Active and Leading Part in Patriotic Activities in State Is Planned.

ALL MEMBERS WILL SERVE

Porce of Ten Thousand in Oregon to Be Enlisted for Service in Campaigns Launched to Help Win War.

Oregon Elks are determined to take an active and leading part in patriotic activities in the state hereafter. Of-ficers of the State Elks' Association have formulated a campaign which will place Elks in the forefront in all patriotic drives from this time on.

The "War Activity Committee," on which every exalted ruler in the state will serve, has been instructed to lay plans now for all future patriotic endeavors. This committee was suggested in a resolution adopted at the annual convention of the Oregon State Elles' al convention of the Oregon State Elks' Association, held here in August.

Entire Membership Enlisted. Through this committee the entire membership of the Elks' lodges in the membership of the Elks' lodges in the state, numbering approximately 10,000, will be enlisted to push all war activities. The duties of the committee, as outlined in a letter sent to the exaited rulers of the state, by Dr. William S. Kennedy, president of the state association, will be to give active aid, through the membership of the subordinate lodges, to liberty loan drives, war savings stamp sales, Red Cross campaigns and all other activities that have to do with winning the war.

Other committees of the State Elks' Association appointed by President Kennedy to serve during the year are as follows:

GASOLINE BLAZE IS FATAL Hermiston Man Burned to Death Filling Auto Tank.

PENDLETON, Or., Sept. 28.—(Special)—F. A. Brunson, 33 years old, manager of the Fort Wayne Fruit Company at Hermiston and driver of the school bus, was burned to death at his home Friday night when gasoline with which he was filling the gas tank on his machine preparatory to the morn-ing's drive took fire. It is supposed that the fire came from a lantern which he was using.
His screams were heard at the house, but his wife thought they were the noise of some youngsters who had been playing there all the evening. When Mr. Brunson was found he was barely alive. Medical aid was called, but he was beyond recovery. He was constituted to make a verticing only long enough to make a verscious only long enough to make a ver-

For the past ten months Grace E. Hall has been contributing poems to The Oregonian which have attracted wide attention.

have attracted wide attention. Many people have written letters to her and to The Oregonian, which have been enthusiastic in the praise of her work.

Mrs. Hall was born in Illinois, of good old New England parentage. The acceptance and publication of a number of poems, which were written when she was a young girl, served as a beginning for a literary career. Later in a newspaper office in a small town, where she was employed as a reporter and mail clerk, she town, where she was employed as a reporter and mail clerk, she began to take a keen interest in newspaper work, in which she showed ability. For two years she served as a news editor of a Corvallis paper. As a pastime and as "art for art's sake," she began contributing poems to The Oregonian a few months ago. Her poems are about everyday life and tuths, which are written with a vital anality, which has won recogniquality, which has won recogni-tion and praise.

Mrs. Hall is fond of out-of-door life and spends a great deal of her spare time in hiking and picher spare time in hiking and pic-nicking. "I write when I feel like it and when the mood strikes me," she sald. "It requires but very little effort. I am very fond of literature, music and art." Mrs. Hall is prominent in the activities of Rose City Park, where she lives at 507 East Forty-ninth street North.

to stop the practice will now cease. After the latest vote showed 39 votes in favor of printing a memorial in full, with only 14 against, Senator Smoot, who has been the most ardent advocate of a restriction to the practice, said: "I want to give notice to the chair man of the committee on printing that hereafter I shall not object to requests hereafter I shall not object to requests to print in the Record. Let us notify the country that the Congressional Record is open to exploit the views of anyone upon any question."

The particular memorial upon which this vote was taken was one from officers of the National Livestock Association commending the report of the Federal Trade Commission on the packing industry. The vote of 29 to 14 was not an exact indication of the general policy of the Senate upon the question of printing petitions and memorials in the Record, for the communication of the National Livestock Association was the National Livestock Association was upon a subject that is receiving considerable public attention and, there fore, was of more public interest than most of the petitions which Senators ask to have printed in full.

Prompt Action Urged. The memorial commended the "fearless, constructive and convincing sumthe Congressional Record the full text mary of the report of the commission of petitions and memorials addressed to on the meat packing industry" and of petitions and memorials addressed to Congress or members of the Senate has been voted upon affirmatively several times lately and apparently the effort proposed by the Federal Trade Com-

Senator Smoot was chairman of the printing committee when the Repub-licans were in control. According to his statement he has given up the fight. Senator Smoot's objection in this case was not because of the particular sub-ject matter of the memorial. He has been objecting to all requests to print in full petitions or memorials from other than State Legislatures or other state authorities and Senator Fletcher, Democratic chairman of the printing committee, has followed his example. While most public discussion has been against the policy of printing large numbers of petitions and memorials in the Congressional Record, the discuson the floor of the Senate shows that there are two sides to the ques-

Argument of Economy Out. Against the practice of liberal publication is the argument of economy, condensation of the Record and maintenance of the dignity of what is supposed to be a record of the proceedings of Congress. In favor of the practice, it is said that the right to petition and memorialize Congress is guaranteed by the Constitution and that petitions that are merely received and referred to a committee and pigeonholed cannot be committee and pigoonnoied cannot be effective. Also it is asserted that when people take the trouble to get up a petition they usually have a subject matter worthy of being brought to the attention of members of Congress and that in order to make the matter available it must be published in the Record, where it can be found when worted where it can be found when wanted. The strongest argument advanced lately is that under the espionage act and the policy of the Administration in exercising control over the press, the floor of the Senate is the only place where absolute free speech is left, and the Congressional Record is the only publication where an American citizen can be sure of getting a hearing. Every time the executive depart-ments tighten the restrictions upon the press the Senate tends to look with more favor upon giving the public ac-cess to the Record.
