolyn Rogers, who wore an attractive frock of yellow, with touches of turquoise and a large hat of satin and gold lace, and by Miss Evelyn Somerville, in a creation of rose-tinted tulle, with silver lace, and worn with a becoming lace hat of rose and silver.

Mr. Barnett was attended by Emmett Estes, of Walla Walla, who, himself, took a Pendleton girl, Miss Lulu Matlock, as his bride but a few weeks ago. The ushers were Roy Buchanan, Cal Harris and John Barnett, of Walla Walla.

A number of their intimate friends gathered at the Rogers home after the ceremony. The young people left Tuesday night for Walla Walla, from where they expect to leave for Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco before returning to Walla Walla, where they will make their home.

Roberts-Mitchell. OREGON CITY, Or., Jan. 25.—(Special.)—A wedding that was somewhat of a surprise to friends in Tacoma, Wash., and Oregon City, was the marriage of Miss Jennie Riedl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riedl, of Tacoma, and Wilbur E. Roberts, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Roberts, of Oregon City, that was solemnized at the parsonage of the First Methodist Church in Tacoma on Saturday, January 19. The impressive marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Gilbert Tribull. Following the marriage ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left for the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding dinner was served.

The bride is one of the most popular young women of Tacoma's younger set, and was a student of the Summer High School previous to her marriage. The bridegroom is one of the well-known young men of Oregon City, who has resided here most of his life. It was while connected with this position that Mr. Roberts met and won his bride.

Mr. Roberts is the great grandson of the Rev. William Roberts, who established the Taylor Street Methodist Church in this city, and the first sermon in that church in Portland. He comes from one of the early Oregon pioneer families. He is a nephew of Mrs. J. B. Jack, of Oregon City, and nephew of Charles Roberts, of Tacoma, Wash.

Eight Bottles of "Blue Ribbon" Beer Have History. Transportation Home in Crowded Car, in Which Two Policemen Rode, Almost Prostrates Owner.

BY ADDISON BENNETT. It happened just before Christmas, nearly three weeks ago; but I did not care to mention it before, for fear of getting a friend in trouble. By this time I imagine the "detectives" have forgotten it, so I will give an episode that happened to Jones-Smith, a real estate operator who has an office in one of our big buildings. Of course his name is not Jones-Smith, neither is it Jones or Smith; but any name will do for the "criminal" to hide behind.

In the office of Jones-Smith there is a vault that was put in when the building was constructed. In this vault long before the State went dry Jones-Smith used to have a few bottles of beer occasionally. Not many bottles at a time, frequently for long periods the vault would be as dry as Oregon now is, for Jones-Smith is by no means a drinking man. When the prohibition law went into effect there were a dozen small bottles of Blue Ribbon beer in that vault, but Jones-Smith had forgotten it. About a month before Christmas he happened to run across it, and at first thought he would throw it away. He soon had a different thought and concluded he would take it home and have it to help out his Christmas dinner. He went down to the market and bought one of those 10-cent baskets, wrapped up eight bottles of the beer, each in a separate package, so it would not "jingle," and packed them in the basket. That was all the basket would hold; the other four bottles he "used."

From day and night he went home, he forgot the basket, but the night before the great day he started tightly on his way home, gripping the basket. It was during the rush hour of traffic and he found his suburban car packed to the platforms. He crowded in, placed the basket between his feet on the floor of the car, took possession of a strap, and pursued his journey.

Pretty soon he noticed next to him in front two policemen whom he had noticed frequently in his home neighborhood, and he remembered that these same "coppers" had been active of late in arresting and convicting such criminals as they could catch. Jones-Smith grew a little nervous, for the number 11 shoe of one of the officers was resting right against the basket—and Jones-Smith wondered if it would not wrapped the bottles so there could not possibly be any "jingle" as of glass against glass. He also began to go over his mind how this man had been fined $25 and that one $50 for no greater offense than he was committing; and it grew so warm in the car that crossing he grabbed it and got off. He was very weak. He could hardly stand, but he wobbled along home with his eight bottles. His wife met him at the door and her salutation was, "Why, my dear, what is the matter; how pale you look; can't I get you something? You look as if you needed a good, warm sweat."

"No," replied her husband, "I'll be all right in a few minutes; it was the heat in that crowded car that nearly caused me to collapse; but I'm all right, all right now, my dear, perfectly all right and O. K. But for the love of Mike take that basket out in the yard and cache it under the currant bushes just over the fence in Robinson's yard."

But on the following day the eight bottles were recovered and did duty on the dinner table. But Jones-Smith has reformed and emphatically says, "Never again."

Grants Pass Boy Scouts Busy. GRANTS PASS, Or., Jan. 26.—(Special.)—The four patrols of Boy Scouts of Grants Pass were drilled Tuesday night in the Presbyterian Church by the mothers of boys from that church.
