EIGHT GESE LIMIT IN ONE DAY'S HUNT

Recent Restrictions on Waterfowl the Result of Treaty Signed by President.

DUCK CATCH IS REDUCED

United States and Great Britain Agree to Close Season for Ten Years on Number of Migratory Game Birds.

BY JAMES J. RICHARDSON.

Duck and geese hunters in Oregon and Washington who have visions of being able to step out bright and early in the morning when the season opens and bag 80 of the waterfowl in one day, as has been the custom—with some hunters—in seasons past, are in for a rude awakening.

In the future the hundreds of scattered hunters who annually visit the Upper Columbia River islands in the vicinity of Arlington will be allowed to bag only eight geese in any one day or thirty in seven consecutive days. The Honeymoon family, Dick Carlson and a score of other well-known shooters have taken aim at thousands of wild geese that annually congregate near Arlington and usually bagged the limit in one day.

It is doubtful if these marksmen will be contented with blasting away at eight geese in one day and then calling it quits. Duck hunters who donned the oilskins and high-top rubber boots and, secluded in a blind or boat, all night will be allowed to bag 25 ducks instead of 20 in one day. If they have any further desire to linger on the marshes or duck lakes one day longer to bag the extra five ducks allowed by the state in seven consecutive days—that is their business and not ours.

Treaty Signed by Wilson. The new limit on waterfowl is the result of the treaty act signed July 3 by President Wilson, and is an act to give effect to the convention between the United States and Great Britain for the protection of migratory game birds concluded at Washington August 16, 1916.

The Oregon duck limit is 30 in seven consecutive days. The new Federal law supersedes the state law, hence the change. The bag limit on geese is reduced from 20 to 8 in one day. According to the treaty a closed season for 10 years has been agreed on by the high contracting powers on the following migratory game birds: Band-tailed pigeon, little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlew and all shorebirds (except the black-breasted and golden plovers, Wilson or tailed pigons, woodcock and the greater and lesser yellowlegs).

In the new act 18 species of migratory non-game waterfowl are protected indefinitely. They are the ducks, auks, aukslets, bitterns, filmans, gannets, grebes, gullinets, gulls, herons, jaegers, loons, murrets, petrels, puffins, shearwaters and terns.

Migratory Birds Protected. Migratory game birds specified in the treaty may be taken during the open season with a gun, only not larger than 10-gauge, fired from the shoulder. They may be taken during the open season from the land and water, from a blind or floating device (other than airplane, powerboat, or any boat under sail), with the aid of a dog and the use of decoys.

In that portion of Oregon and Washington lying east of the summit of the Cascade Mountains the Federal open season on waterfowl (except wood duck, elder ducks and swans), coot, gallinules, Wilson snipe or jacksnipe shall be from September 15 to December 31.

Rails, coot, gallinules, black-bellied and golden plovers and mourning and white-winged doves may be taken each day from half an hour before sunrise to sunset during the open season by the means and in the numbers permitted in the act.

The Federal season for mourning and white-winged doves in Oregon shall be from September 1 to December 15.

Federal Law Supersedes. A person may take in any one day during the open Federal seasons prescribed by the act not to exceed the following numbers of migratory game birds:

Ducks (except wood ducks and elder ducks)—Twenty-five in the aggregate of all kinds.
Geese—Eight in the aggregate of all kinds.
Brant—Eight.
Rails, coot and gallinules—Twenty-five in the aggregate of all kinds.
Black-bellied and golden plovers and greater and lesser yellow legs—Fifteen in the aggregate of all kinds.
Wilson snipe or jacksnipe—Twenty-five.
Woodcock—Six.
Doves (mourning and white-winged)—Twenty-five in the aggregate of both kinds.

The migratory game birds mentioned above, legally taken, may be transported in or out of the state in a manner, but not more by one person in one calendar week than the number that may be taken under these regulations; but not to exceed five days, necessary to deliver same to their destination, but no such birds shall be transported from any state to or through another state contrary to the laws of the state in which they were taken or from which they are transported.

According to section 7 of the treaty, states may enact laws for further protection of the Federal laws specify. States can reduce the bag limit or length of seasons, but are powerless to lengthen it past the mark set by the treaty.

FEW HUNTERS AFTER DEER

Reports Have Big Game Plentiful in Southern Part of Oregon.

Although authoritative reports from Southern Oregon have reached Portland that deer are plentiful in that section of the state, only a few hunters have started in quest of the fleet-footed animals.

E. A. Parsons, well-known Portland insurance man, left yesterday for the south fork of the McKenzie River, accompanied by a party of San Francisco and Seattle insurance men. They expect to bag the limit without any trouble.

ALBANY MAN GETS FIRST DEER

Bringing In Buck. ALBANY, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special.)—The first deer killed in Linn County at the opening of the season was shot by J. D. Irvine, of Brownsville, County Commissioner of Linn County. He won the same honor at the opening of the season last year.

The open season for deer began yesterday morning and at 6 o'clock Irvine killed a buck on Gordon Range, about six miles from Upper Soda, where he has hunted for many years. This was probably the first deer bagged in the state this season. Though Mr. Irvine got his first deer very early he was an hour behind last year's record, for then he killed a deer at 5 o'clock in the first morning of the open season.

POINTERS ON DOGS GIVEN

BREED AND SEX MUST BE CONSIDERED IN SELECTION.

Picking Canine for Field Mark Involves Careful Regard for Characteristics of Various Kinds of Animals.

Two twin-factors must be considered in selecting a shooting dog. One is the breed and the other is the sex. In the matter of breed the shooter can decide for himself after comparing the merits of the most popular species. For the young sportsman the pointer and the Laverack English setter are splendid companions. Either one of these breeds will do splendid work with less scientific handling than is usually required to gain the same desirable results in other strains and breeds.

The modern Laverack is a good-natured and responsive dog and one that is quick to point. The Gordon setter is also suitable for the inexperienced shooter. While the characteristics of the Gordons are considered as rather self-willed, they are by no means wild to range and are very sure on single birds in heavy cover.

The male dog is usually the best. The female usually shows best in early work, is quicker, but the male dog trains up better and develops the finest head.

PENDERGAST CHAMP 4 TIMES

Successive Victories and High Score Probably Never Equaled.

Trapshooting champion of New York State for four successive years—that is the record of H. J. Pendergast, Phoenix, N. Y., a record that few men if any can equal when the scores are taken into consideration. Mr. Pendergast broke 100 clay targets straight in 1916 and in 1917.

In 1915 Mr. Pendergast scored 97 clay out of 100 shot at in the New York State tournament. His score in 1916 was 100 straight targets, using a Remington pump gun and Nitro Club shells in both shoots. In 1917 he repeated his 1916 score and in the 1918 shoot broke 99 out of 100 clays, shooting Nitro Clubs at both tournaments.

Another trapshooter to win a state championship four successive times is R. A. King, Delta, Colo., who has won the Colorado championship with the following scores: 1915, 98 targets; 1916, 100 straight; 1917, 99 targets; 1918, 98 targets, shooting Nitro Clubs at the last three tournaments. W. J. Weaver, Providence, R. I., has won the Rhode Island championship three successive times using Nitro Clubs and with the following scores: 1916, 95 targets; 1917, 97 targets; 1918, 93 targets.

Mr. Pendergast has distinguished himself in other ways. He is the individual to hold the Remington trophy, a bronze statue of Eliphalet Remington—maker of the first Remington rifle in 1816—contested for by the Remington Centennial celebration held at Ithaca, N. Y., in August, 1916. There were but 50 of these statues cast. Forty-eight were presented by the citizens of Ithaca to the organized militia of each state of the Union to become perpetual trophies for proficiency in marksmanship. One statue was won by Mr. Pendergast and the remaining statue was presented to the Remington Company.

Portland Motorboat Club Notes.

BY CASEY. Last Sunday the Artisan was turned over by Commodore Boost to Mr. Staples the jeweler, an old member of the club, who invited his employees and their friends on a cruise and picnic to Magoon's.

Frank Dayton during the week had the Rowena, a steel hulled runabout, in the hoist scraping her hull and applying a new coat of paint.

Milton Henderson returned last week from Cordova, Alaska, where he is interested in a cannery. It was with an expression of homesickness he looked at the open occupied by the Eldorado when he left for Alaska. During his absence she looked good to some one who wanted her and she silently stole away and is now towing logs of spruce somewhere in Oregon. They didn't even ask Milton about it but he says he wishes he had a dozen boats to give.

Commodore and Mrs. Boost are spending a week or two at Newport. During his absence we are captain of the Artisan. Our duties so far have been to keep the bligs free from water and we have to do it by hand as we don't know how to start the engine. Fine job.

The United States flag floating from the clubhouse is getting tattered and torn and is going to be replaced soon by a large new one.

Captain Arnold of the Yim, has just installed a set of new gears in her and fixed them out last Thursday.

The Independence, a six-cylinder excursion and work boat owned by the harbor owned by Captain Bicknell, one of our old members, is being overhauled at Ray's.

BOXING SHOWS IN SIGHT

Bouts Will Be Staged in Northwest Spruce Camp Under Direction War Community Service. Morris Lux Arrives.

BY JAMES J. RICHARDSON. Burton O. Greening, secretary of the local branch of the war camp community service, which is considering the advisability of staging money-making fit boxing shows in the different spruce camps and also at Portland and Vancouver, is in Astoria arranging for the first show which will be staged Labor day.

Mr. Greening's plan is to put on a 10-round bout, also a six and a four-round preliminary. Just who will go to make up the bouts has not been definitely decided, but the best available talent in these parts will be secured.

It is also planned to stage a boxing show for the benefit of the local soldiers' and sailors' club to be held about the middle of September.

The war camp community service, under the auspices of the local branch of Joseph Rayeroff at Washington, has taken similar action throughout the various cantonments and Mr. Greening's plan is to stage a boxing show in the manner of the first providing fistie entertainments for the soldiers is in keeping with the general policy of furnishing the khaki-clad warriors with the best of the big fistie show staged in Portland.

Billy Miske may be induced to come here if Dempsey cannot. Portland and Seattle boxers will also participate. The plans on foot for the first show in Portland will be to pit Dempsey against either Mick King or Frank Farmer, or Jimmy Darcy with Billy Miske, Joe Rivers and Mufi Bronson, Alex Trambitas and Morris Lux, the Kansas City lightweight, loom up like the romo of prize fighting.

It is said the local war camp community service committee assisting Mr. Greening has asked Corporal A. C. Ardis, better known to local fistie followers as Bobby Evans, to cooperate with them in their Portland show. Evans is stationed at Camp Fremont, and is better known to local fistie followers as Bobby Evans, to cooperate with them in their Portland show.

Evans is stationed at Camp Fremont, and is better known to local fistie followers as Bobby Evans, to cooperate with them in their Portland show.

After canvassing the matter thoroughly, the committee has decided that a percentage of the receipts will be set aside for the boxers participating. They figure that better bouts will result if the fighters are to receive a small way. Boxers, locally, are scarce, and besides, those experienced in the conduct of such affairs find that every one or better stoppage in the fight is definitely known that the boxers are to receive a "medal" of some sort rather than to pay some under the guise of "incurred expenses" and have the other boxers voluntarily giving their services, which always causes dissatisfaction. Under the plan of the local committee, each boxer participating will be allotted a small percentage of the receipts.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Club is in charge of the local branch of the war camp community service. Bob McAllister returned yesterday from Seattle, where he fared rather disastrously at the hands of Mick King, the bout being stopped in the first round. Bob had no excuses to offer except that he trained one day for the bout, Wednesday, the day he arrived from Camp Fremont, and fought King Thursday and fought King Friday night.

promised the soldiers at Fort Lawton that I would be hand to box for them," said Bob yesterday, "and although unavoidably detained in San Francisco, I made good even though I sacrificed my reputation by being unable to train. I expect to get King into a ring down here and reverse the decision. I'll be in perfect condition next week." McAllister will report at Vancouver tomorrow to assume charge of boxing at the spruce division.

Morris Lux, Kansas City lightweight, arrived in Portland yesterday looking for a ring argument. He is built on trim lines and is said to possess an awful kick. He will fight Lee Morrisey at Astoria Labor day.

VISITING VETERANS TO RACE

Several Grand Army Men Accept Challenge of Colonel Smith.

Colonel J. L. Smith, Detroit Grand Army man who claims distinction as a long-distance runner, and who has agreed to run five miles on Multnomah Field, next Wednesday, while 29 members of the Grand Army of the Republic race against him in relays of a quarter mile each, is going to have strenuous opposition from the manner in which the "young-old-fellers" are accepting his challenge.

Yesterday, George Wadsworth Hows, of Fort Huron, Mich., a member of the Fort Company K, 29th Michigan Infantry, and who says he is 75 years old, arrived in Portland and assumed charge of gathering the veterans to race Smith.

Mr. Hows raced against Smith at Detroit in 1914, and was the only man to beat him in the 10-mile relay, each runner doing a mile against Smith. "I'll beat Smith in my quarter next Wednesday," said Mr. Hows, yesterday, "and what is more I'll post $50 that I can make good in my assertion."

BILLIARD CHAMP IN CLASS A1

Willie Hoppe Advanced by Draft Board in New York. It is announced that Willie Hoppe, the balk-line billiard champion of the world, has been placed in class 1A of the current draft by his draft board in New York. Because of a wife and child, Hoppe had been placed in class 4A. It is said this board has decided to honor him in this classification. Whether the draft board's action is the result of the "work or fight" order could not be ascertained.

KING'S PLEA SAVES McALLISTER. San Franciscan Stands Off Mick for Two Rounds, but After That— SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 17.—(Special.)—Further details of the McAllister-King fight may make good sport reading in Portland if it is known that for a couple of rounds the San Francisco pugilist stood off the Australian and made a creditable showing. He scored several well-timed blows in the second frame, and his friends thought he was warming up to his old-time style of milling. But a few short-arm hooks from King's right to the face and stomach took all the fight out of the visitor, and from then to the end it was King's all by himself. The finish came in the middle of the eighth round. Plainly unable to go further, McAllister was leaning on the ropes in his corner with gloves protecting his face while Mick whipped rights and lefts as fast as he could swing. Turning to the referee King pleaded for the official to stop, the bout and save McAllister further punishment, and Whitman raised King's hand. The 4-year-old Maurice colt, Skyline, won a splendid race on the opening day of the Parkway meeting when he defeated the Hartford trotter, Mary Foran, in 2:12 3/4. This colt was bred at Walnut Hill Farm and is out of Kinglyne, a sister to Bingen, 2:06 3/4.
