as well as the warm summer weather and accompany their mother East in the early fall.

Miss Florence Josephine Wolfe's engagement to Captain Jesse Ettelson, U. S. A., is announced and the news comes as a genuine surprise to Portland society. The wedding will follow almost immediately after the announcement, being set for tomorrow night. It will be a charming home function at the residence of the bride's father, Adolph Wolfe, in King street. The Wolfe family is one of the most prominent and oldest in Portland. Mr. Wolfe being the founder and president of Lipman, Wolfe & Company, one of the leading mercantile concerns of the Northwest.

The bride-elect is one of the most charming, graceful and attractive young maids in society. She is an unusually interesting and clever girl and always eager and generous in giving of her time and energy in philanthropic and war relief work. Miss Wolfe was graduated from the Portland Academy and later spent considerable time traveling abroad and on this continent.

Captain (Dr.) Ettelson is a well-known young specialist of this city, having practiced medicine here for some years. A year ago last June he went to New York to take a special course at the Vanderbilt clinic, and upon its completion he returned to New York for some time. He entered the Army last September. In the Medical Corps service, and is at present stationed with the base hospital in Camp Fremont, Cal. Dr. Ettelson was selected as chief of one of the services at the camp and he is very popular with the Army officers and men at the camp. Prior to taking up the practice of medicine here, Captain Ettelson studied with eminent physicians abroad, and he is deeply interested in his Army work.

The wedding tomorrow night will be attended by a few intimate friends of the couple and their relatives. Miss Wolfe's brother, George Wolfe, who is a sergeant in the Quartermaster's Department at Camp Fremont, will come to Portland this evening with Captain Ettelson to attend the marriage. Mr. Wolfe's younger daughter, Mrs. Edwin F. Neustadter, was married in 1916, and the ceremony also was solemnized at the home of the bride's father. It was an unusually beautiful and artistic wedding and was one of the notable events in Portland society.

Little Nellie Amelia Winch II has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Winch (Olive Felling). She has been named in honor of her paternal grandmother and made her advent Wednesday last. This wee bit of femininity is the cause for the shower of congratulatory messages and quantity of beautiful flowers that are finding their way to the Winch residence. Miss Winch is Mrs. Edward Felling's 22d grandchild and she numbers her relatives by the score in Oregon.

Miss Constance Clark, a charming and clever girl, daughter of an Army officer, who has spent her life in various Army posts and with Army people, was the house guest of Mrs. William MacMaster last week on route to American Lake where she has been appointed as director of the Hostess House. Miss Clark's home is now in California, but she has been in the East studying along the lines necessary to be an efficient director of a hostess house.

Captain George M. Brazier, of Camp Lewis, spent a few days last week in Portland. Lieutenant William N. Burdard also was a visitor over the week-end with his family.

Many Portlanders motored to Vancouver Barracks Tuesday afternoon to view the parade and attend the concert and speeches following in the park. Several of the Army officers entertained groups of friends at meals, among them being Lieutenant John Hayden, whose guests were: Mrs. N. E. Ayer, his fiancée, Miss Margaret Ayer and Miss Isabel Clark. Captain Eyer entertained Mrs. Alice Benson Beach and Major Sturrock who was the guest of honor for the day, Captain Davis, Lieutenant C. F. Dean and several other Portlanders at meals.

Honoring Miss Elizabeth Creadick, who will soon leave for France for canteen work among the Army men, in company with Miss Irene Daly, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gerlinger were dinner hosts Thursday night and a number of other affairs were given to compliment the patriotic young maid. Mrs. Folger Johnson and Johnson, Susan Smith, hostesses for a novel and charming party in her honor Wednesday evening at the Smith residence.

The guests, numbering 22, were requested to attend the party prepared for an ocean voyage. They found the Smith residence converted into a steamer with decanter, deck chairs and all the accessories of a large ocean liner were in evidence. Deck games, music and dancing around the deck were the diversions of the evening. Refreshments were served a la steamer fashion, also, and the entire affair proved one of the most interesting and delightful of the season. Mrs. Donald Spencer was hostess for a motor trip on the highway Friday, followed by a luncheon at Forest Hall, in honor of Miss Creadick.

A large and elaborate Red Cross benefit is being arranged by the British Red Cross Society for the Oregon British dependents' fund. The affair will be given Tuesday, May 7, at the Lincoln High School auditorium and it is being arranged and staged by Mrs. A. E. Browne, the former of whom is Vice-Consul at the British Consulate, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Carter. The program will include several musical and dance specialties, light comedy, a sketch by Mrs. Mable Holmes Parsons, of the U. of O., which will feature Mrs. Eleanor Sanford Large, of this city.

All the attractions will be given by local persons and among the other numbers on the program will be: Interpretative dancing by Miss Janet Griffith, pupil of Miss Jean Wolf; songs by George Wilber Reed; songs by Miss Kate Smith, accompanied by Connel Harry L. Sherwood; Hawaiian selections by the Misses Cunningham and Paul Lewis; song story and mimicry by J. Carter; Spanish dances, by Mrs. Browne, and a tableaux of the allied nations, posed by prominent Portland belles.

The patronesses are: Mesdames A. W. Payne, Holmes Parsons, William J. Fane, W. L. Platt, S. May, J. C. Robinson, Thomas Kerr, Marguerite Doseh Joseph, Harry L. Sherwood, William MacMaster, W. J. Burns, James Laidlaw, Frederick Malpas, James J. Panten, E. T. C. Stevens, B. W. Hastings, Folger Johnson, Hubert Morton, F. E. Mrs. Brooks formerly lived in Seattle, and she has hosts of friends there, by whom she has been extensively entertained. She also is very popular in Portland society, and a number of informal affairs will be given in her honor.

Miss Ruth Teal and Miss Esther Tucker are spending the week-end in Tacoma with the latter of the latter. They will attend the wedding of Miss Twenty-five dollars is a mighty low price for suits like these! Had they not come in a very special purchase, they'd sell for ever so much more. You'll appreciate their unusualness the minute you see them.

Most of them are of navy blue serges, but there are other colorings, too, for those who like them best. They're all splendidly tailored.

Styles? There are ever so many of them—some tailored, others semi-tailored, though the most popular, perhaps, are gracefully flared.

One clever model has wide collar and vest of a rough novelty weave—others have vests of poplin or pique. Buttons play an important trimming part, as well. Plan to come suit-buying Monday on the Martha Wagner, which will be an event of this week.

Miss Mildred Meyer, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Meyer, will become the bride of Jack Winkler, of Seattle, today at high noon at the residence of her mother at 1st Everett street. Dr. Jonah B. Wise will officiate, and the couple will be attended only by two little flower girls, Jane and Elma Boyer. The rooms will be decked prettily with a profusion of garden flowers and ferns. Only the immediate families and relatives will be present. Mr. Winkler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Winkler, of Seattle, and his brother, Cliff, came down for the ceremony.

The bride will wear a lovely gown of white Georgette crepe and silver lace and will carry a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley. She is an unusually clever and talented girl, her solo work in the two Kirmesses that Portland society still remembers with a great deal of pleasure attracting considerable attention in the dancing community. She has made a thorough study of dancing for a number of years, and she was one of the prominent members of the Kirmesses. The bride-to-be also is popular in Portland society, and she already has hosts of friends in Seattle, where she will make her home.

Mrs. Harold Hurlbut and infant daughter will return this week from the hospital to her home. Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbut's little daughter was born on the anniversary of their 12th wedding and the trio have since then been deluged with congratulatory messages and quantities of beautiful flowers.

Two of Portland's most attractive and younger members of society have chosen the same day for their weddings, June 15. Miss Jean Morrison will have a church wedding, and she will become the bride of Major John Caben Beatty, U. S. A., who is stationed at the Philadelphia Arsenal; the ceremony to be solemnized at 4 o'clock in Trinity Episcopal church, and Miss Ayer will become the bride of Lieutenant John Hayden, U. S. A., on the same day, in the evening.

Mrs. William Castleman and little sons, John Pryor and William, Jr., of New York, will spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Shea. They reached here early in the week, and Mrs. Castleman's numerous friends already are planning a number of delightful social functions in her honor. She is a charming and interesting young matron, and popular in Portland society.

Mrs. Pierre Rossiter Hines (Charlotte Brady Eichbaum) left Wednesday to join her husband, Lieutenant Hines, in Washington, D. C. He is a member of the 315 U. S. Engineers, recently moved to the East. Mrs. Peter Hines, mother of the bridegroom, came from her home in El Paso and accompanied
