PEACH PIT DRIVE STARTED

Hood River Red Cross to Gather Carload of Material.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 12.—(Special)—As a result of the enterprise of Miss Elva Conklin, a teacher who suggested to the Junior Red Cross of the upper valley schools that enough peach pits be saved by the housewives of that community to manufacture a gas mask for every one of the upper valley boys for every one of the upper valley boys in service, the upper valley district will contribute to the Red Cross pit collection more than 8000 peach seeds.

The pit collection campaign, just inaugurated here by the Red Cross, it is estimated, will result in the gathering of more than a carload of the material to be used in gas mask manufacture. R. W. Kelly has offered warehouse space for the plts.
