ordinarily interesting, aside from the fact that it is the means of bringing together many old friends who never attend a social function from one visiting nurse tea to another. In order to make this year's benefit a bigger and more embracing function invitations have been exceeded to hundreds of Pertiameders outside of the membership. This year's tea also has a patrictic angle, as the visiting nurses are husy taking care of many families of soldiers, their new babies and other children, so that in contributing to the annual tea for the Visiting Nurse Association the seldiers and sallors along them to are being assisted in having their families taken care of.

Mrs. Depaid Spencer is chairman of the social committee and she is being assisted by Mrs. Korrison, Mrs. J. D. Honeyman, Mrs. S. C. Kerr, Miss Katherine Glie and Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbers.

This is the only affair that the Visiting Nurse Association has given or been connected with this year, and they urge all their friends to rally to the cause and give generously of their financial assistance, as well as attend-ing the Valentine tea.

Miss Ruth Teal's luncheon was one Miss Ruth Teal's luncheon was one of the pressiest functions of the week. It was given to honor Miss Alica Mac-Master, now Mrs. Reade M. Ireland, on Wednesday, at the Teal residence, and included the attendants of the bride, with a few additional friends. The table, artistic in appointment, was adorned with a big bowl of daffodlis and lavender-shaded primroses, corsage bouquets of the Amme blossoms marking covers for: Miss MacMaster. marking covers for Miss MacMaster, Miss Maisle MacMaster, Mrs. Hallett Maxwell, Mrs. Lovells D. The engagement of this popular and the couple was announced the The engagement of this popular and attractive couple was announced the latter part of last year, and since that time they have been entertained considerably though informally by their hosts of friends. The bride is one of the most charming and lovable of the debutante set in Portland society, and she is also an energetic war worker, an active member of the Junior League, leader of the Portland Honor Guard, an ardent outdoors girl, being especially fond of horseback riding, golf and tennis. Her infinite charm and graciousness has endeared her to both the older and younger contingents in this city and other cities that she has visited. She finished her education in Oldsfield, Maryland, and then spent a few years in a travel school in Paris. She has traveled extensively, both in Europe and in this country. Mrs. Ireland is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. MacMaster, a sister of Miss Maiste and Mrs. Katherine MacMaster Mason, who was unable to leave her post at Boston at the particular time. She is in the was unable to leave her post at Boston at this particular time. extended vacation.

Lieutenant Ireland is of a prominent family of Detroit, and for a time was stationed at Vancouver Barracks, being later transferred to American Lake. He is very popular with his regiment, and also in Portland's social circles. Missimisted MacMaster, who came down from American Lake the middle of the week to attend her sister's wedding, will return tomorrow to resume her duties at the Hostess House, where she has been circles for time and services for been giving her time and services for some months.

The wedding of Miss Evelyn Carey and Lieutenant Charles T. Donworth will be a notable event of this week, being scheduled for Tuesday evening at 8:30. It will be a simple home wedding and will be attended only by relatives and a few of the bride-elect's closest friends.

Miss Margaret Webber left last night, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. F. R. Webber, for San Francisco, where they will be joined by H. C. Capwell, father of Miss Webber's flance, Cebert Edwards Capwell. The party will sail from San Francisco for Honolulu, where the wedding of the young folk will be solemnized. Dr. Arthur van Dusen, of Astoria, who has entered the service in the medical department of the Navy at Bremerton, spent the week-end visiting in Portland as the guest of Norman Matschek.

George F. Judd, also of Asjoria, was a week-end visitor in Portland at the Multnomah Hotel.

Fellowing the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at Ardgour, the reception being limited to close friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. MacMaster received with the bridal party in the spacious hall, the Stars and Stripes, in a huge flag, draped at the back of the receiving line adding a distinct note of patriotism and military atmosphere to the reception. Mrs. MacMaster's gown was a charming affair, white satin covered with French-bius chiffon and embroidered with blue sequins. Her house Mrs. Joseph E. Greer entertained on Thursday with a Kensington tea, honoring her mother-in-law. Mrs. Harriet Bush Greer, of Walla Walla, who is visiting her for a few weeks. The afternoon was spent informally knitting and in chatter, the guests being old friends of the visitor.
