

MYRON WILSEY WINS MARATHON SWIM

Bill Stempel, Also of Winged-M Ranks Finishes Second, Just 12 Seconds Behind.

ONLY 10 SWIMMERS START

Hosford, Favorite, Was Led All Way—Three Mermaids Participate, Finishing in Creditable Time, Irene Pembroke First.

BY JAMES J. RICHARDSON.

When Myron Wilsey, of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, swam back and forth across the Willamette River yesterday, a distance of 900 yards, in 13 minutes and 35 seconds, he was just 12 seconds ahead of his nearest rival, Bill Stempel, also of the winged "M" institution, and finished 27 seconds in front of O. J. Hosford, and won the annual Willamette River marathon which was a much abbreviated affair this year compared with the usual three-mile distance which has been the feature of the big river classic on past occasions.

Ten swimmers faced Starter Frank E. Watkins on the float at Kellogg's bathhouse and "showed off" at 2 o'clock to a good start. Seven of the entrants were men, which number was augmented by three of the winged "M" mermaids, all of whom finished the race.

Day Ideal for Swimming.

It was an ideal day for the big water event. The river was calm, a few puffs of wind now and then only serving to keep the multitude which crowded the Hawthorne bridge and surrounding docks in a rather pleasing frame of mind. Shortly after the swimmers started away it rained for a few minutes and then stopped, and when Wilsey crossed the finishing line Old Sol was beaming down on the crowd in all his glory.

There was huge disappointment among the spectators when only 10 swimmers took the starting mark. The absence of Frank Kierman, who won the 1917 long-distance event and who was regarded as a contender for this year's honors, was commented on. No reason was given for his failure to enter.

Wilsey's winning of yesterday's big event was a surprise. Hosford, who won the long-distance event last year, was thought by those who closely follow the aquatic performances of the swimmers participating to have the race all sewed up, but he finished third.

Stempel leads in first half. Stempel led the swimmer until about 10 feet from the turning point on the east side of the river, when Myron Wilsey spurred and turned first for the finishing stretch by across the river. O. J. Hosford was a fairly close third all the way across the river. On the return Hosford threatened to overtake Stempel, who was leading, but his efforts proved unequal to the task, and Stempel maintained second place to the finish, Wilsey finishing first.

Harry Eddas, who has been entered in all the river marathons for the past four years and who always failed to "show off," gave the boys a thrill yesterday when he started and finished fourth. Eddas and Bob Engstrom, who finished fifth, put up a beautiful race in the center of the river on the home stretch, Eddas finally forging ahead and finishing fourth.

Girls' Time Creditable. Irene Pembroke was the first of the women swimmers to cross the finishing line. She swam the distance in 17 minutes and 35 seconds, but her creditable performance. Virginia Pembroke was second and Thelma Payne finished third. The three girl swimmers finished ahead of St. Seymour's entrants. Eddas and Bob Engstrom, who finished fifth, put up a beautiful race in the center of the river on the home stretch, Eddas finally forging ahead and finishing fourth.

Emil Vojdarsky, who planned on entering the race, arrived on the scene after the swimmers had entered the water. He climbed into his water goggles, accompanied by a canoeist, set out across the river and covered the distance in good time. He was one of the last three entrants. He might have given the winner a tussle had he started with the other swimmers. How they finished.

Myron Wilsey, M. A. C. first, time, 13:35; Bill Stempel, M. A. C. second, 14:51; O. J. Hosford, M. A. C. third; Harry Eddas, M. A. C. fourth; Bob Engstrom, M. A. C. fifth; Bill Smith, M. A. C. sixth; Irene Pembroke, M. A. C. seventh; Virginia Pembroke, M. A. C. eighth; Thelma Payne, M. A. C. ninth, and St. Seymour, tenth.

Coaching by Negro Ball-player Too Much.

Army Officer After Hot Roasting Tells Colonel Private He Is "Just Plain Captain."

In the front-line trenches in France a N town some distance back from ball game was arranged by the Y. M. C. A. war work secretaries. With about 800 men to select from, the promoters managed to get two pretty good teams together. Officials and privates were among the players. One of the best players was a Captain, who ordinarily is the soul of dignity and reserve. On the same team with him was a black negro, who manages a team of his own in Mobile, Alabama. In view of the fact that considerable money was at stake and that the play was likely to require excellent team work, it was agreed that all formalities should be put aside for the period of the game; in other words, that the people should be called by their first names. There were some familiarities, but none startling until the eighth inning, when the Captain, on first base, started for third on a short hit. The black ducky was coaching at third, and his heart was in the game. The run the Captain might get was vital. So, the Captain, sprinting as swiftly as he could, was plunging toward third, the ducky was shouting at the top of his voice:

"Come on there, you kid! Come on there, you rabbit. Come on, come on—just at that moment the Captain tripped and rolled in a cloud of dust. There was still time to make it if he rose quickly. The negro, gathering the full power of his lungs, yelled:

"Come on, you; come on, you big stiff, you mud hen; what are we paying you for?" Out of the dust cloud rolled the Captain safely to third. He put up his hand to cast the game for a moment. Then, brushing dust from his clothes and panting for sufficient breath for the Brobdingnagian utterance he was about to make, he said to the negro:

"Jim, listen to me and listen good. From this moment on it's Captain. Do you understand English? Captain. Just plain Captain!"

WINNER OF WILLAMETTE RIVER RACE AND FIRST GIRL TO FINISH.

CAMP CHANGES OUT

Military Work to Continue at Agricultural College.

TRANSFER RULES AT HAND

Regular Courses at Land Grant Institutions to Be Stronger Than Ever Before—Rights to Have Protection.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Plans for transferring students from the R. O. T. C. to the Students' Army Training Corps, maintaining their rights previously earned and providing for the fulfillment of the purposes of the orders creating the students' army, have been received by President Kerr from the War Department. Provisions for continuing the regular military instruction conducted by the college as one of the land-grant institutions were included.

Students here who took the basic R. O. T. C. courses last year and are entitled to membership in the advanced courses this year, will be granted the equivalent of the commutation of subsistence allowed under the former organization, amounting to $9 a month. They will also receive full uniforms of hat and cord, leggings, shoes, shirt, blouse, breeches and overcoat, instead of being limited to $14 as commutation as at present.

No opportunity to gain entrance to officers' training camps will be lost by R. O. T. C. men transferring to the students' army. It is thought that their chance for acceptance will be improved, for selection will be made only on the basis of merit, and the more intensive training will give them an advantage in the Army Corps.

Land-grant colleges would meet the Government specification for universal military training by establishing the students' army, but "to meet the special situation which exists in land-grant colleges in which military instruction is compulsory," adjustment will be made. The usual amount of basic military instruction will be open to all students of whom it is required. The Oregon Agricultural College will profit by this adjustment and conduct its regular courses in military science for students under 18 years of age and others who do not enlist in the Students' Army Training Corps or in technical and mechanical groups of United States soldiers in training at the college.

The regular courses will be stronger than ever before, because of the increased facilities for doing the work. In addition to the commandant and his staff, 15 commissioned officers of the U. S. Army will be on the ground to drill the 800 soldiers in technical training. Drill periods for these regular soldiers and for the students in the Students' Army Training Corps will be distinct from the drill periods of the students not joined to either, who will thus have the advantage of the larger personnel.

NEWEST CLAIMANT OF WORLD'S HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP TITLE.

JACK DEMPSEY, WHO KNOCKED OUT FRED FULTON IN 1913-15.

Here is the fighting face and poise of Jack Dempsey, the latest sensation of the prize ring and who can now lay claim to the heavyweight championship of the world by reason of Jess Willard's recent announcement of retirement.

At Harrison, N. J., recently Dempsey knocked out the esteemed Fred Fulton in 13-2 seconds after the bell started them on their what was intended for an eight-round bout. A kip-tearing fight, he is said to have the same qualities of Stanley Ketchel and Terrible Terry McGovern combined.

Fulton has offered no alibi or excuse for his quick and disastrous defeat. He speaks well of his conqueror's prowess and to date there has been no mention of a return bout.

CLEMONSON TROPHY OPEN FOR GOLFERS

Generous Gift Likely to Stimulate Interest Among Recognized Clubs.

COMPETITIVE PLAY IS PLAN

Details as to How Cup May Be Won Have Been Left With W. D. Scott, Who Has Called Meeting for Tuesday Night.

John G. Clemons, president of the Portland Golf Club, has donated a beautiful trophy to be known as the Clemons trophy and which will be open for play by any of the three recognized golf clubs in Portland.

This latest act of Clemons, who is one of the most ardent boosters of the royal ancient game in Portland and the Northwest, will be gratefully received by golf devotees who have long felt the want of just such a trophy, which will help bring the members of the three big golf clubs into competition against each other.

Mr. Clemons has left all details connected with how the cup may be won with W. D. Scott, chairman of the handicaps committee of the Portland Golf Club, who has called a meeting for next Tuesday night, at which time representatives from the Portland Golf Club, Waverley Country Club and Tualatin Country Club, will arrange the terms of play for the Clemons cup. Speaking of the recent donation by Mr. Clemons, W. D. Scott, of the Portland Golf Club, said yesterday: "I am sure that this latest generous offer of Mr. Clemons will be appreciated by the members of the three Portland clubs. He has given the trophy with absolute no strings attached to it, and is leaving its manner of permanent possession to representatives of the three clubs."

While nothing has been said regarding how many times the cup must be won before it becomes the permanent property of any club, it is said on good authority that it will be suggested at Tuesday's meeting that it must be won at least three times.

There will be a men's handicap tournament at Waverley this morning, according to an announcement by Chairman W. E. Pearson, of the handicaps committee. On account of the large number of Waverley Club members sojourning in the vicinity of the country resorts, it has been a difficult task to line players up for the different events scheduled at Waverley during the month of months. About October 1 there will be a heavy schedule of fall tournaments announced.

Play has been quite brisk on the Municipal course in Eastmoreland during the last few weeks. According to Superintendent of Parks Keyser, the golfers are taking advantage of the new public links and are favorably impressed with the condition of the fairway and greens. Golf clubs can be rented and the clubhouse at the club house, and a green fee of 25 cents is all that bars anyone from playing on the recently completed nine-hole course.

Portland Motorboat Club Notes. BY CASEY. THE Paradise cruise was made last Saturday and Sunday. The Flagship Artisan, Commodore Boost, went down by way of Willamette slough.

Many people have asked how Paradise came by its name. It was several years ago when a cruise was made by the club to St. Helens. A few days previous Commodore Post suggested we provision the Artisan for a two weeks' cruise, take our families, and instead of returning home from St. Helens with the other boats, run up Lewis River and cruise. It was done, and Sunday afternoon we left St. Helens and went up the east fork of Lewis River about two miles above La Center and landed. The next morning very early the Commodore and I started up the river, whipping the rifles for trout, and it was late in the evening before we returned. Arriving at the boat we found her name had been changed to Mosquito Prison, and the women on a strike. No dinner would be served until another berth was found free from mosquitoes. It was then we remembered a place we used to admire some 25 years previously as we rounded a bend in the river when employed on the old steamer Isabel, so the Artisan was dropped down there and we ate. The next day women named the spot Paradise Point, and we spent a happy 10 days there.

Captain J. O'Brien and Pilot Moore wandered off up the North Fork trying to find Paradise Point. A friendly housewife a mile or so up the river put them right, and they landed at the point without mishap. Captain O'Brien said when he passed the East Fork he thought it was a small trout stream. Besides Captain O'Brien and Operator Moore, the Niagara carried a "fair" passenger list. One of them, Sissy by name, fell overboard late in the evening while trying to go aboard, but after we held her before the big bonfire for an hour she fell asleep in our lap and forgot her troubles. Sissy, by the way, was the little English bull mascot.

On account of the mallow water at Paradise Point, Commodore Boost ordered the pilot to land the Artisan bow on and stationed First Officer Chester Waters on the after-deck to heave the day anchor overboard when the pilot gave the signal, so as to keep her from swinging with the tide. The signal was given and Chester heaved. He and Carl Johnston spent the next few hours grappling for the anchor. Chester now knows that the ring on the end of an anchor is to tie a rope in.

Levy Thornton, the 18-year-old son of Mr. Thornton, who owns Paradise Point, is the owner of a fine new motorboat. In recognition of the many courtesies extended to the club by the Thornton family in recent years, it was with a great deal of pleasure the club at the trustees' meeting last Wednesday evening made Levy an honorary member.

George Kelly, trustee and straw boss of the club, ran up against a limit on the law Wednesday evening while returning home with a bottle concealed in a suitcase. The only thing that saved George from a night in jail was the fact the bottle contained gasoline. After trustee's meeting at the club, Commodore Boost was assisting Kelly home with some traps he had left at the club after some cruise and among them was a suitcase. In front of Kelly's home the two were "chewing the rag" about club affairs when an officer appeared and seized the suitcase. They looked suspicious. No one who knows them blames the officer.

Captain Jess West, one of our old members, who is towing on the Lewis River, anchored off the Point Saturday night and attended the evening blow-down and the concert. Jess and Mildred H. have always attended the Lewis River cruises and he dropped a note 10 miles away to attend this year.

Captain Southwick took the Negare up the East fork after dark and proved himself a first-class pilot, as he didn't find bottom once.

The 12 P. M. Captain Hinkley, arrived at the Point at 6 P. M. The yawl Wauna, Captain Todd, left the club Friday evening and sailed to the mouth of Lewis River, where she was picked up by the 12 P. M. and towed to the Point.

CATHLAMET, Wash., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Wahkiakum County is to have 25,000 cutthroat trout, according to a letter received this week by Lew Fitch, chairman of the Wahkiakum County Game Association, from State Fish Commissioner L. # RUSSELL DEFEATS VANCOUVER STAR

Holder of Washington State Tennis Championship to Defend Title Today.

MANSELL-SMITH OPPONENT

Sara Livingstone, State Champion, and Mayme McDonald, Northwest Titleholder, to Meet in Finals.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Sam Russell, holder of the Washington State singles championship, again will play for that honor tomorrow afternoon as a result of his defeat of Mercer, the Vancouver entrant, today at the Seattle Tennis Club. The score was 6-4, 6-2, 5-0. His opponent will be Mansell Smith, also of Seattle, the latter qualifying for the final round by defeating Brandt Wickersham, of Tacoma, this afternoon, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, 6-7.

A match which is attracting even more attention than the men's event will be played off Sunday, when Sara Livingstone, present champion, and her old rival, Mayme McDonald, Northwest champion, meet in the finals for the women's title.

Mercer Easily Eliminated. These two Seattle women went into the final round Saturday by defeating Gertrude Schreiner and Mrs. Cushing, respectively. Miss McDonald noosing out the latter after one of the hardest matches of the tournament.

In his defeat in the semi-finals of the men's singles, Mercer, the Vancouver star, never seemed to get started. Russell romped through the match with everything his own way. Russell played his service with deadly accuracy and scored numerous aces, and unlike his usual tactics, did not depend on his forehand drive to any great extent, most of his points being won on finely executed backhand placements.

Women's Singles Exciting. In the women's events a great match was that between Mrs. Cushing and Mayme McDonald, the local star winning in three sets.

In the women's doubles Miss Livingstone and Mrs. Bragdon won handsily from Miss Wheaton and Mrs. Cushing, the steadiness of the local team being the undoing of the visitors. The match was a three-set affair, the last and deciding set being 6-4.

White and Wright, the juniors from east of the mountains, took Lawrence Brown and Wabarashek into camp in straight sets, the local team not playing up to their usual standard.

Phil Neer Loses Out. However, the Spokane-Idaho combination played pretty tennis, and their victory was well earned. White's overhand serve, being especially clever, was the key to their success.

In the junior events Will White, of Spokane, went into the finals by defeating Phil Neer, of Portland, in a hard match, 2-6, 6-0, 8-7, 5. White will play Bob Wabarashek for the title tomorrow.

WOMEN'S GOLF EVENTS OFF

Tacoma Club Feminine Members Too Busy With War Work.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—Women's golf events at the Tacoma Country Club have been abandoned for the remainder of the season and possibly until after the war. Women have been so busy with war work that they have had no time to devote to golf. While they realize the importance of recreation they are seeking it between times and have paid little attention to out-of-door games.

Because of this condition, Mrs. William Jones, women's captain, has decided to abandon the sport for this summer, at least, and the handsome trophies which were up for season play will be held at the club until the matches can be played off finally.

FAST BALL GAME EXPECTED Seattle All-Shipyard Team to Play Service Stars Again.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 10.—(Special.)—In order to give more fans a chance to attend, the return game between the all-shipyard club and the Service Stars has been set for next Sunday.

Ever since the Seattle shipbuilders nosed the Arm and Navy players out in their great 20-inning battle at the Carnival, the fans have been clamoring for another chance to see the same clubs in action. The Service men, believing they can turn the tables this time, have been more than eager to play the game over, while the shipyard stars are perfectly willing to give their rivals another chance.

From all indications the same pitchers will meet when the game opens next Sunday. Walter Mello, who pitched great ball in the last contest, is scheduled to start again for the shipyard club, while McKenry is expected to oppose the Seattle man.

Tilden, Jr., of New York, recent winner of the clay court title at Chicago.

CLUB TOURNEY STARTS

EXCITING MATCHES STAGED ON LAURELHURST COURTS.

Ray Chapman Defeats H. V. Cate in Hard Sets—Dr. Tracey Parker is Beaten by J. T. Friedl.

The opening round of the Laurelhurst Club handicap tennis tournament was played yesterday afternoon on the Laurelhurst Club courts. H. V. Cate and Ray Chapman played in the most exciting match of the day, the latter finally winning in three hard sets, the last set going for 20 games, Chapman coming out on the long end, 11-9.

J. T. Friedl defeated Dr. Tracey Parker in straight sets in another sensational match, the second set going to 24 games.

Mrs. Ray Chapman and Hazel Smith staged a fine three-set match, the stellar playing of the former being a feature of the last set, however, was in doubt until the very last. Newton Brinkman defeated K. Ketenhofen in two straight sets, 6-1, 6-0. C. Trumbull also easily disposed of H. C. Huston, winning the two sets, 6-2, 6-1. S. Rodgers defeated E. J. Davidson in two sets, 6-2, 6-3.

The drawings for the mixed doubles, women's doubles and men's doubles have not been completed as yet, but they will be published tomorrow. All the matches in the men's and women's singles were played. Some of the junior matches that were not played probably will be played off tomorrow.

Women's singles—Mrs. Ray Chapman beat Hazel Smith, 6-3, 8-6, 8-4.

COLLEGES SHELVE FOOTBALL

Several Eastern Schools to Abandon Game This Fall.

BOSTON, Aug. 10.—An indication that many colleges have decided to eliminate football this fall was given in a statement issued here today by Charles R. Cox, graduate manager of athletics of Georgetown University, Washington. Mr. Cox announced that Georgetown would have no eleven this year because of the number of institutions on its schedule which had canceled games. Colleges that have canceled are: Fordham University, Carlisle Indian School, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Agricultural and Mechanical College, Raleigh, N. C.; Randolph and Macon College, Richmond College and University of Detroit.

Protection.

A newly married friend of ours from the East, now an officer in the United States Army, stationed at Camp Lewis, informed his better half the other day that he had been assigned to guard duty.

"Now, dear," she replied, "be sure and take a soldier along with you so if anything should happen."
