SLOWLY the influenza ban is being lifted and society is preparing for a rush of larger affairs than they have considered for some months. As yet theaters are under the ban and all the affairs scheduled are "house parties" or "home functions." With Vancouver Barracks quarantine temporarily released, there was an incentive to arrange parties and merry groups of congenial folk assembled evenings for a bridge game, or an informal dance or musical.

Soon the united war work campaign will be in full swing and the recent compulsory abandonment of active Red Cross and war service, has served merely as an impetus to the approaching drive. Portland women and men are devoting their united energies and efforts to this big drive and they have been making extensive plans for the same during the past week. The enforced rest necessitated by the influenza ban will fill the workers for this stupendous drive with greater enthusiasm for the work mapped out by the heads of the various organizations interested.

Two brides-elect, Miss Paula Linn and Miss Fanny Chamberlain, have been the center of the greater part of entertainment the past week and this week also will be gala with pre-nuptial functions honoring the popular young girls.

So many Portland girls already have gone abroad in war service and still more are in New York awaiting orders to sail, that the ranks of belles is about equal to the depleted masculine list. Miss Irene Daly and Miss Sally Hart are in daily touch with each other in New York, both awaiting almost hourly, the arrival of their orders to sail. Several other prominent girls are deep in study of various sorts preparatory to going across and they are serious in the work they have chosen. Canteen at home and abroad vies with first-aid nursing, as well as trained nursing for first place and reconstruction aides also are there in great numbers.

Washington, D. C. boasts of a number of Portland women many of whom are doing men's work for the Government. This field is a favorite one for wives of Army officers overseas, as they consider they are in closer touch with first-hand information of the movements of the Army abroad, as well as being especially fitted for work in the Government offices.

One of the interesting events of the week was the dinner party presided over by General and Mrs. Erice P. Disque at their home in Twenty-second street. The table was adorned with pastel-toned flowers, and covers were placed for Colonel and Mrs. R. C. Hill, Captain and Mrs. Maurice E. Crumpacker, Lieutenants in the war Mrs. W. D. Clarke, Mr. Donovan, of Seattle, and the hosts.

Colonel and Mrs. Hill and baby daughter have returned to their home in Seaside, the former being in command of the Clatsop district. They have been in Vancouver Barracks for several weeks. Colonel Hill relieving Colonel Van War, who was East on business. During their sojourn in this section, Colonel and Mrs. Hill were entertained both in Portland and at the Post.

News of Portland girls is of considerable interest to their friends here, as most of them are actively engaged in war work or study for war service. Miss Helen Farrell and Miss Virginia McDonough are roommates at Miss Hopkins' school for French, and they are also deep in other studies which will benefit them in war work, reconstruction and in various other branches of service.

Miss Dorothy Strowbridge who has been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kerr in Tulsa, Okla., is now established in the Woman's Hospital at New York, taking a first-aid course. Miss Genevieve Brooke, who is making her home in New York, with her mother, Mrs. Edward H. Brooks, is taking up Red Cross work and, Miss Sally Hart, who has been studying reconstruction work in the metropolis for months past, is awaiting final orders from Washington to go overseas.

Mrs. Warren E. McCord and Mrs. Gustav von Eglstein who have been in the East for several weeks, returned to Portland Monday night.

Portland friends of Mrs. Phillip Sheridan (Isabel McGunagle) formerly of Vancouver Barracks, with an interest to hear of her return to San Francisco, where she is the guest of her father, Colonel McGunagle, at Angel Island. Captain Phillip Sheridan's death occurred a few months ago in Washington, while he was on duty. He was a grandson of General Sheridan of Civil War fame. Mrs. Phillip Sheridan, Sr., and Miss Sheridan accompanied Mrs. Sheridan, Jr., to the South, and they also are visiting Colonel McGunagle. The family is prominent in society in Washington as well as in the Army post at Angel Island and around San Francisco.

Miss Fanny Chamberlain and Horace Wilton Tevis will plight their troth on the evening of November 14, at Westminster Church. It will be a wedding of note in Portland society, owing to the prominence of both families. Miss Chamberlain's father, Senator George E. Chamberlain, has arranged his affairs at Washington so as to be here to give his daughter in marriage. Mr. Tevis is a son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Tevis, and he is manager for the Black Diamond Lumber Company.

of Winlock, Wash., where he and his bride will make their home.

The bride-to-be is being delightfully and extensively entertained with pre-nuptial compliments, and this week also will be notable for many affairs in her honor.

Mrs. Henry P. Davison was a distinguished visitor in Portland early in the week, and she was entertained by prominent women, who are actively engaged in the war work campaign to be launched here next month. Mrs. Davison is National chairman of the woman's committee for united war work, and she arrived on Wednesday, leaving the same evening for Seattle. During her stay here she was the house guest of her niece, Miss Marjorie McGuire, and she was the guest of honor for the luncheon presided over by Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett at her home, after which Mrs. Davison gave a short talk on the work of the campaign. Later she addressed another group of women at the residence of Mrs. Julius Louison, the large meeting originally planned being abandoned owing to the influenza quarantine.

At Mrs. Corbett's luncheon the guests were: Mrs. Davison, Mrs. Louison, Miss Carrie Holbrook, Miss Helen Barnes, Mrs. Allen Lewis, Mrs. W. H. Marshall, Mrs. J. D. Farrell, Mrs. William MacMaster, Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Mrs. William M. Ladd and Miss Failing.

Portlanders are making their usual early Winter trips to Southern climes, San Diego being a particularly popular section at the present time, owing to the proximity of the aviation, Army and Marine posts. War work among the women also is a special attraction, and all the Portland women who are in San Diego are taking an active part in the various duties. Among the recent arrivals at the U. S. Grant Hotel in San Diego are Mrs. C. Edward Grell, Mrs. W. B. Mackay, J. H. Henry, father of Mrs. Grell, and C. Hopkins.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Clara Moore and Clifton Howe Watson, which was announced early in the week, came as a great surprise. The news was to have been told by Mrs. J. Frank Watson, mother of the bridegroom-elect, at a large reception, but owing to the influenza ban
