Orders found on prisoners taken between the Ourcq and the Marne prove that the Germans have been instructed to hold out at all costs.

The Americans were in the thick of the fray north of the Marne, at Epleds, which village was recaptured by us after street fighting of the most violent description.

The village has twice changed hands. At the third attempt the Americans carried the position with vigorous spirit and established their lines well beyond it. The Germans withdrew in such haste that mounted patrols had to be brought into action to maintain contact with them. Prisoners say that the Germans are confining themselves to rear guard actions while preparing a new line of de-

The Americans are also playing a big role in the Jaulgonne region, where they made great progress yesterday

Clusters of dead Germans are seen all sides of big wheat-covered sunshine. The region, apparently, is deserted. A lone bird sings on a tree. "But the two artilleries seek each other, sweeping the roads, farmsteads and woods. When the roar ceases occasionally, it is as if one was transported suddenly to a calm sylvan retreat-then comes the odor of death.'

MOONEY GETS REPRIEVE

STAY OF EXECUTION UNTIL DECEM-BER 13 PROMISED.

Governor of California Announces Hi Decision, Adding New Chapter to Famous Case.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 27 .- Thomas J. Mooney, in "death row" at San Quentin Prison, under sentence to be hanged for murder in connection with a bomb explosion during a preparedness parade in San Francisco in 1916,

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Mooney was to have been hanged August 23. He was sentenced to death February 24, 1917, for the murder of Mrs. Myrtle Irene Van Loo, of Merced, Cal., who was killed by a bomb explosion here in a preparedness day parade, July 22, 1916. Nine other persons lost their lives and 40 were injured.

President Wilson, after receiving a report on the case from the War Labor Policies Board, communicated twice with Governor Stephens. The second communication, it was announced from has been fighting to gain time with a view of sacrificing as little as possible in the course of his retreat.

Unquestionably there is considerable confusion in the German lines between the Ourcq and the Marne. In Chatlet wood alone, prisoners have been taken from 15 different regiments, a fact that indicates the state to which the pairs. communication, it was announced from Washington, urged another trial for Mooney, against whom seven other indictments for murder are pending. a good view on this point an amazing spectacle was witnessed of German local demoralizing which I can repeat with confidence because it was told me by a French officer who witnessed it. French shells were observed failing among the German troops. Each time a shell fell among them they bolted for cover, sometimes in one direction, sometimes in another. Four on five times the officer saw men being beaten back into position by officers with clubs.

AT THE FRENCH FRONT, July 26.

The French actually made an advance of nearly five miles from Challet wood to Beauvades on Thursday, but they had before them to the north a point of resistance strongly defended by machine guns and some artillery in Bruyerts.

From an observation post that gave a good view on this point an arrangement was under the motor of the United States army, who was driving, also lost his life. Picard's home was in Worcester, Mass. The officers were returning from a visit with friends at Tyrone and Silver City when the accident occurred.
